THE SMARTEST FASHIONS OF WELL-DRESSED FOLK

The Violet Hunt

DEAR MADGE:

I am sitting at my desk with a huge bunch of violets before me and another bowl of the blossoms on the table. We went off yesterday on a violet hunt, and it was most successful.

The very sensible one of our party, Jane Baird, wore a stunning white norfolk suit of coarse linen. A red leather belt gave a touch of color to the costume, and the note was repeated in a bright-red sailor hat with a black-patent-leather band. There was a yoke effect on the jacket that gave a good smooth line at the top.

I must confess that the rest were dressed in different types of suits and frocks. Mabel Reed wore a pinkish lavender gingham dress trimmed with black and white striped bands. These were on the sleeves and in a curved band on the skirt. A slightly raised waist line was outlined by a cord.

Her sister Annabel wore a blue ratine tailored suit, with a very attractively slashed peplum on the little French coat. A high line was defined by a broad curved stitched strap that ended at the front under buttons. Black satin trimmed the pointed collar. The skirt was slashed at the side over black and trimmed with buttons and buttonholes. Stitching gave a tailored finish to the costume.

I put on my yellow linen for our trip. It had a bolero jacket with curved lower line, showing the lingerie blouse beneath. A frill of ecru net headed the top and one large linen button fastened the jacket. The sleeves had fullness at the armhole and were bell-shaped below lace frills.

To the tune of the birds was the murmur of a brook, and I may add that no one fell in and that our pretty frocks were none the worse for their trip to the woods.

Write to me, my busy one. Are you still entertaining Bob's cousin?

With love, ELEANOR

REVOLTS STIR PORTUGAL TO ACTION

Natives Rise in Malay Archipelago, China and Portuguese India.

Residents of Timor in Complete Revolution Against Home Country.

LISBON, May 18.—The government is greatly disturbed over revolts which have broken out at Timor (Malay Archipelago), Macao (China), Goa (Portuguese India) and Bié (Africa). The most important outbreaks are at Timor and Macao. According to official telegrams all the natives of Timor are in complete revolution against constituted authority. They number several thousand, and being of the Malay family, are described as very fierce and warlike. Many of them, however, are educated and both read and write Portuguese.

They are well armed with rifles and hand guns which were captured from the Portuguese troops. Their chief stronghold is at Manufae, situated in the heart of the mountains, some of which range as high as 5000 feet in altitude. They have, however, descended toward the coast and approached near to the capital, Dili, which at last accounts they were attacking. The Portuguese have already lost a considerable number of men and a number of civilians who were assisting the regular troops were also killed. The government has ordered a warship and an expedition of about 500 men with four field guns.

The Dutch government has sent several notes to Portugal protesting at the revolt on the ground that it is extending to Dutch territory. The Dutch are inclined to blame the Portuguese for the outbreak which they say results from the fact that the authorities have doubled the taxes which the natives are unable to pay. It is understood that Holland has made another proposal to purchase the Portuguese part of Timor, but it is entirely probable that Portugal will refuse the offer.

REBELLION IS SERIOUS.

The situation at Goa in India is scarcely better. The natives of Satoru have carried their rebellion to practically all the Portuguese territories. They have seized several Portuguese forts. As the troops were unable to resist the rebels, the natives had an opportunity to pillage and murder freely. Entire villages are described as smoking ruins. Hundreds of people have been killed or have disappeared. Women and girls have been seized in the villages/taken to the mountains and turned into domestics or slaves. The richest are held for ransom. The government is sending a punitive expedition of 200 men with six quick-firing guns, pointing out at the same time that it is impossible to send more because of the necessity of fitting out the expedition to Timor. Another difficulty in the way of sending out expensive expeditions is the heavy drag upon the treasury of the republic, whose condition does not permit of any considerable expedition.

With the colonial situation unsatisfactory, the internal political situation here is rapidly giving rise to many fears and people are openly talking of the possibility of a "coup d'état." The conservative party, under the leadership of Dr. António José da Almeida has declared open war on the government by the democratic party headed by Dr. Alfonso Costa. This struggle of parties is so acute that the government is continuing with great difficulty, and by the constitution parliament cannot be dissolved.

The "coup d'état" is being arranged by leaders of the democratic party. Their idea is, with the assistance of the government, to enter parliament by force and expel Dr. Almeida and his followers, replacing them by democrats who shall be royalists, and the government will then believe that it can be accomplished with little if any bloodshed.

Should this move be carried out, it is recognized that Dr. Costa would be practically the dictator of Portugal, as it is likely that the President of the republic, Dr. Manuel de Arriaga, who is an intimate friend of Dr. Almeida, would be immediately deposed and Dr. Costa or some representative of Costa chosen president.

EATED DISCUSSION.

The question of the treatment of political prisoners is being heatedly discussed in the newspapers. This is due to the disclosure that the inmates of Linhares fortress, the central prison of Lisbon, have been often placed in dungeons with only air or light, as a means of torturing them to make their supposed confessions. Although these dungeons are damp and damp, prisoners are only allowed to wear a light shirt and trousers. Their food was bread and water. It is charged, moreover, that when they refused to disclose their secrets, they were beaten with sticks made from rawhide which leave terrible wounds. These revelations, which came out through newspaper interviews with some of the prisoners, have caused a great sensation and have induced the government to promise to begin an inquiry and to put an end to any cruel treatment.

The British and Portuguese governments are now in negotiations for the protection of the port of Lisbon. The idea is to make it a strong basis for naval operations. The old fort of Almada, situated across the Tagus in front of Lisbon, will be demolished and reconstructed with the latest improvements and armed with heavy artillery. The work of Dom Luís and São Júlio de Sousa will be likewise improved and fitted out with new artillery. These improvements form a part of the defense of the Portuguese coast and the strategic triangle of Madeira, Lages and Cape Verde, which has been included in the defenses of the Anglo-Portuguese alliance.

WHAT THEY ARE DOING

Senor Joan Manen, the well known Spanish artist, who made his debut in London at the Queen's Hall, is not only prominent violinist but also a highly gifted musician. Born in Barcelona he showed such a strong inclination for music when still almost a baby that his father made him start playing the piano at the age of 3½ and the violin at 4. At the age of 15 he composed a concerto for the violin. From the age of 20 he specialized in concert interest as a conductor. Then came extended concert tours through Germany, Russia and Holland, and wherever he went his extraordinary mastery of technique together with the sweetness of his tone, won for him many triumphs.

Hon. Mrs. Aubrey Herbert and Lady Cranworth took part in the opening round of the Ladies' Parliamentary Golf Handicap, decided on the courses at the Randolph Club, London. The weather was glorious and the course presented an animated scene during play. The entries were forty-five.

Here is Mrs. Parrish inset a portrait showing her with Mr. Gladstone, her adoring grandfather. It is a coincidence that at a time when the name of Gladstone is in every political mouth, a domestic incident of the statesman's career, should also be recalled. At the time of the great home rule struggle of the nineties the G. O. M. was often represented as delighting in the society of his favorite grandchild, Miss Dorothy Drew. Like home rule itself, the grandchild is now again before the public. The cause has passed into other fond hands. So has Miss Dorothy Drew, who was married to Captain F. Parrish on Monday.

Lord Pentland was formerly Captain Sinclair, P. C., secretary for Scotland, whose appointment as governor of Madras was recently made public.

Home Rule Opponents Travel on Rough Road

Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.

LONDON, May 18.—Things are not going very well with the opponents of Irish Home Rule. The question no longer is whether the English people, who voted to support the cause of Ireland, will have a fatal blow to the welfare of the British Empire. The voters are now, however, more inclined than ever to do away with the old party.

Although these dangerous and dangerous attempts to dislodge the party of the old time still go on calling on their gods and gashing themselves with knives, though they are convinced that they can do nothing else, they will be much more sensible to submit to the inevitable.

Their doubtless will eventually give up, when they realize they have not enough strength to sustain the party.

The cause of Home Rule will not be able to resist any more speeches like that one recently made by Winston Churchill, when he introduced the government bill at the second reading.

NEW ERA BEGINS.

With the transfer of the office of First Lord of the Admiralty to Winston Churchill, a new era may be said to have begun. Even the bitterest opponents of the government have not dared accuse the young secretary of the navy of lukewarmness or lack of vigor. His work has passed since without the announcement of the strengthening of the country's naval defenses. One of the most striking of these, which has just come into force, is the extension of an entire new scheme of destruction, based on the idea of continuous patrol.

Under the old system both the capital and admiral squadrons of the home fleet had a distinct administrative and operational character at Devonport. Portsmouth and the Nore. Under the new scheme there are no destroyers permanently attached to the battle fleets. Instead, the whole of England's available forces are organized into eight flotillas, four being in commission and four in reserve with nuclear crews.

Of the four active flotillas, the first and second, 36 in all, will be based on Rosyth, the third on Harwich, and the fourth on Portland. The fifth (reserve) flotilla will have Harwich as its base, sixth Portsmouth, the seventh Dover port, and the eighth Rosyth. This last will be stationed at Harwich until the necessary preparations have been made at the Scottish port.

There are less than 100 destroyers included in the new organization, including eight fast cruisers, eight scouts and eight depot and repair ships. Each flotilla is from 16 to 24 strong. Sixty-eight will be in full commission and 97 in reserve, the number in North Sea being 52 and 50 respectively.

In addition to these 102 destroyers, there are flotillas of 12 submarines apiece based on Harwich and Dundee. With the exception of those built for the Royal Navy, the destroyers are driven by turbines, and the majority burn oil fuel exclusively.

The Guards will quite doubtless guard the eastern seaboard, and it is hoped that the new arrangements will discourage the growth of the usual spring crop of "German scares."

FUSING SUCCESSFUL.

The movement for the purpose of fusing the various Conservative and Unionist workingmen's organizations has now been successfully accomplished, and a new body has been formed under the name of the Unionist Labor Party. Two hundred branches have been formed in different districts and constituencies. The object of the new party is to promote the interests of labor along the lines indicated by the adoption of the following program:

The direct and effective representation of labor in parliament and on other public bodies.

The organization of co-operation between capital and labor, including co-partnership and profit-sharing, tariff reform and imperial preference.

A reformed second chamber, with power over important questions, to the effect of

GEORGE REIGN AGAIN WEARS CREPE

Ambitious Social Plans of the Americans Set at Naught.

The Death of Denmark's King Gives Dreary Outlook to Season.

BY CHESTER OVERTON.

LONDON, May 18.—A sudden damper has been put on what promised to be an extremely brilliant social season by the sudden death of King Frederick of Denmark, Queen Alexandra's brother, and King George's uncle. It is the second period of mourning this year, the first being for the Duke of Fife, the husband of the Princess Royal.

So up to date society has had but a very poor show since George became King, three-fourths of his reign being overcast by the gloom of mourning.

After a long period of black in memory of King Edward, there came a short season when colors were seen. Then Prince Francis of Teck, Queen Mary's brother, died, and there came another period of sober raiment and no entertainment.

Even during the coronation festivities a year ago there were grave anxieties about the health of Queen Alexandra and fears that the season would be shortened by the news of her demise.

Among the engagements now to be cancelled is the famous Devonshire house ball on the night of the Derby at the Epsom course. This, it will be remembered, was also cancelled last year owing to the death of a German cousin of the King.

WILL HALT ACTIVITIES.

Private hostesses not connected with the court will give their dances and dinner parties, but the fact that the court is in mourning will stop entertainment in all the great houses in London.

The King and Queen were to have dined the Duke and Duchess of Roxburghe and Ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid.

The Ascot races will also be spoiled completely from the social viewpoint, as no one directly connected with the court will be present during the coming season.

Lady Granard, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Ogden Mills of New York, are visiting her, as well as her grandmother, Mrs. Matilda Livingstone, as the wife of a court official, will be recalled to cancel her engagements. The same thing applies to the Duchess of Roxburghe, who was Miss May Goelet, daughter of Ogden Goelet, who is entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goeltz. The duchess, however, will be free to take part in the Hundred Years Ago ball, which is a charitable affair and not of an official nature.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan and Mrs. Anna Moore are expected to arrive early next month. It is a dreary outlook, however, for American hostesses who have taken houses or apartments in the smart hotels with a view to entertaining on a lavish scale.

PRENUPTIAL GIFT FORFEITED BY SUIT

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

PARIS, May 18.—Judgment has been given in favor of a jeweler in the Rue de la Paix against Colonel de Marquis de La Grange, who married Miss Eleanor Steele of New York.

The countess is the granddaughter of the late J. Barton French, the New York banker, who was a partner of J. Pierpont Morgan. Her grandmother is Mrs. J. Barton French, who is so well known in Paris society and who was Miss Mary Walker Fearn before she became the second wife of J. Barton French.

The Count de La Grange married the supposedly wealthy Miss Steele, after a brief courtship. He was, of course, poor, but proud, but nevertheless he used to write to London for his shoemaker to come over to Paris and take his measure and make his shoes, and also used to bring over an English tailor to dress him. Young Miss Steele was very much impressed by so much pronounced fashion.

IN NEED OF FUNDS.

After they had become engaged, the Count de La Grange deemed it a correct thing to make his fiancee a present of a bracelet. Not having extensive credit himself, the count invited his stepfather, the Marquis de Rancongne, to go on a note to a jeweler.

The marquis, a most courteous and accommodating member of the old nobility, couldn't possibly refuse such a request from a member of his own family, especially as it was for such a chivalrous purpose, but the Rue de la Paix jeweler, not receiving payment within what he thought a reasonable time, became obnoxious and brought suit.

After the evidence had been turned in, the court ordered the jewelry returned forthwith, as the Countess de La Grange loses the engagement present given her by her noble husband. No one attaches any blame to the gallant Colonel de Marquis de Rancongne, who fondly believes that his noble family would become as rich as Monte Cristo when his stepson made wealthy American connections.

Instead, the Count de La Grange and the countess are living on the Island of Jersey for the purpose of economy.

NEW PHOTOGRAPHS OF OLD FAVORITES ABROAD

THE GRAND DUCHESSSES OLGA AND TATIANA

Just a Bit About Them

The Grand Duchess Olga is the eldest daughter of the Czar and she is wearing the uniform of the Third Regiment of Elisabethgrad Hussars, of which she is colonel. The younger sister of the Princess, the Grand Duchess Tatiana, is wearing the uniform of the Fourteenth Regiment of Lancers. It seems only quite recently that we were looking at these youthful princesses with their sister and brother as a group of young children. As a matter of fact, however, the Czar's eldest daughter is now seventeen, while her sister is two years younger, and they are, having regard to all circumstances, of particular interest to British subjects.

EVE OF WATERLOO TO LIVE ONCE MORE

THE EVE OF WATERLOO.

There was a sound of revelry by night and Belgium's capital had gathered "there." Her beauty and her chivalry, and bright. The lamps shone o'er full women and brave men. A thousand hearts beat happily, and when Music arose with its voluptuous swell, Soft eyes look love to eyes which spoke no word, And went merrily as a marriage bell.

But hark! hark! a deep sound strikes like a rising knell!

Did you hear it? 'Twas but the wind.

Or with a rattle o'er the stony street,

On with the dance! Let joy be unconfined;

No sleep till morn when youth and pleasure meet,

To chase the glowing hours with flying feet.

—Lord Byron.

ING to the period and the persons they represent, will continue the dance.

While the "Waterloo quadrille" is to be the great feature of the ball, there are other dances which will give splendid opportunity for women and men to appear in the costumes of a hundred years ago. Among the more popular dances will be the "Lambeth Quadrille," in which Lady Alfred Paget and Mrs. David Beatty will dance; the household quadrille, which will include Lady Alastair Innes-Ker; the "Society quadrille," with Mrs. Lavinia Bingham, the Viscountess Cuzon and Lady Acheson among the dancers; the Nelson quadrille, with Lady Muriel Parrot and the "Broughams" with the Viscountess Maitland and Mrs. Avery.

The ball is for the aid of the soldiers' and sailors' help society, and is expected to be one of the most successful fancy dress affairs ever patronized by London society.

—OFFICIALS UNDO WORK OF THEIR PREDECESSORS

(PARIS, May 18.—You remember Penelope's web, which occupied her leisure and distracted the suitors during the absence of Ulysses, the work done during the time he was shipwrecked. It is now agreed that the respective ministers of war under the new government will undo the work of their predecessors with the same indifference. One could fill a long column with the reforms made and undone.

To quote a few: The disciplinary regulations were disbanded; "non-coms" and lieutenants were deprived of the right of punishing their men; "non-coms" were allowed out of barracks in must; the red trousers were to be submitted for khaki or results; soldier servants were to be abolished; and orderly officers as well; the military salute was to become a mere shoulder arms.

One by one these reforms have been thrown down or given up again.

The late set "cheese croiss" continues the right to punish, which has been restored.

The Duchess of Marlborough, as the Duchess of Richmond, will introduce the set with Viscount Hardinge and then the four American women and the four Englishmen, all costumed correctly according to the captain.

DEBATE ON HOME RULE WEARIES VISITORS

BY AUSTIN F. MAGUIRE.

DUBLIN, May 18.—Visitors to the galleries of the House of Commons are not slow in expressing their feelings of dissatisfaction at the way in which the matter of the debate on the home rule bill.

Since the first day, when Mr. Asquith and Mr. Redmond made their great speeches, the debate has not been without much oratorical fervor. In fact, most of the speeches have been uninteresting enough to be commonplace, save for an exceptionally brilliant effort by Mr. O'Connell and the lively personal argument for home rule made by Sir Rufus Isaacs, who is fast making for himself a place in British public life.

One by one these reforms have been thrown down or given up again.

The late set "cheese croiss" continues the right to punish, which has been restored.

The Tory opposition bench have been very tame. Much was expected from Mr. Balfour. But on the night of his contribution to the debate he had not been speaking five minutes before it was plain to everybody his heart was not in his task.

BALFOUR NOT THROUGH.

The fact is, Arthur Balfour is not yet by any means through with his political ambitions. He has been Prime Minister, and during his incumbency he made good headway on the Irish question, though he shivered and stopped short at home rule.

It was Balfour who gave Ireland the system of county councils, whose smooth and admirable conduct has done so much to strengthen the argument for complete home rule.

He is the man who will return to the present ministry, would not be averse to again taking the premiership, even though he does so well have to mean an understanding with the Irish party.

Politics, Imperial as well as parochial, have got to become law, or the whole parliamentary system of England shall be thrown into confusion.

One thing is as certain as any humane rule has reached the point of invi-tability. The bill now before Parliament has got to become law, or the whole

be thrown into pieces.

LACK OF GOLD HALTS ROYAL CAUSE

New York Trustees of Stewart Fortune Stop Lavish Expenditures.

Women Sacrifice Jewels for Miguel in Hope of Restoring Kingdom.

BY PAUL PIERRE RIGNAUX.

PARIS, May 18.—An almost superhuman effort is being made here by Prince Miguel, Duke of Braganza and father-in-law of Duchess de Livaizau, who was Anita Stewart, to raise a large amount of money for the royalist cause in Portugal.

The story that in what is known as the Dover contract, Prince Manuel had resigned his claim to the throne in favor of the former King, Manuel, is not true. The Dover agreement was in effect that the deputy should be abolished at any cost and whoever of the two pretenders succeeded first should let the other alone. If Manuel got back on the throne before Miguel, the latter would accept the situation and forego active "pretending," but if Miguel succeeded in restoring the monarchy and establishing himself as ruler, then Manuel would rest content with private life.

Another fact which this quest for money brings out is that the Duchess Anita Stewart Vizcay's money was liberally spent in the royalist cause until her trustees in America refused to put up any more funds. The sudden stoppage threatened to wreck the cause of the Braganza royalists and undo all that had been done, and hence the supreme effort now being made to carry the plot to a successful conclusion as long as American money has put it well under way.

SECURITIES OFFERED.

Various securities are offered, which include shares of Par's Bank in London. As there are enough shares to guarantee the big loan asked, several royalist ladies are pledging their precious jewels and others again, in such high standing as to have their personal notes accepted, are signing for liberal donations.

One of these is the Princess Marie Josephine, Princess de Braganza, Infanta of Portugal, widow of the late Prince Theodore of Bavaria and mother of Queen Elizabeth of Belgium.

Titles varying from duke to baron are also being promised to wealthy commoners as an inducement to support Prince Miguel's cause. It is certain that Mrs. James Henry Smith would have been made a duchess if the supplies from that source had not been stopped, and even under existing conditions she has well-founded claims to preference should the Braganza cause succeed.

I learn from the most trustworthy authority that the Morgan-Harjes banking firm has accepted a proposition to make a loan on principle and has cabled New York for instructions.

SMASHER CLUB.

While these eventful happenings are being fostered in Paris by Dom Miguel, King Manuel has just smashed the Portuguese republican club at La Usseine-Ouchy, "Traveling Incognito" as the Count Durenne, he visited the club, with the result that all the members receded and went over to the royalist party.

The club was founded recently at Lausanne by the Count Souza Proga, who, in spite of his royalist association, is strongly republican.

Anthony Drexel has very close ties to the dethroned King lately and is said he will be made duke of the kingdom of Portugal should Manuel succeed in regaining the throne.

BABIES' WAILING IS SET TO MUSIC

London's Infants Find Champion in Curate of Church.

LONDON, May 18.—Babies who cry have found their champion.

In infant when in tears it has just been found, emits certain musical sounds which easily harmonized into the form of a chant or even a secular song.

This singular discovery has been made by the Rev. N. Bonavia-Hunt, a curate of St. Matthew's church, who has composed a chant founded upon the wailing cries of infants which will be sung today at St. Matthew's church.

It will be used as a setting to the words of Psalm 137, beginning: "By the Waters of Babylon We Sat Down and Wept."

How he came to write such a strange chant was explained yesterday by Mr. Hunt who has been at St. Matthew's for over six years.

"During my stay in the parish I have met many babies who cry when they are upset," he said. "Being of a musical turn of mind it occurred to me that the cries of the babies were remarkably similar and rose and fell in the same cadences.

"Children's cries always come down like the siren of a steamer, while I found that the sequence of the notes were usually seconds or seventh, and, in a few cases, sixth. Why not attempt to harmonize the cries into a chant which should be a true reflex of human sorrow and emotion?" So I set to work and wrote the chant, which only consists of ten consecutive chords. The treble is like the siren of a steamer, while the alto is a more melancholy call, while the bass and tenor represent the sorrow and tenderness

ARDOU FOUND COMEDY AT EXECUTION

Farcical Possibilities.

(By GEORGE DUFRENSE.)

ARIS, May 18.—An amusing anecdote is told of Victorien Sardou, whom was curious to see the work of the guillotine, of which he had a horror, as he was strongly opposed to capital punishment. He attended the execution of Tropmann. He had selected a good place near the scaffold, his surprise may be imagined as, in the van containing the actors drew up, he beheld a smart woman emerging from the big niche which was to receive the murderer's corpse.

Noticing his astonishment, a man stepped up to him and said, "Don't mind.

Monsieur Sardou, I saw my wife, who sent me over to witness the sight.

I adopted this little strategy when I used to do so."

The speaker was other than the executioner.

Sardou had scarcely recovered his surprise when one of the assistants walked up and coolly claimed acquaintance with him.

"You

't recognize me, Monsieur Sardou?"

said the man.

"I confess that I do not," was the reply.

"But I am one of your machinists, as performing only last evening in

of your plays."

And how about this morning?"

asked the man.

The man burst out laughing, and

This was, as will be admitted, an odd prelude to the grim tragedy that was to follow. The executioner's wife had come stowed

London's Contribution to Things Pictorial

MARIE TEMPEST IN A SCENE FROM "AT THE BARN"

ABOUT THOSE WHO ARE SHOWN HERE

Here is a new portrait of Lady Enid Fane, eldest daughter of Lord Westnorland, one of this season's most interesting debutantes. As the daughter of a great beauty and the niece of the Duchess of Sutherland and Lady Angela Forbes she naturally inherits good looks, vivacity, wit and keenness for outdoor sports.

Mlle. Lydia Kyasht is playing in the beautiful little ballet, "The Water Nymph," which she has written, produced and arranged, and in which she is performing at the Empire in London.

A scene from "At the Barn" at the Prince of Wales, London. Miss

Marie Tempest has her share in the success of the moment. She is here seen as "Mollie Blair," the delightful runaway, criticizing a sketch made of her by Austin

Crane (C. V. France), one of the three bachelors whose cottage she has invaded, and have all fallen in love with her on the spot. The other two are Kenneth Mayell

the photograph, and next him, William Lewis (Ernest Mainwaring).

CHINA NOW FACES COMPLICATED PROBLEM

PEKING, China, May 18—Chili now provinces, through the Austrian legation, has obtained a loan of 6,000,000 taels ($3,200,- 000) from an Austrian financial firm, giving as security the duties on tea, spirits and tobacco. Chinkiang province has raised a loan of 4,000,000 marks ($1,000,- 000) from a German firm.

These provincial loans are for temporary relief, but they complicate the international loan problem. It is believed the Austrian loan is a political move engineered by Germany to strengthen its position in the International group by forcing its members to include Germany's allies, Austria and Italy.

The assembly, determined to hold the secretary's pulse strings, has passed a resolution that the government submit a budget without delay. The speakers pointed out the necessity of the government having the money and several of them

asked for an investigation of the Nanking government's finances. This is be-

Shao Yu.

It is certain there is considerable opposition to him. A political party has

The republican governor of Sinkiang province is besieged at Tihwa, near

MULIA HAFID'S LOYALTY SUSPECTED BY FRENCH

PARIS, May 18—Opinions vary as

France. M. Regnault, the minister

now the resident, is convinced of his genuine regard for the republic, but certain officers who have come into contact with him are less convinced. What counsel did he give the Shensi rebels when they revolted against the authority of the French?

What would he do if the French should attack him?

Again the unknown interpreter came to the room and removed Aldrich's

greatful thanks. What the good stanchion was still puzzling the former Senator. But

Mr. Aldrich was vowed to master French

ALDRICH'S 'QUI' IS PUZZLING AS POLITICS

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

PARIS, May 18—Former Senator Nelson A. Aldrich, far from American politics, is having his muscles kneaded at the Les Bains, which J. Pierpont Morgan has made so well known to Americans. While the Senator's muscles are being kneaded a stream of hot soft water flows gently over the parts treated.

Rheumatism takes flight. Immediately and the Senator's limbs are becoming as elastic as when he was a youth of twenty.

Aldrich says that the doughy massage is an admirable restorative to anyone suffering from overwork and long hours, the hot vapor in which the patient swallows drives out pains and the steam tends to restore youth, and Mr. Aldrich takes a two-hour treatment every morning.

Miss Marion the former Senator from Rhode Island is strong on French.

"Will you have a hot or cold water treatment?" asked the attendant when Mr. Aldrich first came into the baths.

"Qui, Qui," (i.e., Yes,) answered Mr. Aldrich.

The bewigged attendant was much relaxed when an American on the other side of the partition asked him to interpret for him what the word Qui meant.

A scene was narrowly averted the other night at the Varieté when Gaby Deslys and Harry Pilos, her American dancing partner, drove in an automobile to attend a repetition general of Orpheus.

They found Unzov waiting with an automobilist for Deslys just in front of the theater. Gaby's first impulse was to dash past Unzov, as she came from the theater, but she overcame this by taking Harry Pilos in the hand and calling out, "Come on, sweetheart."

They shifted about nervously as he saw Unzov and Harry go into the theater together.

It is a huge Latin quarter joke.

PARIS, May 18.—It seems incredible, but it is nevertheless a fact, that the finishing touch has only now been put to the "Church of the Sacred Heart at Montmartre." The colossal edifice, towers over Paris and is visible from nearly to the north of the capital. The foundation stone was laid cause you must invite him; because you are acquainted with his grandfather, or it is proper you should; but you invite a man to breakfast because you want to see him. You may be sure if you are invited to breakfast there is something agreeable about you."

CERTAIN SIGN THAT HOST IS SUCCESS.

And so, if one's guests remain to breakfast, the genial host may know he has been a success, and the guests themselves may feel that they have been popular—otherwise they would long ago have taken their homeward way.

"To see ourselves as others see us" is always interesting, and a good scheme. And the following description of Mr. Harold Havens comes from our neighbors across the bay:

"Harold Havens, called 'End' Havens by the fellows, is the Adonis of the four Havens boys, being an affable athlete, possessing several automobiles, and an income which he himself has earned, plus a disposition which is impervious to the slings and arrows of fortune's wiles."

All of which augured well for him as a host at a ball.

At first Mr. Harold Havens planned a rather informal dance for his friends, but so many accepted promptly over the telephone that he sent out cards later, with a result that he had an unusual number of acceptances, and his dance at the St. Francis last night was one of the brilliant dates of the season.

Among the many guests invited from this side of the bay were:

Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Havens, Mr. and Mrs. Wickham Havens, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Partington, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Kelley, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Proctor, Mr. and Mrs. Willard

No drugs to take; no body-racking exercises; no starvation diet, no sweating garments; no pills, oils, cathartics, salts, no medicines of any kind. I lost my enormous weight in a short time, have never been stout since. 200,000 MEN AND WOMEN ARE NOW TAKING MY DRUGLESS TREATMENT. WHY NOT YOU? $500 IN CASH IF I FAIL TO prove my drugless treatment anything but safe, quick and harmless in fat reduction.

THIS BOOK SENT FREE.

Let me send you this Great Book and all I can tell you concerning my reducing at once. This book tells of my new method, showing how you may easily and safely remove Much or Little of your fat.

It tells How to Remove Double Chin; How to Reduce Big Hips; how to Reduce Large Busts; how to Reduce Large Abdomen; how to Reduce Body Desirably with this new common-sense method endorsed by 25 prominent Denver Physicians, and praised by 200,000 satisfied customers.

MEDICAL PROFESSION DUMFOUNDED

After a sedentary life, a medical treatment is founded. It is simply astonishing the thousands of grateful letters being received from the medical profession and others regarding the high excellence of this remarkable treatment.

Dr. Baughman, a very famous surgeon, has lost 25 pounds with this harmless treatment after all drugs failed to benefit him.

Dr. Yaeger, graduate of Rush Medical College, states that the treatment is founded on a scientific knowledge of the Pathology of Obesity, that it is a safe and harmless fat reducer.

Dr. Allen Ransom makes a positive statement that this treatment is free of thyroid and other drugs and that it is based on the only real fat-reducing principle known to science.

Dr. M. H. Sears of the Northwestern University Medical School states that this drugless fat-reducing treatment is one of the most valuable and effective and the fact action produces a sensible reduction of the fatty tissues.

Elbert Hubbard, esteemed as the greatest sage of our age, in one of his famous lectures acknowledged this treatment as the best of all methods.

Louis Dresser, America's most beautiful and accomplished actress, has endorsed this treatment to a legion of fat men and women.

Written out at one for this Great Free Book and the letter of the only truly great fat reducing method known, which not only reduces your fat permanently, from 5 to 150 pounds, but which will increase your health and give you the vim, vigor and joy of life.

DINNER DANCE IS SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR.

Among the dinner dances of last night was the one given by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Walsh, who invited 30 guests for dinner at the Claremont Country Club. They made their guests of honor Dr. and Mrs. George Baxter of Chicago, who are visiting Dr. and Mrs. John Louis Lohse.

The four young people spent very delightful days in Vienna, where the young physicians were engaged in research work. The dinner company included a number of very delightful young people and the dance which followed the dinner was greatly enjoyed. Among the young matrons who have been hostesses at dinner dances recently, where rag-time made up the merry music of the evening, were Mrs. Wickham Havens, Mrs. Willard Williamson and Mrs. Edward Howard.

OAKLANDERS DUE

HOME FROM TRIP.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunning, Miss Helen Dunning and Miss Barbara Bromwell are expected home today from a three months' trip in Egypt and the continent. The W. W. Garthwaite, who joined them abroad, are now with the Arthur Tishers, and they are planning an extended vacation trip in Switzerland and Northern Europe.

AMERICANS IN ### LONDON SOCIETY.

We can go East and abroad so easily now that distances seem greatly reduced, and one finds Californians, and Americans generally, very much in the heart of things social. The London season is in full swing and many Americans are expected there very shortly. The returned leader, Mrs. George Keppel, won one of the greatest successes of the season, and though she has been away from London two years, everybody went to her big ball, given at her house in Grosvenor Square.

Mrs. Keppel, in addition to those who already were invited, was besieged for days beforehand for permission to come to the ball or bring friends who had not been so fortunate as to be included among those invited to dine with the various hostesses who gave dinners beforehand.

The house was gorgeously decorated and the ball continued until 5 o'clock in the morning. Mrs. Keppel is looking more beautiful than ever, with touches of gray in her pretty brown hair. She wore a superb gown of black and gold brocade, and one hears that all her old friends rallied around her in fine style. All the embassies were represented and all the prominent Americans in London were on Mrs. Keppel's list.

The Duchess of Roxburgh (May Goelet) dined with Mrs. Keppel and helped to receive the guests afterwards. She was in pale gray and rose shot brocade, and helped to receive the guests afterwards. Mrs. Whitelaw Reid brought many friends with her from Dorchester House, having given a large dinner before the ball, and one of the very prettiest of the young Americans at the ball was Mrs. John Reid.

It tells How to Remove Double Chin; How to Reduce Big Hips; how to Reduce Large Busts; how to Reduce Large Abdomen; how to Reduce Body Desirably with this new common-sense method endorsed by 25 prominent Denver Physicians, and praised by 200,000 satisfied customers.

colors for these Shakespeare flower balls are mentioned in Shakespeare, and give five colors: The love-in-idleness, which is mauve or purple; the yellow marigold, the white lily, the blue larkspur and the red rose. The Paris season is slow to begin this year, though a great many well-known Americans are arriving from the provinces, where they have been automobile. There is very little entertainment as yet, only the Americans being hostesses.

Mrs. Clarence Postley, well known in San Francisco society, has just returned to Paris from a visit to Rome, and she was the guest of honor at a luncheon given by Mr. and Mrs. Ferris Thompson.

Another well-known American, Mrs. Moncure Robinson, gave a luncheon in Paris this week, among her guests being Mrs. Barton French, the Due de Richelieu and Mr. and Mrs. Lorillard Reynolds.

MRS. MILLER GRAHAM
NOT TO VISIT LONDON.

Among the favorites in England's smart set who will be in London this season is Mrs. Miller Graham of Santa Barbara. The Grahams have a beautiful home in that historic city which they have named "Bellosquardo," that being the name of the famous villa at Florence formerly occupied by the Brownings. But lovely as Bellosquardo now is, Mrs. Graham plans a still more beautiful home, and a superb palace along Italian architectural lines bids fair to be her home in the future in sunny Santa Barbara.

Mrs. Wells, who was formerly Jean Hush, is not planning to come to the coast this year, and instead, Mrs. Valentine Hush will go East and spend the summer with her daughter. The Wells have a beautiful home in Burlington, Vermont, on the shores of picturesque Lake Champlain. The summer there is lovely, with yachting on the lake and motoring in the White mountains, and the Adirondacks are not far off. The East offers many possibilities in the way of delightful vacation days. Mrs. Hush is planning to go East in the near future, and she will be away from Oakland about six months.

TRUXTON BEALES ### TO VISIT EUROPE.

The Truxton Beales, with pretty Miss Alice Oge, leave for the East and Europe in a few days, and expect to be away all summer. In the East they will be guests of Mrs. McLean (Truxton Beale's sister), who has one of the finest country places, "Friendship," near Washington. She is a very great favorite in St. Petersburg and was very successful in Japan. Mrs. McLean and Madame Bakmalieff were formerly the Misses Heale of California, daughters of the late General Heale.

They are very fond of their brother, Truxton Beale, and they entertain elaborately always in honor of Mrs. Truxton Beale.

Mrs. Frederick Tillman and Miss Agnes Tillman are now in Rome, and they were joined there by Dr. and Mrs. Lyon (Dorothy Van Sicklen).

When the weather grows warmer in Rome the party of friends are planning to go to Northern Italy and on to Switzerland.

MANY PRESENT AT

"HOUR OF MUSIC."

Miss Maude Pope's cards modestly announced "An Hour of Music," and her friends were not prepared for such a delightful afternoon as she gave them on last Sunday. Many prominent people were present in her artistic dining-room, among her guests being Mr. and Mrs. Wickham Havens, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Scupham, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Lundborg, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Stratton, Judge and Mrs. Clifford, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bishop, Judge and Mrs. Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. John Brittan, Mr. and Mrs. Kergan, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Parcells.

The hour of music which was given by talented young people was greatly enjoyed by Miss Pope's guests, and the following program was given:

(b) Valse in D Flat ..... Miss Alice Oge

GOING ABROAD.

Others who are going abroad this year are Mrs. Soule, Douglas Soule and Miss Carrie Bacon. Douglas Soule is expected to return in a few days from the Orient, where he has been traveling with Mr. and Mrs. Evert Page. The latter was nearly drowned in the surf off the beach at Waikiki, in Honolulu, but except for that episode, the travelers have had a most delightful trip.

MANY WELCOME

ORPHEUM

Nine beauties, eight dusky colored girls and a comedian accompany Aida Overton Walker in a musical mulligan to be produced at the Oakland Orpheum this week. No better comedienne and dancer has made success her own than Miss Walker. As a co-star with Williams and Walker she tripped her way into footlight fame and since her advent in vaudeville has added laurels to those already gained.

In her present vehicle she sings with the sole assistance of her chorus, and she and her comedian manage to get a great deal of fun out of the slot without resorting to horse play. The setting is elaborate, the locale is Porto Rico.

In her dual number Miss Walker gives a perfect imitation of her late husband, the famous colored comedian, George Walker.

Lester is due here today. Lester is a ventriloquist, one of the greatest, the world has known. A wooden figure, curved to represent man—one kind of man—is "the work," with Lester. Through his mouth issues the comedy for which the ventriloquist is famous. There is probably no ventriloquist who gets more fun out of one figure than does Lester. The repartee that goes on between the two is sparkling in its cleverness. In laughing at the drolleries an audience is apt to overlook the real wonder of the performance. Lester throws his voice about while drinking or smoking, and the closest observation fails to see the slightest movement of his lips. Indeed, he walks through the audience, where he may be observed, at close range. He gets away from the stilted routine of many other ventriloquists. He is frequently termed the Great Lester, and through his ventriloquial performance is deserving of the appellation.

Cheerful comediennes are the Misses Muriel and Frances. They have a personality that is infectious and their performance is most artistic. Putter songs are their specialty and their manner of delivering them a novelty. Charming young girls, they are, and they've won applause enough to turn the head of seasoned vaudeville artists.

A farce act that is sure to meet with marked success in this country is the Four Holloways. They are acrobats and trickcyclists on the tight wire and are said to be the only performers who climb a triplet bicycle balanced on a tight wire. Most of the feats usually considered during when performed on the ground, are accomplished by the Four Holloways while on the tight wire. They are supposed to have created a sensation abroad and it is expected that they will do so here.

There is a liberal smattering of comedy throughout their performances, and in addition to the bicycling on the wire, they also are expert skaters.

The Four Holloways is one of the foreign acts Martin Beck has secured for the Orpheum Circuit.

Marie and Billy Hart show a versatility in their performance seldom witnessed in vaudeville performers. Their offering is entitled "The Circus Girl" and it is introduced almost every kind of entertainment—singing, dancing, cornet playing and even a slack wire performance. A trinity on mind reading appeals particularly to the audience. They will be an attractive card in the list offered next week. Miss Hart is good to look upon, has a wealth of pretty clothes and shows a delightful finish to everything she does.

Orville Stamm, a Hercules at 17 years of age, one of the most remarkable "Sun-daws" ever developed in the world, a California lad, will startle the crowds with his amazing feats of strength.

Rosina Casselli's Midgets, a troupe of marvelously trained Chihuahua dogs, will constitute a delightful feature of the show. There are twenty of these midgets and the things they do are entirely unlike those that are seen in an ordinary animal performance.

The Harvey & DeVora trio of singers and dancers will round out the performance.

There will be new imported motion pictures exhibited and the big Orpheum orchestra will, as usual, give its fifteen minute operatic concert before the regular program begins.

YE LIBERTY

In the history of New York dramatics, "The Devil" occupies a conspicuous place. It was this play, by Franz Molnar, in which interest was so high that the metropolis gave record support for the better part of two seasons. Edwin Stevens and George Arliss starred in the rival presentations of the drama.

For the final week of the Sydney Ayers' special season at Ye Liberty "The Devil" has been announced. Ayers will have an opportunity of displaying his established ability along new and different lines. The Hungarian drama calls for hard work and plenty of it. Ayers has gained a reputation in other cities for creating a part in "The Devil," that has won enviable praise from the most exacting critics. He will be given ample support by Miss Anna Bryant and Ye Liberty's splendid company.

The plot of "The Devil" moves swiftly and it is not until the final curtain that you realize the tragic underlying force of the drama. The story, condensed follows:

Janos, an artist, much loved of women, is about to be led bodily into marriage with Eliza, a young heiress. The arrangement, which stamped him a favorite and a success in every city he visited. Janos was born, raised and educated in this city and is an exceedingly bright and intelligent son of the Orient. His Angs in German, French, Italian, English and his native Chinese. He is quite a clever comedian, and his impersonations laughable.

Miss Ray Ellinor Ball, who was endowed by Nature with a classic Greek profile, is a violin virtuoso with ability of the first order. She mixes her selections sufficiently with popular melodies to make her act a decided hit. Miss Ball will share honors for public favor with Lee Tung Foo.

Lee Tung Foo, a Chinese baritone singer and comic, returns to the Orpheum. His singing has been arranged by Janos, a former sweetheart, now the wife of a wealthy merchant. It is to real forever the memory of their former love, of which neither have spoken during the six years of Janos's married life. In reality, their love only slumbered, though both had conscientiously considered it dead. Janos has come to the artist's studio to pose for her portrait, the impending marriage has made her sure of herself. She draws a confession from Janos that he would not marry her if he still loved her. The artist leaves her to arrange her dress for the portrait. Suddenly appears the stranger. Janos, hearing Janos's cry, re-enters and recognises the stranger as the man who had once befriended him at Monte Carlo.

At once master of the situation, The Devil, by sophistry and cynical induction, leads to the proof that despite all their protestations, Janos and Eliza really loved each other, and that Janos's wife is the artist married is not remote. An appeal to the pluses of life, to the call of youth, happiness and freedom, is interrupted by the entrance of Janos's husband. The spell is broken.

The second act takes place at Janos's house, where a reception is being given at which Janos and Eliza's engagement is to be brought about. The Devil, who has forced an invitation from the hostess through trickery, weaves around Janos, Janos and Eliza a web of jealousy and distrust, until their inner selves, under his apparently hypnotic power, are laid bare. He plays with these human souls as if they were toys in the game of life. Finally his plan there appears no escape, and the last act he accomplishes his end: two more souls are his. Theirs is no vision from on high of divine forgiveness. It is terribly true.

BELL

A bill as varied as it is bristling with clever and novel acts and sketches will open this afternoon at the Bell theater. One of the numbers which will undoubtedly come in for a great share of the applause will be that presented by Lee Tung Foo, a Chinese baritone singer and comic, who returns to the Orpheum. His singing has been arranged by Janos, a former sweetheart, now the wife of a wealthy merchant. It is to real forever the memory of their former love, of which neither have spoken during the six years of Janos's married life. In reality, their love only slumbered, though both had conscientiously considered it dead. Janos has come to the artist's studio to pose for her portrait, the impending marriage has made her sure of herself. She draws a confession from Janos that he would not marry her if he still loved her. The artist leaves her to arrange her dress for the portrait. Suddenly appears the stranger. Janos, hearing Janos's cry, re-enters and recognises the stranger as the man who had once befriended him at Monte Carlo.

At once master of the situation, The Devil, by sophistry and cynical induction, leads to the proof that despite all their protestations, Janos and Eliza really loved each other, and that Janos's wife is the artist married is not remote. An appeal to the pluses of life, to the call of youth, happiness and freedom, is interrupted by the entrance of Janos's husband. The spell is broken.

The second act takes place at Janos's house, where a reception is being given at which Janos and Eliza's engagement is to be brought about. The Devil, who has forced an invitation from the hostess through trickery, weaves around Janos, Janos and Eliza a web of jealousy and distrust, until their inner selves, under his apparently hypnotic power, are laid bare. He plays with these human souls as if they were toys in the game of life. Finally his plan there appears no escape, and the last act he accomplishes his end: two more souls are his. Theirs is no vision from on high of divine forgiveness. It is terribly true.

ONCE AGAIN WITH THE MUSICAL CYCLES

Marie Doro Tells of Stage as Alternative to the Schoolroom

NEW YORK, May 15.—When Marie Doro looked out over the audience at the performance of "Patience" yesterday afternoon she was interested—so interested that she gave kept wandering from the ardent Archibald, in his blue velvet and with his uplifted arms, the house itself, which was even more gorgeously arrayed. She saw boxes draped in college colors—the rose and gray of Vanessa, Bryn Mawr's white and gold, the carmine and white of Cornell and the blue and white of Esmond. She saw pennants hanging from the balconies bearing the names of Wellesley, Smith, Holyoke, Wells and Radcliffe.

She had known that this affair was a benefit for the intercollegiate bureau of occupations, and that it meant for her an extra matinee in a busy opening week, but she hadn't thought much about the people on the other side of the footlights until she saw their banners flying and felt the enthusiastic college spirit that surged across and demanded encores.

When she explained to Miss Doro that the bureau was a combination of New York women, graduates of the great eastern colleges, who were trying to help college girls find profitable and congenial vocations outside the schoolroom, she was still more interested. Back in her dressing room the milkmaid flock of Patience replaced by a flowered silk kimono and with a mass of orchids and roses on the whalebill behind her, she asked,

"Why don't they try the stage if they are tired of teaching? I'm not a college girl, you know, and I shouldn't like to figure as an authority on education in connection with the stage or any other vocation, but I really don't see why a career as an actress shouldn't be a logical as well as an attractive one for a college woman."

MUST BE HARD WORKER.

"To begin with, there isn't any doubt that the actress who really advances in her work, who develops into an artist on the stage, is the one who is a thorough student as well as a hard worker. The actress with a serious purpose is the one who lasts. Silly, carefree girls who come to the stage and make a hit through some pretty trickery or other may have a temporary success, but they are not the ones who grow into big things."

"I should think the college girl would have a splendid start through the discipline of serious study that she can't get with working results without working hard at them. And then there's another thing: The college girl would come to the stage with an excellent groundwork of knowledge regarding the literature of the drama. She has given years of study to Shakespeare's plays and the other classics of the stage."

"The best thing about the college experience, though, as a preparation for the stage, is, I should think, the excellent opportunity for practical dramatic work which it gives the students. The amateur dramatics at college nowadays are anything but crude, raw performances. They are carefully staged, thoroughly studied, and the players often drilled by a professional coach. Ever so many of the men on our stage today who are noted actors got started in this direction by taking part year after year in the dramas at their colleges, and I think this must be true, too, of a good many of the women on the stage. One Barnard graduate who used to star as Peter Pan in college dramas is now a member of Maude Adams' own company."

ATTITUDE DIFFERS.

"The whole attitude toward women who go to the stage is so different nowadays from what it used to be that I think no college girl should feel any reluctance about taking up such work if she really feels that she can express herself better through this art than in any other. An earnest, thoughtful actress, who regards her dramatic work as an art, certainly dignifies the profession, and she soon has an entree to the people who are really worth knowing."

"Please don't make me sound like a person who knows all about those things," begged Marie Doro. "As I say, I'm not a college girl. I went to boarding school, and went directly from school to the stage. I know that many more girls are being directed toward the stage by their parents than ever before. I was the first girl from my school who ever went on the stage, but since that time—about ten years ago—ever so many girls from that school have become actresses. College girls have beauty—many of them—or the possibility of it, at any rate," and here Miss Doro added with conviction, "any woman can make herself pretty if she gives a great deal of thought to it in the first place and then forgets all about it in the second place. College girls are generally strong and healthy, because they take so much exercise, and their four years of mental training ought to give them intelligence, poise and self-confidence. I really don't see why college women who are seeking vocations more congenial than teaching do not turn to the stage."

STAGE NOTES

"Passers-by," declared by the really knowing one of the four or five genuine successors of the New York season now ending, has yet several years to live before it goes into Charles Frohman's library as a bound volume—always a sign of the availability of a Frohman play for stock companies. But when next Frohman sends "Passers-By" on tour, the organization will be headed by a star, probably Charles Cherry, Juddon Chambers, author of "Passers-By," undoubtedly one of the most vital dramatic documents contributed to the English speaking stage in the last ten years. Cherry wanted Cherry for the role of Peter Waverton.

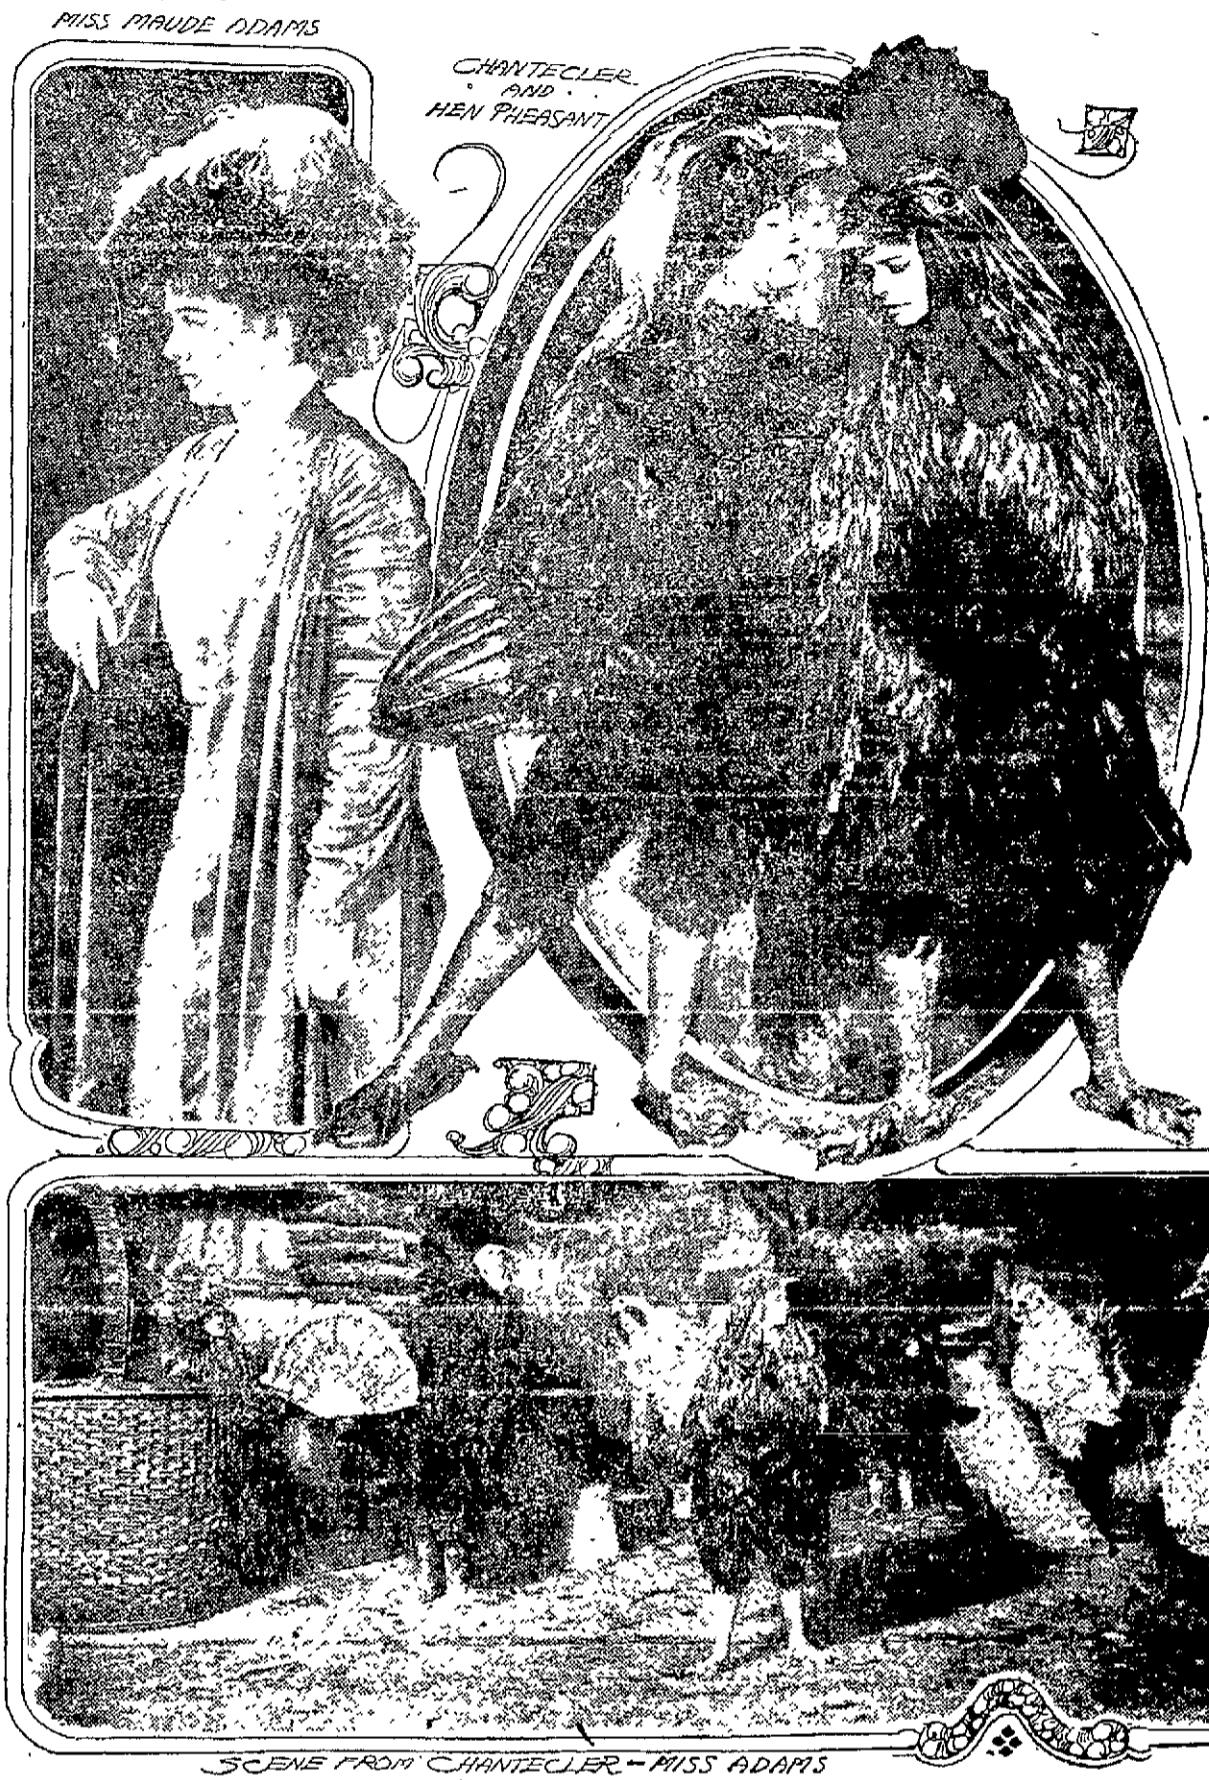

James T. Powers declares that he read fifty-four manuscripts before selecting the vehicle in which he is now starting under the Shubert management at the Casino, which is entitled "Two Little Brides".

This piece was originally presented in Berlin and then adapted for London. Although Powers adopted his "bom" from the English version, it will not actually be offered in London for some weeks.

The Shuberts and William A. Brady have made arrangements with Fred C. Whitier whereby their star Gilbert & Sullivan opera company, now presenting "Patience," at the Lotos theater, is to visit England next autumn. The company will present a repertoire of four Gilbert & Sullivan masterpieces in London: "The Mikado," "Patience," "Patience and "The Pirates of Penzance."

Puffy Chantecler to Raise the Sun

'CHANTECLER'—IT'S STAR AND TWO SCENES.

SCENE FROM CHANTECLER—MISS ADAMS IN CENTER.

The novelty of Rostand's drama, "Chantecler," which is to be unfolded at the Macdonald Thursday is made very apparent from the very beginning of the work. The play is really under way before the curtain goes up on the list of the massive settings. The expectant audience hears a lot of bustle on the stage. There is the barking of a dog, the sounds of the hoofs of a horse on a hard road, a door shot and a shutter slams. The curtain starts to ascend when all this noise will undoubtedly be explained through the eye.

But as soon as the curtain has risen upon a foot Maude Adams comes before the footlights to stop its progress.

Half in apology, the little lady turns to the audience and explains the causes of the noise. The farmer and his family are about to visit friends at some distance, thus taking all human beings from the scene. This prelude is designed to kindle the imagination of the onlooker for the scenes which are to follow and which one is forced to view as through a magnifying glass. A moment later the curtain ascends on the barnyard, and the audience sees a scene of great beauty, the scene through strong glasses from the front of which Patou has a faithful dog's welcome as large as an ordinary stage house, a hand basket large enough to hold Chantecler's mother and a wheelbarrow in as big as an ox cart.

ON BIG SCALE.

Everything is on a big scale and the effect of exaggerating the size of all of the inanimate objects so dwarfs the stature of the actors that when Miss Adams next comes into view in the feathers of Chantecler chanting the Ode to the Sun she does not seem to be more than twice the size of the ordinary barnyard monarch. The second scene is laid on the edge of a hill and in this comes one of the glories of the play, Chantecler's exhibition of his powers in causing the sun to rise. The third act is laid in the corner of the kitchen garden, where the guinea hen gives her account of what Chantecler owes back to the game cock, and the fourth is laid in the heart of a forest. Vanity, ambition, enmity, hate and all the passions of the human soul are in this drama, which carries in charming versification the message of the nobility of work and honest effort.

STORY OF CHANTECLER.

Here is the story of Chantecler.

ACT I.

Chantecler is renowned far and wide because of his morning song. All the fowls know that there is something strange about it which makes it different from the songs of other cocks, but what that something is he will never tell. He guards the secret faithfully in his heart. And it is so important to him, he is so absorbed in his work, that he never notices the dangers which are gathering about him.

His old friend Patou, the dog, whose duty it is to see that no harm comes to the fowl, is the one who warns Chantecler that there is danger ahead. Chantecler is a bit taken aback by Patou's warning, but he does not understand how one so weak as he should be able to accomplish so great a work. She reassures him and tells him that he has indeed earned the right to sing.

ACT III.

He brings the dawn before her eyes, in a reaction of doubt, he confesses that he does not understand how one so weak as he should be able to accomplish so great a work. She reassures him and tells him that he has indeed earned the right to sing.

ACT IV.

Lillian Loraine is utilizing the women's prerogative of changing her mind quite frequently regarding vaudeville. Helen Lehman met Miss Loraine in the dressing room of Fanny Brice at the Colonial, New York. Miss Lehman immediately bespoke vaudeville to the author of "How to be Beautiful." Lillian without looking up acquiesced and murmured $100.

Miss Lehman blinked a couple of times but was game and handed the proposition to Willie Hammerstein, and blinked again fast when Willie O. K'd it.

The agentess rang up Miss Loraine without delay and blinked some more when she was informed $1000 was really not so very much for a beauty dispenser with a Broadway reputation.

A member of the Louis Mann company, which closed in New York last week in "Elevating a Husband," was telling on Broadway this week a dream he had Sunday night.

The actor said he died and reached the heavenly gates.

"What do you want?" said St. Peter.

"Want to get in," replied the actor.

"Where are you from?" he was asked.

"New York," was the answer.

"What did you do down there?" Peter inquired.

"Actor," he replied.

"For who?" inquired the guardian.

"With Louis Mann for a season," said the dead one.

"Poor boy," answered St. Peter. "Come right into heaven; you are entitled to a rest."

Henry W. Savage's original company of "Excuse Me," after a long season and a trip to this coast, closed May 11 at Duluth. The members returned to New York immediately after.

Ann Murdock, featured with Willis P. Sweatnam in the show, will spend the summer with Alice Bartlett Stevens the magazine writer, at her home at Woodsville, N. H. Miss Murdock will again be with the Savage forces next season, but will be featured in a new play. Sweatnam, however, will likely be seen in his old role in "Excuse Me."

Harry Lauder is quite ill and may have to undergo an operation, in which event it is believed he will be unable to play for the next two months.

The dashing Leopoldine Konstantin, who was the principal excuse for "Summer" as performed at the Garrick a few weeks ago, will remain in this country. We are glad, for her impersonation of the Beautiful Slave of Fatal Enchantment was an extraordinary vivacious feat in acting. Miss Konstantin will join the company at the Irving Place theater, New York.

Papa, in a comedy of that title from the French De Flers and Callavet, will be John Drew's role next season. Paris play.

"Barney" Bernhard made his first appearance as Lidoffski in "Louisiana Lou" last Friday evening in Red Wing, Minn., with the touring cast of the Burkhardt-Doragny musical comedy.

"Putting It Over" is the title of a new comedy by Lee Arthur, who was Charles Klein's co-author of "The Auctioneer," in which David Warfield first acted as a star.

Copenhagen is now seeing "A Modern Eve." The piece has been presented in every capital city of the German Empire. Max Hart acting for Mr. Thines over there and Ernest Eitelstein attending to the other end with Mr. Butt.

Marie Dressler may return to vaudeville. Jack Levy has the comedienne to offer to the managers. Her last engagement was at Kansas City, where immediate success was a progressive show down to a swifter pace of liquor. Drama has a swifter pace, the poets now striving to revive the poetical drama most conspicuously fail.

The London public will see Frank Tinney in June, 1913, when the quaint funny man will appear at Alfred Butt's Palace. The contracts were closed this week, Max Hart acting for Mr. Tinney over here, and Ernest Eitelstein attending to the other end with Mr. Butt.

A setting reproducing one of the Child's restaurants is to be shown in "The Governor's Lady," a comedy by Miss Alice Bradley, which David Belasco has prepared for next season.

Reginald du Koven has made Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" the basis of an opera that will be produced at the New Amsterdam theater, New York, after the "Robin Hood" production. The cast will be drawn from the Metropolitan and Chicago opera companies.

The Springfield (Mass.) Republican decides that "Blank verse" is now declaimed more slowly than in Tudor days, and offers the following argument to support the statement:

"Without losing literally Shakespeare's two hours traffic on the stage," there is reason to believe that in Elizabethan days blank verse was recited rapidly, and Shakespeare's own verse suggests a tempo which is quite different.

CONGRESS OF ORGANISTS FURNISHES RARE TREAT TO LOCAL MUSIC LOVERS

Coming of Mme. Stephani Eagerly Awaited by Oakland

DR. H. J. STEWART

Hundreds of bay city people attended the musical service given on Thursday night by the Northern California chapter of the American Guild of Organists of the United States and Canada. The First Congregational church was crowded to listen to the splendid numbers given by the organists of the bay region, who included Rev. Frank L. Coopersped, D.D., pastor First Presbyterian church, Oakland; Humphrey J. Stewart, music director, A. G. O. Organist of St. Dominic's church, San Francisco; Wallace A. Sabine, A. G. O. organist of First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Temple Emanuel, San Francisco; Miss J. Virginie de Fremery, organist of First Congregational church, Oakland; Mrs. E. H. Garthwaite, organist of First Methodist church, Oakland; Miss Jessie H. Beatty, organist of the First Methodist church, Oakland; Warren D. Allen, A. G. O. organist of First Methodist church, San Jose; Dr. George Moore, organist of Calvary Presbyterian church, San Francisco; Alexander Stewart, director, First Congregational church, Oakland.

Mrs. George Winchester's soprano voice was a great treat to all with Mrs. Carl E. Anderson of the First Presbyterian church, Robert M. Battison and Henry L. Perry and the choir of the First Methodist, St. Paul's Episcopal and First Congregational churches of Oakland.

The chorus work of trained voices numbering several hundred, showed careful scholarly preparation. The organ of the Congregational church is especially in all its parts well to advantage in the thoroughly beautiful program which was as follows:

Organ prelude, "Pleas Horolique" (Oscar French); Miss Virginie de Fremery, organist of First Congregational church; "Magnificat in D" (Wallace A. Sabine), conducted by the author, who is the organist of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, San Francisco; "Evening Prayer," Rev. F. L. Coopersped, D.D., conductor; "The Immortal Father's Face" (Mark Andrews), prize anthem of the guild in 1910, directed by Alexander Stewart, the director of the choir of the First Congregational church, with Miss Jessie H. Beatty, organist of the First Methodist church, at the organ, benevolence, Rev. F. L. Coopersped, D.D., in "D'Yer Number Nines" (Sabine), conducted by the Composer, with Benjamin S. Moore, organist of Calvary Presbyterian church, San Francisco, at the organ; organ postlude, "Sonata in C Major" (Julius Reubke); Mrs. E. H. Garthwaite.

RECITAL AT SOROSIS.

Mrs. Oscar Mansfeldt and Alexander Stewart presented their pupils in a program of chamber music, given at the Sorosis club, San Francisco, with a thoroughly enjoyable program was given including the following well known numbers:

Violin—Mrs. H. Roy Stewart, Miss Carrie Brink, Miss Mary Scott, Miss Jessie H. Beatty, Charles E. Blank, Kenneth Fox, Thomas Woodcock.

Pianoforte—Miss Edna Googel, Miss Clara Henrichs, Miss Mabel Peardon, Miss Helen Whipple, Sonate for Piano and Violin, Gade.

Allegro di molto, larghetto, allegro molto vivace.

Miss Helen Whipple, Mrs. H. Roy Stewart, the director of the choir of the First Congregational church, with Miss Jessie H. Beatty, organist of the First Methodist church, at the organ, benevolence, Rev. F. L. Coopersped, D.D., in "D'Yer Number Nines" (Sabine), conducted by the Composer, with Benjamin S. HIS INSPIRATION.

There is a charming story about "the Man Who Came Back." He belonged to the smart set, and he was helped to come back by the "dining room girl." And he said to "Birdie":

"I can't tell you how grateful I am. This is no place to talk to you. Will you let me walk home with you after your work's done?"

"Will it do?" said Birdie. "I will not."

"The Man Who Came Back" is a good story, and Sophie, her mother, says, "She's a good girl, and she's got a good heart."

"Hold that waist till tomorrow, will you what? I spend in face powder, and toilet water, and hairpins alone, you'd think I'd made a mistake and given you the bunches instead. They don't want old timers like me, Gable, if I was to tell you what I spend in face powder, and toilet water, and hairpins alone, you'd think I'd made a mistake and given you the bunches instead."

"Following the runaway marriage of the couple with the wealthy and unforgiving father as a picturesque accessory, comes the exquisitely united life, a life of almost spectacular completeness, except that nothing spectacular can be associated with the Browns.

It is a new world to which Edna Forber introduces many of us, but we find that nothing is more absorbing interest. The characters in it speak a strange language, a slang that is sometimes altogether new, but so refreshing, so expansive, that one longs to adopt a few of its phrases for his own personal vocabulary. The charm of the stories is the vital way in which they stand out against a background. You must perceive these stories yourself, and they are so absolutely true to life, clear, direct, that one longs to adopt a few of its phrases for his own personal vocabulary. # Fraternal Societies of Alameda County

Queen Ada, whose victory as the ruler of the Red Men's carnival and baby show to be held under the auspices of Pohonache Tribe on May 27 and 28, has been the absorbing topic in the circles of the Improved Order of Red Men and the Daughters of Pocahontas. The matron of honor will be Mrs. Charles Edwards, wrennah of Calumet Council, who was Ethel Sherwood when she was aspiring to the throne, and who last Monday night, at the close of the fight for the crown in which she was second, civilized the sequel of her marriage. The ladies-in-waiting to "Her Majesty" will be Hazel LaStrange, Pocahontas of Willipi Council; Josephine Lewis, wrennah of Alvaria Council; Ada Dow of Althamne Council; and Kate Overend, Pocahontas of Mantonomah Council.

A. J. "Dill" Oliva, who created a hit at the North Beach carnival as the king's jester, will officiate in a similar capacity in Queen Ada's court. The royal escort will be formed by the drill team of Mohican Council, of which the ruler was the representative in the Queen contest.

The executive board of the festival decided to present tokens to Queen Ada and her escort, as well as six small cups and trophies to the winners in the baby contest and the competitions for the most phenomenal twins or triplets, the most efficient child athletes and the best sustained male and female characters in the costume ball May 28.

IMPROVED ORDER OF RED MEN.

Uras Tribe No. 137 at its last regular council fire adopted a clause fifteen paragraphs and amended for another class provision, to be held on the evening of Friday, May 31, at its wigwam, 677 Bourne street.

Alvahne Tribe No. 86 of Fruitvale, one of the crack degree teams of the state, will perform the work.

A number of great chiefs of the Great Council of California are expected to be present.

FORESTERS.

At the last meeting of Court Pledmont No. 7808, Ancient Order of Foresters several applications for membership were read and acted upon. The entertainment committee reported that arrangements were completed for the smoker at the next meeting night, Thursday, May 23.

At the convention which was held at Fresno during the past week Brother James Dunham of Court Pledmont was elected to the position of high court senior beadle, which now gives Oakland two representatives on the executive council of the Pacific Coast. Brother Dunham will be tendered a reception Thursday evening.

Court Oakland, No. 1237, Independent Order of Foresters, met last Monday evening at its hall, 531 Eleventh street. Five new applications were received, making the total number of members now 283, and is making strenuous efforts to reach the 100 mark by next month.

Twenty-four members have joined the drill team and are practicing weekly in the Bakersfield grounds. The team is drilling for the last Monday evening in May for the class initiation. Next Monday evening the court will hold a public party. On June 17, will hold a dance.

UNITED ARTISANS.

The Artisan Cadets will entertain at a May dance Monday evening, May 20, in Franklin Castle, Twelfth and Alice streets. The committee in charge of the affair has made elaborate preparations and plans to make it the social event of the season.

Last Monday evening there was a splendid attendance at the regular business session of Golden Gate assembly. Several visiting artisans were present. There were fourteen application cards received and balanced upon. Other important business was disposed of, after which the floor was cleared and Captain Peterson, in charge of the cadets, conducted the drills.

DODGE FELLOWS.

Golden Rule Encampment I. O. O. F. has enjoyed a number of social evenings at whist. Next Friday a large class will receive the patriarchal degree. An athletic evening is planned for the last meeting in June.

United Lodge No. 144, at its next meeting Thursday, May 23, will have a candidate for initiation and nomination for the first degree. Arrangements are being made for an entertainment to be given next month.

REBEKAH.

Brooklyn Rebekah Lodge No. 12, corner Eleventh avenue and East Twelfth street, will give a social on Monday evening, May 20.

Abalt. Indra. Rebekah Lodge No. 11, will tender a reception on Tuesday evening, May 21, to Sister Ella Van Court. The initiatory degree will be conferred on several candidates. The affair will be open to Rebekahs.

Monday evening, May 13, Brooklyn Rebekah Lodge No. 12, I. O. O. F., held its regular weekly meeting. The routine business was transacted. The special committee served refreshments. After the recess was called a reception was held in honor of the birthday of Bro. E. M. Lipka. In behalf of the lodge, he was presented with a bouquet as a token from the social committee. Bro. Lipka received a bouquet of roses. Past District Deputy President Louise K. Wyndham, with a few remarks, presented Bro. Lipka with a hand-painted cup and saucer. Many visitors were present as well as members. Next Monday evening, May 20, the lodge will give a "home social."

Local talent will provide the entertainment. Dancing will follow the program.

Brooklyn Lodge No. 12, I. O. O. F. meets every Monday evening in Orion L. O. F. hall, corner Twelfth street and Eleventh avenue, East Oakland.

Last Friday evening, Sunset Rebekah Lodge, No. 109, held its regular weekly session in Fraternity hall, Seventh and Peraleo streets, Noble Grand, Esther Park, pending.

Next Friday evening, May 24, officers will be nominated and there will be initiation.

Golden Link Rebekah Lodge, No. 105, West Oakland, gave a birthday party Wednesday evening, April 24, for its members. They were May Barthold, A. P. N. G.; Elsie McLean, W. G. Slaters Vernon and Edna Ingram.

It was a surprise to the recipients who received such words of appreciation and thanks. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Golden Link will give a whist party Wednesday evening, May 29.

MACCABEES.

At the regular review of Oakland Tent No. 17, held in a hall on Telegraph, Eighth and Clay streets, last Monday evening the regular order of business was carried out. Seven applications were received and a regular number of candidates were elected.

The record keeper announced that a large class will be initiated next Monday night. Great Commander S. W. Hall reported the death of Sir Knight O. H. D. He was born in 1848. The cause of his death was heart trouble. This is the first death that occurred in Oakland Tent since October, 1911. Past Commander Joseph Leveons of Vallejo Tent, No. 46, addressed the members.

"My Lady's Ears, Pink & Shell-Like"

Sometimes the hair may be worn so as to cover the ears

"No Woman Who Has Beautiful Ears Should Hide Them" — Says Lillian Russell

Fritz Scheff has nearly perfect ears and always dresses her hair to show them.

Be careful not to bend your ears when sleeping.

By LILLIAN RUSSELL.

[Copyright: 1912. By Lillian Russell.]

Of few women have pretty ears that if one does possess such a beauty attribute she should by all means show them. Most women's ears are too big or too narrow. They stand out from the head or they twist downward. The right sort of an ear at the right sort of an angle is almost unknown. The Italian peasant women often own such an ear, and the Spanish girl the most exquisite brown ears, well shaped and faultlessly set against the side of the head.

There are any amount of remedies offered for the poor misshapen ears. "In Paris they sell a head harness which goes over the top of the head and across the tips of the ears. Again it goes around the head, this time taking in the lobes of the ears. This harness can readily be fashioned at home, but the most important thing to remember is not to cover the orifice in the ear, as the hearing suffers if the air is shut out.

If the ear harness is well planned it will also lift the chin, supporting the flesh and keeping the chin from growing more double than it already is. It worn constantly at night this harness will do away with double chin and make the ears lie close to the face and did not outshine it, as diamonds invariably do.

Diamonds to Be Avoided.

Women who try to make the most of their appearance never wear diamonds in the ears. Diamond earrings should be left to dowsers and to those who are so wonderfully pretty that nothing can mar their beauty, dim the luster of their complexion, eyes, and hair; but the beauty strugglers should wear pearls or stones matching their eyes, only they should be at least a couple of shades dimmer or duller than the tones of their eyes. If the eyes are small they can be wonderfully enlarged in appearance in this manner.

If the face is long and slim then the earring should be short and round. If the face is crooked, and many faces are crooked, then the earring should never be dangling. Many an otherwise symmetrical appearing face is made to look twisted by the mere hanging of a long earring beside it.

If your ears are fat and your face is fat, then

If your ears are not good, train your hair to come well over them.

A night cap is a wonderful help in the cultivation of ear beauty.

In the case of hopelessly unmanageable ears, the hair should be plucked as close as possible behind the ear. It is always becoming though sometimes a bit difficult to build correctly.

I have always been strongly opposed to pierced ears. They are positively disfiguring, and often this pierced spot becomes torn. To those who are unfortunate enough to get this pierced spot torn I would suggest that the wound be closed at once and the screw variety of ring be used. The continued use of pierced earrings stretches the ears and enlarges them in a most distressing manner. Nothing is more unsightly than a neglected and torn ear.

No base metal should be worn in the ear, and no gold that is not at least eighteen carats fine.

It is asserted by an anatomist that the ears of an individual are usually unlike in shape and that in some cases the difference is so marked that a photograph of the two proves them so dissimilar that it is difficult to believe that the pair belong to the same individual.

Regarding the care of the ear, cleanliness is the chief consideration.

Three Parts to the Ear.

Of late years the fashion of coiffure has had a tendency to cover one of the most beautiful features of the face or head. Poems have been written on "my lady's ears," pink and shell-like.

No woman who has beautiful ears should hide them. There are so many with badly shaped ones, too large or too prominent, that beautiful ears are conspicuous only by their form and coloring.

I think if women appreciated their pretty ears they would be more careful of them in all ways. Scientifically there are three parts to the ear—the external ear, which is or is not beautiful, consisting of the auricle and the external auditory canal; the middle ear or drum cavity, and the internal ear, that contains the organ of hearing. The last lies deep in the bone and is rarely affected by external conditions.

The ear should never be meddled with, as is the habit of many women. Hearing can be and is often impaired by the persistent use of hairpins and toothpicks to cleanse the ear. One touch of the ear drum by any sharp instrument will affect the hearing and cause permanent trouble.

There is a secretion which forms in the ear called wax, which if left alone will harden into a little substance and come out with an ordinary fine towel in the daily ablution, unnoticed as it were. Should a collection of wax gather and harden without shedding in the usual way it should never be tampered with.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

E. E.: To fill in the hollows in the neck rub cocoanut oil thoroughly into the hollows and repeat the following exercise: Raise the head and blow as blowing at a whistle, keeping the chin in the air for about five minutes and supposing the thistle-down to be first on one side and then on the other. Try this before your mirror and see how it rounds out your neck and tightens the muscles.

E. M.: I cannot print the formula for the curling fluid but shall be happy to send it to you if you will send me a stamped addressed envelope.

BLANCHE: I think you are foolish to have any tattooing done at all. It is disfiguring and once done you can never have it removed, and besides it is dangerous. I know nothing about the way it is done, nor what they use.

HIDDEN BODY OF BABE FOUND

LURED TO DEATH BY WOMAN

Wealthy Tailor's Body Found in Vacant House in City of San Francisco

Valuables Gone and Feminine Effects Are Found Near Gruesome Corpse

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—Isaac Cohen, a wealthy tailor employed by Joe Pohelm at Market at Ellis streets, and whose home was at the Fresno hotel, 447 Eddy street, was shot and killed some time after 6 o'clock last Monday evening in a vacant house at 1338 Steiner street.

The body of Cohen was found today. It is thought by the police that Cohen was lured to the house by a woman and there slain for the purpose of robbery. Cohen usually carried several hundred dollars in his pocket, which he always had in his waistcoat, celluloid hairpins and a bit of white fur was found in the room in which Cohen's body lay.

Cohen was shot in the stomach with a .38-caliber pistol, and the bullet wound was found to have caused his death. He was also beaten on the head, probably with the pistol. No weapon of any sort was found in the building.

THINK WOMAN SLAYER.

A long-brown hair was found attached to Cohen's coat collar. It is thought by the police that this hair was detached from the head of the woman during the struggle which ended in Cohen's death.

The theory of the police is that the woman was assisted by a man in the slaying and robbing of Cohen.

The body of Cohen was discovered by James Beardmore, a window shade dealer at 1758 Ellis street. He had gone to the vacant building with Mrs. Matt Harris of 735 Baker street, who owns the premises, and Mrs. Anna Schultz of 1001 Steiner street, who had agreed to rent the place. While the two women remained at the foot of the stairway Beardmore ascended to the second floor. Near the head of the stairs in the back parlor of the flat Beardmore saw the body of Cohen lying. Frightened he hastened to the street and informed the two women. Then he ran to the saloon of Matt Tierney at Steiner and Ellis streets, where the key to the building had been kept, and told them of the matter.

POLICE INVESTIGATE.

The police were then notified and the coroner summoned. Detectives Conlon, Mackay, Miheshan, Daley, O'Neal and Straub were assigned to investigate the matter.

The investigations made by the police tended to show that Cohen and his slayers did not enter the house by the front door leading to the staircase, but through another front door leading into a room formerly occupied by a saloon and thence up the rear staircase or that they reached the rear staircase by climbing a fence in the rear of the building.

It appeared also that either Cohen or his slayers used a ladder to get into the building. Last Monday afternoon Mrs. Schultz looked out the rear doors to the building. When Cohen's body was found the kitchen door opening to the room in which Cohen's body lay was locked. Mrs. Schultz said she did not lock this door.

LAST SEEN MONDAY.

Earl Cohen, son of Isaac Cohen, told the police that he last saw his father at 6 o'clock last Monday evening. Tuesday morning young Cohen visited the tailoring shop of Joe Pohelm and inquired why his father had not returned home Monday evening. The disappearance was then reported to the police and young Cohen consulted Attorney Colton.

Joe Pohelm informed the police that Cohen often carried several hundred dollars on his person and that he repeatedly warned him of the danger in doing this.

Oakland Ballplayer Placed Under Arrest

Accused of Non-Support of His Wife in Warrant Issued at Antioch.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—Elmer Martindale, a member of the Oakland baseball team, was arrested at Recreation Park following the game this afternoon by Detective Mulcahey. He was booked as a fugitive from justice. Early tonight he was delivered into the custody of a constable from Antioch, who stated that Martindale was wanted there for non-support of his wife.

WILL FIGHT, VIGILANTES PRINCIPAL THREATEN LYNCHING

E. N. Mabrey, Head of Hayward School, Surrenders on Battery Charge

He Is Accused of Cruelty in Whipping One of His Pupils

HAYWARD, May 18.—E. N. Mabrey, principal of the Hayward Grammar School, for whose arrest a warrant was sworn to by Joseph Lamb this afternoon, in connection with the alleged brutal whipping of his son, Walter Lamb, walked into Justice of the Peace Prowse's office late in the day and gave himself up.

Mabrey will be held to $1,000 by Prowse on his own recognizance and will be arraigned some time next week. He asserted his innocence of the charge of battery upon which the warrant was issued and said he would fight the case to a finish. The specific charge against Mabrey is of having thrashed young Lamb so severely that the flesh on his back was cut in several places. The lad's back had been dressed seven times this week by Dr. G. H. Reynolds, president of the Board of Health, who expressed himself as being shocked at the knowledge that such things could be done in a Hayward school.

THRASHED SCORE OF PUPILS.

The swearing out of a warrant for the arrest of Mabrey came as the climax of the illness of several charges of cruelty to children on the board of grammar school trustees.

The trouble started last Monday when, it is alleged, the principal thrashed between twenty and thirty boys and girls for having delayed in answering the bell calling them to their classrooms. According to the children, one of the drinking fountains had gone partially dry and in slaking their thirst they were kept a few minutes.

Trustees to Accept Gift of Carnegie

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—Despite the pronounced opposition of former Mayor Taylor to the acceptance of Carnegie's money, his associates on the board of public library trustees have outvoted him on the Laird of Skibo's proffered gift to this city.

The supervisors received yesterday from Secretary George A. Mullin of the library board a letter inclosing a copy of the following resolution adopted on May 14:

"Resolved: That it be the sense of the board of library trustees that the supervisors proceed to enter into definite negotiations with Carnegie for the acceptance of the gift of $750,000 for a main library building and branches, as per the ordinance of the Board of supervisors on July 23, 1901."

Lynch Returns From Trip to Washington

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—James K. Lynch, chairman of the transportation committee of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, has returned from Washington, where he visited William R. Wheeler, manager of the traffic bureau of the chamber, who is at the national capital to represent the position taken by the chamber in keeping the Panama canal an open waterway. Lynch assured the Home that the policy of the chamber was against any line or individuals and was simply a recognition of the principle that to allow a transcontinental railroad to own or control a competing steamship line operating through the canal would interfere with the free play of the law of competition and place rival lines under an unfair advantage.

Vessel With Arms for Mexico Seized by U. S.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—The Montes line steamship Santona was seized in the harbor here tonight by the United States revenue cutter Davey, charged with violating the terms of President Taft's proclamation of March 14, prohibiting the shipment of arms and ammunition to Mexico. The Santona, which had cleared and sailed for Progresso, Mexico, had on board 110,000 rounds of rifle ammunition and ten cases of carbines.

Presidio Golf Club Defeats Claremont

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—The Presidio Golf Club defeated the Claremont Club on the Presidio Links this afternoon and the play was most exciting throughout. The score in favor of the local celebrities was 17 to 7.

ROOT TO BE CHAIRMAN PRO TEM

Atorneys for I. W. W. Workers in San Diego Barricaded in Their Offices

Warned to Get Out of Town in Hurry, but Defy Would-Be Assailants

Taft Calls Attention to Big Deficit and End of the Colonel's Term

SAN DIEGO, May 18.—The situation of unrest brought about by the activities of the Industrial Workers of the World and which has caused turmoil in the community for the past three months and a half, tonight assumed the most threatening aspect it has yet revealed.

Threatened by the vigilantes, Attorneys Fred Moore and Marcus Robbins and their stenographer, W. S. Rawlins, surrounded with firearms and ammunition, are behind barricaded doors tonight in their office in the National Bank building, and facing probable attack by the same band of men which has taken such an active part in the deportation of I. W. W. and men like Dr. Ben Reitman, Emma Goldman's manager, the former Governor Franklin Murphy of New Jersey, Victor Rosewater of Nebraska and Edward C. Duncan of North Carolina of the sub-committees arrived today. Ralph E. Williams of Oregon was expected to attend. All the other members are here with the exception of Arthur Ivorys of Ohio, who is engaged in the primary campaign.

ROOT IS NAMED.

Elliot Root was most prominently mentioned as the sub-committee's choice for temporary chairman. Others suggested for the temporary chairman were Senator Charles W. Fairbanks and Governor Eugene of Illinois. Later it was reported that the sub-committee had agreed on Senator Root as temporary chairman and had sent a message to him asking his acceptance. None of the committee would confirm the rumor.

The present acute situation is the outcome of an incident of this morning, when Moore and Robbins, who are local counsel for the I. W. W., the Socialists and the American Federation of Labor, and Rawlins were surrounded near the city jail at 8:30 o'clock by a crowd of about 35 men, and with the implied alternative of death by hanging, told to leave the city, never to return. The incident occurred in the heart of the city and passersby were free to witness all that occurred. The vigilantes wore no masks nor made any attempt at disguise.

LAWYERS ATTACKED.

The attack upon Moore, Robbins and Rawlins followed immediately upon their release from the city jail, where they had been under detention for an hour following the discovery of revolver and ammunition in their offices. The search for weapons was made by detectives on complaint that the lawyers had been smuggling arms and ammunition into the city. Moore, when questioned, stated that he had had the revolver or the past 60 days. Moore, after being released by the vigilantes, got in touch with Superior Judges Guy and Sloan and appealed to them for protection, asking that citations for contempt of court be issued against John Porter and 12 others interfering with an officer of the court. The judges decided that Saturday afternoon was a court holiday and that citations could not be issued before Monday.

LYNCHING IS FEARED.

The action of the Superior Court judges speedily known and caused a temporary subsidence of the agitation against Moore, Robbins and Rawlins, but those best acquainted with the temper of the vigilantes fear that an attack will be made on the attorneys tonight and that a lynching or two is probable before dawn tomorrow.

With the issuance of citations by the court Monday the vigilante committee will be brought into the open for the first time since the trouble began.

Largest Award Ever Considered by Body Is for New Piers.

SACRAMENTO, May 18.—Contracts for piers 30 and 32 at a cost of $1,942,460, made by the San Francisco Board of Harbor Commissioners with Robert Wakefield, Portland, Or., were approved today by the State Board of Control. This is the largest contract so far approved by the Board of Control since its creation.

Falls Into Bay and Dies in Hospital

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—Arthur Harvey of 336 Freeman street was accidentally drowned in the bay off Folsom street wharf late tonight. He was walking on the pier when he stumbled and fell overboard. Several sailors took him from the water and he died despite an hour's work on the part of the surgeons.

BURIED IN ORCHARD GRAVE

Detectives Seeking Motives for Concealing Corpse of Infant

Farmer and Housekeeper Are Held by the Police for Investigation

The body of an infant, apparently fully developed, was found buried 12 feet underground in the orchard of the small farm owned by Charles Bomberg in Lincoln avenue, San Leandro, after the police had forced the man to lead them to the place.

Inspectors St. Clair Hodgkins and Thomas Gallagher worked for 6 hours today with pick and shovel digging in the basement of the home of Bomberg, the San Leandro farmer and mining man being held at the city jail in a vain search for the remains of the infant believed to have been buried alive there. Then they returned to the city jail and took Bomberg from his cell to the scene of the supposed crime.

The direction the two detectives had received from Minnie Silva, the mother of the child, and from Bomberg had resulted in the fruitless labor of many hours. A few minutes talk with Bomberg on the scene of the affair resulted in Bomberg leading the two men from the basement of the house out into the orchard and directing them to dig under a tree about 200 yards from the dwelling.

EMBROIDERIES AT D. SAMUELS THAT WILL CREATE A SENSATION

D. Samuels have had many successful Embroidery Sales and in each case the values given have created comment, but former records for value-giving will be eclipsed tomorrow.

More important than the remarkably low selling prices will be the character of the embroideries. Goods so exquisite that in the commencement of a season they would be snatched up, regardless of price. All rich qualities, and most exquisite designs just received from Europe—the result of one of the best purchases our foreign office has ever made.

At 40c Yard—Embroidered Bandings from 4 to 6 ins. in Cluny and Irish effects. Edgings from 6 to 12 inches in English Eyelet, Irish and Cluny effects, comprising 75c, $1.00 and $1.25 values.

At 75c Yard—Is to be found beautiful Cluny, Irish and English Embroidered Bands 5 to 10 inches wide. Dainty Edgings from 6 to 12 inches to match; 27-inch flounceings in English eyelet and Irish effects; worth to $2 yard.

At $1.00 Yard—Forty pieces of flounceings, some 27 ins. wide, others 45 inches wide; all delightful embroideries worth to $2.50 and $3 yard.

At $1.65 Yard—Swiss and nainsook flounceings, 27 and 45 inches wide, that will be found astonishing values. Many of them would attract attention at $3.50 and $4 yd.

At $1.95 Yard—Very handsome 45-inch flounceings in macrame, ratiere, baby Irish, Cluny Filet and fine eyelet effects, representing $4 to $5 values.

At $2.45 Yard—Are some of the handsomest embroideries ever exhibited in this city; beautiful 45-inch flounceings—almost the entire width of rich, fine macrame, filet, baby Irish, ratiere designs—worth up to $10 yard.

CONVENTION HALL SCHOOL PRINCIPAL TO SEAT 11,170 GIVES HIMSELF UP

More Than 8000 Spectators to Be at National Republican Gathering.

According to an admission from Justice Hughes that he is willing to accept the nomination is a promise made by Mr. Taft at the time of his appointment to the Supreme Court which he would not be a candidate.

Saying that Taft will not be able to stem the Roosevelt tide at the Chicago convention, a delegation of prominent Republicans within the few days called upon Justice Hughes to ascertain his exact position.

He told them frankly that his candidacy depends entirely upon the action of President Taft.

The plan of the Taft forces, it is understood, is that if they ascertain at the floor of the convention that President will not be able to obtain the nomination on the first ballot, the name of Hughes will be sprung. Hughes will immediately be given a great ovation and an attempt made to stampede the convention in his behalf. The Taft forces are confident that Hughes will be able to carry New York as opposed to Roosevelt. They say he is the only man on whom they are willing to concentrate as a substitute for their own candidate.

In addition to Walker's complaint one was filed with the trustees by Mabel Dutra, an old resident of this place, asserting that last September her son, Arthur Dutra, was so severely handled by Mabrey for a nominal offense that he fled from the school and was afraid to return. It is further alleged by Dutra that Mabrey, when it was learned that the boy was about to return to school, signed a document requiring the parents from sending the boy to a public school on the ground that he could not read or write the English language. That this is the case is denied by Dutra. He also showed Attorney Walker the marks on the boy's legs which it is alleged were made by Mabrey when he thrashed the lad.

President Moore was on the program to discuss "San Francisco Today" and he announced at the outset that while he was not going to say what was expected of him, he was going to stay close to his subject. Later he declared that the spirit of unjust criticism and unrest that characterizes the attacks upon the board is only transitory, but that while this condition exists it presents a difficult problem to the directorate.

"It seems likely to be a popular pastime to bait the exposition," he said in opening. "Criticism is alleged friendly, freely giving along the line of the lack of public confidence in what we do. It is charged that the board is a close corporation that it is extravagant, that its members are seeking to folot themselves to the state."

A special meeting of the board of trustees, consisting of Arthur Peterkin, A. W. Bean and F. I. Lemos, will be held next Monday evening, when the grave charges against the principal will be thoroughly gone into.

It is not likely that Mabrey will be dismissed, but in the event that he is, Attorney Walker is preparing to take up the matter with the Human Society in Oakland, Lemos, who is president of the board, yesterday admitted that Mabrey had overstepped his authority in thrashing the Lamb boy so severely. Lemos further said that complaints of harsh treatment to children had been made against the principal some time ago, but had been settled after some difficulty.

Mabrey has been head of the grammar school for several years and has been considered by many one of the best teachers ever in the employ of the school authorities. He has made a general denial of the charges against him.

LONDON DEBUT OF SOPRANO INTERESTS BAY MUSICIANS

MISS DAKER FLETCHER, WHOSE RECENT LONDON DEBUT AS A CONCERT ARTISTE WAS MOST SUCCESSFUL.

Musical circles about the bay have received news from London of the debut in concert in that city of Miss Daker Fletcher, sister-in-law of Mrs. Peter Fletcher remembered as Miss Tay of San Francisco. The debut was made in fashionable Bechstein Hall on Monday evening, April 16, Miss Fletcher, who is a mezzo-soprano, being assisted on violin by Violonist, and pianist Harry accompanist. The London critics, whose judgment is considered of the most critical, gave most favorable comment to the young singer, the critic of the London Standard saying among other things:

"There are more than the markings of an artist in Miss Daker-Fletcher, and she has style, and taste, moreover of a refined and finished order."

Among Miss Fletcher's selections at this first concert were such classics as Franz's "Rosmarin" and "Liechten ist da"; Brahms' "Am Sonntag Morgen" and "Meine Liebe ist grün" and Strauss' "Zueignung," together with some eighteenth century Scotch songs.

MOORE TURNS ON THOSE WHO CRITICIZED BOARD

President of 1915 Fair Resents Charges of Extravagance and Mismanagement

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—Charles C. Moore, president of the Panama-Pacific International exposition, turned Friday night upon those who have been active in circulating reports of extravagance and mismanagement on the part of the exposition directors, and, in a stirring speech before the San Francisco Commercial club, branded as unprincipled trouble makers the men who started the criticism.

Several days ago at an indignation meeting of citizens at which Attorney Horace G. Walker presided, there was some talk of having the alleged offender arrested on a charge of battery, but it was finally decided that formal charges should be filed with the school board and no action taken until after a thorough investigation had been made. The action of Lamb today came as a surprise.

OTHER CHARGES.

Two other charges now hang over Mabrey's head, each alleging cruelty and excessively harsh treatment of boys and girls. The formal complaint filed with the board by Attorney Walker deals with the wholesale thrashing Monday and besides other things alleged that two little girls were severely punished for merely coming into the classroom. The parents of Mabrey's children it is charged, were victims of Mabrey's wrath.

In addition to Walker's complaint one was filed with the trustees by Mabel Dutra, an old resident of this place, asserting that last September her son, Arthur Dutra, was so severely handled by Mabrey for a nominal offense that he fled from the school and was afraid to return. The final performances of "Frontier Days," the spectacular Wild West production of the Moose at the Grove-street ball grounds by the Dell Eagles' congress of roughriders, will be given today. The matinee will begin at 2:30 and the evening performance at 8 o'clock.

Moving pictures will be taken for exhibition all over the United States and Canada.

Manager "Dad" Kennedy of the Dell Eagles' company has engaged a number of extra attractions for today, including a troupe of Egyptian horsemen who will perform thrilling feats.

There are fourteen acts on the regular program, but today a number of local horses will be tamed and ridden by the cowboys. There will also be roughriding and hippodrome contests for all comers.

Several thousand school children were the guests of the Moose at yesterday afternoon's performance.

CHILD MEETS A HORRIBLE DEATH

Strikes Matches on Celluloid Comb and Flare Sets Clothing Ablaze.

HANFORD, May 18.—Matches and a celluloid comb caused the death of a 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Olevim, on their ranch south of Hanford last night. The little girl was terribly burned, but lived several hours in agony. Leaving her three small children to go to a neighbor's, the mother was called home to find her youngest child, May, badly burned. Portions of the body were charred.

The little one had found matches and a comb belonging to her mother. When she struck a match on the comb it started up and burned her fingers. Little May did not notice the pain and the clothing caught fire. Running screaming into the yard, she was found by a neighbor with all her clothing burned off but the neck and wristbands of her dress.

Fishermen Cling to Their Craft Desperately

ASTORIA, Ore., May 18.—The fishermen who were carried out to sea on Thursday from the mouth of the Columbia river and their boat capsized were rescued by a passing vessel. They are Reynolds, Chapman and Hank Jensen. When their craft topped over in the heavy sea they suffered greatly from thirst and exposure as they clung desperately for their lives.

After 16-Year Search Finds Her Daughter

LOS ANGELES, May 18.—After searching for sixteen years for her daughter, Mrs. Agnes Rich located her today with the aid of the police department. The girl is Ellen Rich of New York. She wrote to the local chief of police regarding her parents.

MODEL AEROPLANES MAKE GOOD FLIGHTS

Members of the Polytechnic Aero Club of San Francisco won seven of the ten prizes at the Bay Cities Model Aeroplane meet, which was held on the Oceanland Amateur Aero Club field at Fruitvale avenue and Park street yesterday afternoon. The meet was held under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association.

The first event was for distance. This was won by Dudley Brown of the Polytechnic Aero Club, which made a distance of 1261 feet before it fell to the ground. The second prize was captured by W. L. Butler, also of the Polytechnic Club, whose machine flew 1185 feet. Brown was awarded the silver loving cup for winning this event.

A duration cup was won by Butler, whose "Black Pinto" was in the air for 55 seconds. R. Robinson of the Polytechnic Club was awarded second prize. His time was 45 1/5 seconds.

The speed contest was for a distance of 150 feet and was won by R. Robinson in 3 4-5 seconds, with C. Cleverly of the Oceanland Club second in 4 seconds flat. R. Montanya of the Oakland Club made the distance in 3 3-5 seconds in an unofficial flight of his monoplane.

Montanya won the first prize in the accuracy contest. W. Doyle of the Polytechnic Club was second.

EMMA GOLDMAN TO GIVE MANY LECTURES

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19.—Emma Goldman, the anarchist leader, and Dr. Ben Reitman, her manager, are in San Francisco. They are fresh from the battlefield of San Diego, where Miss Goldman was refused permission to address the people, and where Dr. Reitman was captured by vigilantes and tarred and feathered.

They will remain in San Francisco for ten days. Miss Goldman will lecture at noon tomorrow and every evening during the week at Jefferson Square hall, 924 Golden Gate avenue.

Her subject tomorrow will be "The Failure of Christianity." Monday evening the subject will be "Maternity"; Tuesday evening, "Art and Revolution"; Wednesday, "Socialism Caught in the Political Trap"; Thursday, "Sex, the Great Element in Creative Work."

QUEER MARITAL TROUBLE ENDED

Grocer Obtains Final Decree of Divorce, Following Warm Experience.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—Rollie River Parks of Parks Brothers & Co., wholesale grocers, 341 Minna street, today obtained from Judge E. P. Hogan in the Superior Court a final decree of divorce from Mabelle A. Parks, who, in March 1911, horsewhipped him in Market street opposite their home at Sixteenth and Market, when he attempted to serve her with a summons in his suit.

Mrs. Parks is now with her parents in the East, where she went after Parks had agreed to dismiss his original action, naming Walter Leeman defendant and substitute a complaint simply charging desertion. She was not present when the interlocutory decree was awarded the day before, but the record shows that Parks, an attorney and incorporated, filed both his interlocutory and final decrees that his wife is to resume her maiden name of Mabelle A. Keller.

A few nights before the day Parks stood on his legal complaint, Mrs. Parks gazed the services of a detective, and when his wife went out that evening the two men followed her.

While she enjoyed herself at a dance with young Leeman, who is a cigar dumpling, Parks, and his detective, watched the pair unobserved by the police.

According to the original complaint, Mrs. Parks and Leeman went from the dance hall to the Empire apartments, Hotel and Casting office, where, early in the morning, Parks and his detective broke into their rooms.

The following day, Parks, through his attorney, William P. Caub, sued for divorce.

The next morning, the husband, accompanied by Fred Jensen, a process server, went to their flat, at Market and Sixteenth streets, to point out Mrs. Parks to the hallway the two men were met by the wife, who grappled with her husband, and together they rolled down the stairway and into the street.

OAKLANDERS PURCHASE MOSS BRAE FALLS TRACT AT SHASTA

SCENE ON THE MOSS BRAE TRACT NEAR MOUNT SHASTA, WHICH HAS BEEN PURCHASED BY OAKLAND CAPITALISTS FOR THE PURPOSE OF SUBDIVISION.

Title to Moss Brae Falls Tract at Shasta Springs, on the line of the Southern Pacific Railway, has been transferred to E. L. Fitzgerald of Oakland, it being understood that his brother, R. M. Fitzgerald, vice-president of the Central Bank of Oakland, and other well known capitalists, are interested in the deal, which involves $150,000 worth of property. The property lies directly opposite Shasta Springs, where 25,000 people visit each year to enjoy the beautiful scenery and drink the water from the many kinds of mineral springs, breathe the pure air at an elevation of 3000 feet above the sea level, and indulge in hunting and fishing.

Moss Brae Falls Tract comprises about 300 acres on the west side of the Sacramento river, adjoining Shasta Springs, and is the most beautiful spot in Shasta Springs and in California, and is an ideal spot for summer homes. It is the intention of the new owners to build a number of attractive homes for sale. Part of the tract occupies a large plateau on top of the ridge, which is subdivided into building sites, and is covered with large pines and redwood trees. There is a beautiful panoramic view with Mount Bradley on the southwest and Mount Shasta seven miles distant to the northeast.

A complete water system has been installed with the purchase of mountain water piped to each lot. The tract is only 10 hours' distance from the bay cities and is the only place where the Southern Pacific stops all trains 10 minutes to permit passengers to view the wonderful scenery and drink of the mineral waters. The train service is good and permits any one leaving San Francisco at 9 p.m. to arrive at the tract next morning.

TENTS FOR CAMPERS.

It is the intention of E. L. Fitzgerald to equip 50 tents, completely furnished, ready for occupancy, with water piped to each lot and electric lights installed in each tent for the accommodation of those wishing to visit this section this summer. Supplies and groceries can be purchased on the tract, there being a well equipped store, where everything can be purchased. For the camping service a charge of $12 per week, light and water free, per tent, will be made. This will accommodate a family of four. It is the intention of the promoters to run a special pulman car service during the season with special rates from San Francisco to $3 round trip.

This subdivision will be one of the highest class summer home sections in the State. Already many well known people have built homes, or are planning same. Among those well known people who have homes there now are Mrs. W. F. Herron of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and Mr. H. H. Hart of Berkeley, a Klondike millionaire.

The total land area is 1,200 to 1,400 acres according to size and location. The lots are covered with magnificent pines and redwood trees and can be purchased at very liberal terms, with a discount for those building within a certain time. Arrangements can be made with the promoters of the tract by those purchasing lots to have a home built on them.

The sales headquarters for the Moss Brae Falls Tract will be maintained at 142 Broadway, Oakland, and at the tract office at Shasta Springs, where maps and information can be secured.

STRIKING BALL PLAYERS FACE SEVERE PUNISHMENT

Heavy Fine or Suspension Likely to Be Imposed on Detroit Team

PHILADELPHIA, May 18.—As a result of the first big strike in the history of major league baseball in this country, the members of the Detroit American League team are to-night facing severe punishment at the hands of the league officials.

The Detroit players refused to play against the Athletics this afternoon, and President Johnson of the American League refused to lift the suspension of Ty Cobb. The men are therefore liable to suspension for the remainder of the season. In any event they will be lucky, according to baseball officials, to get off without a heavy fine.

As soon as President Johnson learned in Cincinnati, where he was attending a meeting of the national commission, that the men had actually refused to play and had walked off the field, that official wired Jennings that he would be in Philadelphia Saturday to demand an explanation of the trouble. President Naval Johnson is the president of the club, and the manager of the Detroit Club also sent word to Jennings from Detroit that he would be here in the morning. The three men will have a conference over the situation and then they will deal with the striking players.

JENNINGS WORRIED.

Manager Jennings was a badly worried man when he learned that his two chiefs were on their way here. At his hotel, where the striking players were awaiting developments, he said he would not hazard a guess as to the final outcome of the strike.

"I am afraid," he said, "that it will go hard with the players in spite of the fact that they feel they are fighting for a principle. I had no faith in the ability of a brotherhood of players, such as we had once had in the big league. It was not a success, nor will this one be."

"Of course, we cannot say what the American League or the Detroit Club will do in settlement of this case. It is hard to see how the players can get off without punishment, but whether it will be a fine or suspension for the remainder of the season no one can tell until the conference tomorrow."

GAME WAS A FARCE.

A good many of the Detroit players witnessed the farce of a game between the Athletics and the scrub team which Manager Jennings got together to put into the uniforms which the regulars discarded.

Manager Jennings was relieved that Sunday, without a game, would give time to adjust things. The players boasted that they were not worried over the situation. The players did not strike because Cobb was punished for striking the spectator at the New York game. As a matter of fact, they say they expected Cobb to be fined, or, at the worst, to be suspended for a day. The reason offered for the violence was the indefinite term of the suspension and the refusal of President Johnson to withhold action until he had made his investigation.

The great crowd, who had waited to see what the outcome was going to be, when they saw the players filing out they took up the cheer. If any moral support from fandom was necessary to stiffen the backbones of the striking players, they received it both inside and outside the park.

"Stick it out!" shouted the crowd.

With the players of the Detroit team gone, the crowds in the stand were anxious to see what sort of a make-shift club Manager Hughey Jennings would put into the field.

VETERANS IN FIELD.

The Detroit team walked around and went in the gate and took seats in the grandstand. A few minutes later Jim McGuire, the old Cleveland manager, and Joe Sudgen, the old Cincinnati catcher, and a team composed mostly of members of the nine of St. Joseph's College went out on the field.

The Athletics came out, smiled, waved their hands to the players in the stand and Jennings went on the side lines.

Cobb and the eighteen others sat composedly in the stand and laughed as the game went on.

The game was looked on as a joke. The first inning the Athletics made three runs, and when the game was ended the score was 24 to 2. The attitude of the crowd as the game progressed caused a call for 75 additional policemen. The number of fans who believed they had been defrauded of their money grew large and became

SAN JOSE TO VOTE ON LIQUOR ISSUE

Local Option Law Governs the Contest to Be Held Tomorrow.

SAN JOSE, May 18.—A municipal election made doubly interesting and exciting by its combination with an election under the Wyly local option law will be held here Monday at which a mayor, two councilmen and minor city officers will be chosen.

Overshadowing the election of a mayor is the liquor question and both sides are confident of victory. One is represented by a taxpayers' league, supporting the liquor interests and composed of some of the leading merchants of the city, while the prohibition forces are led by a local option committee composed of the ministers and business men not associated with the taxpayers' league.

Four candidates, Al Whitman, James Hilton, W. F. Peiper and Thomas J. Monahan, are in the fight for mayor, and are engaged against one another—Whitman and Monahan, the former a member of the present city council, are openly against the liquor traffic, while the latter is a chieftain of the present administration forces and favorable to the saloon interests.

The two other candidates are believed to be common report to be able only to come in third place, but both claim a victory.

BIG BATTLESHIP TEXAS LAUNCHED

Fighting Machine Takes to the Water, Following Notable Ceremony.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., May 18.—The Texas, largest battleship in the world and greatest fighting machine ever built for Uncle Sam or any other nation, was launched today. The queen of dreadnaughts, named in honor of the largest state in the Union, took the water in the presence of one of the most notable gatherings ever assembled at a similar event in this country.

Over the vessel's bow as she slid from the ways of the Newport News Shipbuilding Company's yard, little Miss Claudia Lyon, daughter of Colonel Cecil Lyon, Republican national committeeman of Texas, broke the bottle of champagne and named her "Texas."

The Texas will be battleship No 25 when she is completed and will be the only battleship in the world to carry 14-inch guns, of which she will have ten.

She is 572 feet long, 95 feet 2½ inches beam, so that she will have almost fifteen feet to spare in passing through the Panama canal locks. Her draft will be 28 feet 6 inches and her speed 21 knots, which would have been high speed for a cruiser a few years ago.

The Texas, as she emerged from the builders' hands, will cost about $10,000,000.

SERVICES FOR SUNDAY.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—Rev W. E. Crouse, the pastor, will preach in the First Lutheran Church, Geary street, between Gough and Octavia, tomorrow at 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. The subject of the morning sermon will be "Thoughts From the Ascension," evening subject, "Paul at Corinth." Sunday school at 9:45 a.m.; Chris Endeavor at 7 p.m.

ALAS! NO HOPE FOR BALD-HEADED

Chemist Assures Congress
There Is No Such Thing as Hair Restorer.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Dr. L. P. Kehler, assistant chief of the Bureau of Chemistry, has handed a rude jolt to the baldheaded members of the House committee on interstate and foreign commerce. Dr. Kehler knows all about patent medicines and get-well-quick devices. He says 99 per cent of them are frauds and is willing to impart this fact to anyone who asks him about the matter.

The committee has been delving into a proposition to extend the pure food law so as to make more effective regulations regarding "fake" proprietary medicines. Dr. Kehler was called before the committee to give his ideas on the subject. In the course of the discussion the subject of hair restorers came up. Representative Hamilton of Michigan, who belongs to the near-bald-headed class immediately became interested and sought information.

"Doctor," said he, "in the interest of members of this committee who are a little short on hair, could you tell us if there is any such thing as a successful hair restorer?"

"I regret to say," solemnly replied the doctor, "I don't believe there is any such thing. At least, in all my experience I have never run across one."

Whereupon the few members of the committee who are adorned with a sufficient supply of flowing locks had a good laugh at the expense of their shiny-pated colleagues.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED BY COUPLE

In celebration of their wedding anniversary Mr. and Mrs. William Prack were given a surprise party at their home Wednesday evening. The house was attractively decorated with roses for the occasion, and the couple were the recipients of several beautiful places of silver and china.

The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Wharton, Mr. and Mrs. Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. Nease, Mr. and Mrs. Guggler, Mr. and Mrs. Stein, Mr. and Mrs. Newbert, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Brewster, Mr. and Mrs. Connor, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. J. Parle, Mr. and Mrs. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Tassan, Mr. and Mrs. Holloran, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Hester, Mrs. M. Losinski, Miss J. Jaggerling, Miss M. Pollard, Miss E. Prack, A. McBroom and L. Hightower.

CHARMING GEORGIAN IS WASHINGTON SOCIETY PET

MISS LUCY HOKE SMITH, WHO IS ONE OF WASHINGTON'S MOST PROMINENT AND CHARMING DEBUTANTES.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Miss Lucy Hoke Smith has been considered one of the most popular of the debutantes of the season at the National Capital. She is the daughter of Senator Smith from Georgia. Miss Smith saw a great deal of official life while her father was Governor of Georgia, and this association has added confidence and charm to manner which can only be acquired by experience.

COFFEE TRUST IS SUED BY U. S. GOVERNMENT

Court Petitioned to Authorize Seizure of 950,000 Bags

NEW YORK, May 18.—After a year of careful research and preparation, the government today instituted suit against the coffee trust under the Sherman anti-trust law.

The suit follows quickly the testimony of the first witnesses in the money trust investigation at Washington, which showed:

That J. P. Morgan, the National City Bank and the First National Bank of New York have used their huge resources to curb the production of coffee in Brazil and corner the world supply.

That great capitalists in Europe in league with those of America are able to control the output of a commodity used in every household in the United States.

The action is the most drastic ever started by the government in its long series of anti-trust suits, in that for the first time that section of the Sherman law, which authorizes the seizure and sale of goods in transit has been invoked. Under this clause of the law a petition was presented to Judge Hand in the United States District Court today to authorize the seizure by the government of 950,000 bags of coffee now held in the warehouses of the New York Dock Company in Brooklyn and the immediate port of this vast amount of coffee being withheld from the market under the valorization scheme that is supported by the government of Brazil.

ISSUES RESTRAINING ORDER.

Judge Hand issued the temporary restraining order asked for in the petition. It directs that Herman Siecken, recognized as the world's greatest coffee king, shall be restrained from disposing of any part of 950,000 bags in the warehouses of the New York Dock Company, and which is under his sole control by virtue of the fact that he is the American member of the valorization committee that has a monopoly of the Brazilian industry. Mr. Siecken was served with notice of the injunction at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. The writ is made returnable at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning before Judge Hand.

Should the injunction be made permanent, the government will immediately seize and sell the coffee. At current market prices the coffee is worth about $10,000,000.

BANK NOT DEFENDANT.

A curious omission of the suit is that the National City Bank, which participated in underwriting the valorization plan, is not made a defendant. The London bank, a branch of J. Henry Schroeder & Co., one of the foreign financial institutions that did the underwriting, is mentioned as one of the chief defendants, as is also the Societe Generale of Paris, another of the foreign underwriters. The London house handled two-thirds of the bond issue which made the trust so binding, and the National City Bank handled one-third of them.

The defendants named are Herman Siecken, the New York Dock Company, Brunn Schroeder & Co., Eduardo Bunge of Belgium, M. Le Vicomte des Touches de Prado and Theodore Will of Paris. These seven constitute the valorization committee. It is assumed that the National City Bank escaped because it is not represented on this committee.

TOLD OF PLAN.

In his testimony before the money trust investigating committee of Congress at Washington this week Herman Siecken was compelled, under the sharp questioning of Samuel Untermyer, to tell all about the original operations and results of the valorization plan.

EXPENSIVE TO BRAZIL.

The government's suit boldly alleges that in addition to the burden imposed upon the people of the United States, the operations of the val-

POOLS COLORED BY PLANT GROWTH

Brilliant and Harmonious Tints
Are Due to Algae in Warm Water.

That the harmonious and brilliant tints in the geysers and hot spring pools are due mainly to plant life is one of the interesting statements made in a publication entitled "The Geological History of Yellowstone National Park," just issued by the Department of the Interior. Algae flourish equally well in the waters of all geyser basins and on the terraces of Mammoth Hot Springs. Wherever these boiling waters cool to the temperature of 185 degrees algae growths appear, and by the lowering of the temperature on exposure to air still more highly organized forms gradually come in. It is said that at about 140 degrees the conditions are favorable for the rapid growth of several species. The development of plant life at such an excessive temperature and on a scale of such magnitude seems a marvelous thing. Nowhere else can this be seen so well as in the Yellowstone Park.

As the water in shallow pools chills rapidly, corresponding changes in color follow. No life exists in the center, where the water is boiling. On the outer edge certain colors prevail, and in the cooler overflow channels still other colors predominate. In a geyser basin the first evidence of vegetation in an overflow stream consists of crimson white filamentary threads passing into light flesh tints and then to deep salmon. With distance from the source of heat, the predominating colors pass from bright orange to yellow, yellowish green and emerald, and in the still cooler waters various shades of brown.

The marvelous colors in the Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone are mainly due to mineral matter, the pigments being derived from the lavas. Along the base of the canyon thermal and solfatric agencies have been at work through long ages, slowly but steadily decomposing the hard rock that forms the walls. Upon the buttressed bases and amphitheater tints of green, yellow are intermingled with red, the colors being blended with singularly harmonious effects. From the roaring turbulent river at the bottom to the somber green forests at the top, the abrupt walls seem aglow with color.

This Dentist Has Conquered Pain

New Terrysthesia Method Makes It Possible to Execute All Work on the Teeth Without the Least Discomfort.

I have found a way of filling and crowning sensitive teeth, extracting old cavities and removing all nerves entirely painlessly. Never before have you heard or seen how to do this work without hurting you. It was impossible with the discovery of my Terrysthesia method.

You have seen lots of dentists of the "painless" variety. They promised much, but did little. All they could really do without you was to extract a few decayed teeth. This was accomplished by injecting cocaine into the gum. Now cocaine won't deaden the pain when it comes to drilling out a tooth. If it did, everyone would be using it. Any dentist will tell you that much—if he honest.

Not only can I extract teeth painlessly by my method, but I perform all other dental work the same way. I do not use cocaine or poisons of any kind. I merely wait until you are asleep. I am working on it now.

Terrysthesia is my own secret. No one knows it. I have labored for 15 years to perfect it, and am now prepared to give it to you. You are the first to benefit from it.

I don't believe in pulling a tooth that can be saved. My method enables me to preserve teeth that most dentists would be forced to extract on account of pain.

People with sensitive teeth often prefer to lose them rather than endure the torture of having them filled. My method saves teeth as well as pain. I can save you time also, for Terrysthesia makes it possible for me to prepare the worst tooth at once.

"Dear Dr. Terry,

"I came to your office in fear, as I suppose most people do when they go to a dentist no matter what claims are made that the dentist can do. I was afraid.

My surprise was very great indeed when you did fill my teeth without one bit of pain."

"I wish it were in my power to tell the whole world about your Terrysthesia method, but I am goaded to anyone who has sensitive teeth and dreads pain. With your method dentistry has at last been made a pleasure rather than a fearful horror."—fact, I cannot say half enough for your method.

MRS. L. DEFFERBACHER.

If you have lost some of your teeth already, I can replace all of the missing ones, without the aid of a plate, by my wonderful Rex Alveolar Method.

There is no need of any person who has as many as two teeth in either jaw, wearing a removable plate or a both-sense "bridge." I replace teeth by this system so that an expert would have to look in your mouth before he could distinguish the false from the real. The wear of Rex Alveolar teeth cannot tell that they are not natural from the way they feel. They are just as comfortable and serviceable as natural teeth in every way.

I am the originator of this system, and can claim priority in the use of the Alveolar work elsewhere. During the past four years thousands of plate wearers have had their teeth restored by the Rex Alveolar method. Not one of these people has expressed dissatisfaction. That's pretty good record. Removable teeth made this way are perfectly painless, and there is no cutting or boring into the gums in connection with it.

I want to "show" you, if you are willing to be shown, that I can fulfill every promise I make. Please come to my office, but my work is evidence. Come and let me convince you before you risk a penny.

I know that my skill, methods, and guaranteed work will retain your patronage.

Are you a housewife? Give me a call. Allow me to make a friend of you. Call for free examination and estimate. If you cannot call soon, send for my free book, which tells you of my Terrysthesia and Alveolar methods.

Hours—8:30 to 5:30; Sundays, 10 to 12.

'THE HAYMAKERS' TO BE RENDERED BY AMPHION CLUB

—Hartsook Photo

"The Haymakers," a cantata by Root will be given Tuesday evening at Washington hall, Twelfth street and Sixth avenue, by the Amphion Music Club of Oakland, under the direction of Mme Aurora Thompson from Guild Hall School of Music in London.

The rendition of this musical production is given under the auspices of the Parent-Teachers' Club of the Franklin school.

The proceeds will be used for the construction of a lunch room and playground which will meet a drastic need after the Franklin becomes the center for the primary and intermediate grades at the opening of the new school year.

The Parent-Teachers' Club has extended very efficient services in the past toward raising sums in their section of the city and all owe them hearty support in making the evening a success.

BUYING POWER IS NEEDED IN MART

Undercurrent of Strength Displayed, But Weakness Is Also Shown.

(By JOSEPH F. PRITCHARD)

CHICAGO, May 18.—While there was an undecrease of strength displayed in the wheat market during most of today's session, there was an absence of new buying power and this must be had in order to keep prices up around the present level.

The May future, which is known as the "Lichster month" showed an advance of 4¢, reaching 1¢ from the bottom price reached.

This future will be given only in order to force the shorts in at a certain price, but to make a rate for their cash position now held in the elevators here. The July and September, in which the trade was concentrated, showed advances of 1¢-1½¢.

The Armour concern was a heavy buyer of September wheat early and the local grain dealers put the latter sold out at a loss later.

The average professional was not inclined to make new and large commitments over Sunday, but seemed anxious to remain in shallow speculative water.

There were many crop advices from new sections of both the winter and spring wheat belt, and there was considerable selling on these advices.

OUTSIDER IS LAX.

The outsider, or public, was never known to enter a bear market in any of the grain pits. There was an almost entire absence of outside trade Friday and today and many of the bright lights in the wheat market of Chicago volunteered their opinion after the close tonight that it will take nothing short of a string of unfavorable crop reports to induce the public to re-enter the market in a liberal way.

The average professional is afraid of manipulation and he confines his business from day to day to small scalping turns, with his greatest endeavor to keep out of the way of the "big man of LaSalle street," who is likely to capture the money on the quick price changes, either forced or natural—mainly the former.

Cash wheat was dull. Bills received from interior millers were all lower, according to a report made to the writer late in the day. The aggregate transactions here were reported at 55,000 bushels.

CORN WITHOUT RIPPLE.

The corn market was without as much as a ripple with the May unchanged and June a ½ cent lower.

Conditions at the moment look as if the longs in the May were more than likely to hold together and demand delivery of the corn now coming to them.

The fact that the May future is concentrated and that the shortage is pretty well scattered makes the position of the holder stronger than it otherwise would be with continued good weather there are liable to come some excellent reports of the growing crop and this likely will have some effect on values.

The only redeeming feature in oats was the sale of 380,000 bushels cash which included 115,000 bushels No. 2 white shipped.

The sales of this grain during the past three days have been largely of the former.

Packers were disappointed in the continued small business in cash meats and lard which with the big hog run in the West caused a weaker feeling in the on-the-list of provisions.

The value of trade was below the average and Patrick Cudahy, the Milwaukee packer, sold moderately sized hams of September and October lard.

Miss Maynard gave an excellent performance both from a vocal and acting standpoint. She has sung the parts on several occasions and was underway for Mrs. Christie Macdonald in the original New York company. She received especial applause for her singing of "Day Dream" and throughout acquitted herself with distinct credit. The role of "Annamirri," ordinarily sung by Miss Maynard, was acceptably taken by Miss Studio Wilke, a member of the chorus.

DR. DILKE TO SPEAK.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—The pastor, Rev. Elbert R. Dilke, D. D., will preach tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at the Central Methodist Episcopal Church, O'Farrell and Leavenworth streets, on "The World Awakes—A Call, and a Challenge." In the evening at 7:45 his wife will speak on "The Men in the Fire," and "The Birth of Good and Grace." Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. at First Leavenworth and 8:30 p.m. Midweek services Wednesday evening.

SEASON'S CELERY IS 910 CARLOADS.

SANTA ANA, May 18.—Some interesting figures about the season's celery crop have been given out. The first shipment was made October 26, 1911, the last March 30, 1912. Forty cars of green top were shipped and 870 cars of golden heart total 910 cars. The total net amount received by growers was $108,156.21. The prices were from 15 cents to 50 cents a dozen.

TEETH ARE HUMAN MACHINERY

If you had a piece of machinery, would you let it run daily for years without one drop of oil?

Would not you expect to spend something in repairs to keep this machine in order?

Teeth are the machinery which grind all the nutrition for the human organism.

My modern system of dentistry is painless. I employ no boring process and use no anaesthetic or injections. Mine is a simple and more pleasant method that leaves no disagreeable after-effects. I keep all my own work in repair FREE, providing you let me look it over every six months. This is my guarantee.

WHY I CAN GIVE YOU FAIR PRICES.

Because I do not have high rent or unnecessary expenses. I practice for which you would have to help pay. My offices are clean and comfortable and up to date with accessories necessary only to do good work. This enables me to give you the very best materials at prices below those you can get elsewhere. I figure on a volume of business which enables me to make a fair profit.

I would like to explain this more fully. Call and see me. You place yourself under no obligation.

I am the inventor of an inexpensive method of inserting teeth without plates. Don't have any roots or teeth extracted until you see me.

Box Alveolar Work, $5 per tooth. My Improved Method, $4 per tooth. Attachments with Gold Plates, $5.00 to $35.00.

RAILROAD ADDING TO STEGE TRACKS

The Additional Factories and Freight Tonnage Require More Facilities.

STEGE. May 18.—As a step toward caring for the increased freight handled by the port, to take care of the freight of additional factories and preparing to locate here along the waterfront section, the Southern Pacific Company is tearing out its sidings at its depot here and constructing a new track which will extend back so that freight cars will be shunted in place of leaving them in front of the depot, as has been the custom in the past. The new track will be completed shortly and will be double track, single track and siding, making a double track spur. The depot building has been taken from its foundations and will be moved a considerable distance from its old location to the other end of the port and improvements being made and it is anticipated that before very long a new and larger station will be erected. The freight traffic to and from this point is increasing rapidly all the time, hence the additional facilities.

TRINITY PASTOR TO SPEAK. SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—"What's the Matter With the Church?" is the subject of the address at the Church of the Advent, 261 Fell street, tomorrow night at the 8 o'clock service. It is the first of a series of four addresses by the Rev. Clifton Macom, rector of Trinity Church, Oakland. The other three addresses will be "What's the Matter With Society?" "What's the Matter With the Home?" and "What's the Matter With the Individual?"

TINY TOES TO TWINKLE FOR MOTHERS' CLUBS

SOCIETY ARRANGING DOLLY MADISON BREAKFAST

Mrs. Champ Clark to Be the Toastmistress at Harmony Feast.

TO HONOR MEMORY OF HISTORIC WOMAN

Social Washington Will See Famous Women at Love Feast.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The women of social and political Washington are busily engaged today in preparing for the women's harmony breakfast which is to be held here Monday morning in honor of Dolly Madison, the leader of Washington society during the first days of the Democracy. Mrs. Champ Clark will be the toastmistress and the tables will be manned by the wives and descendants of the most noted Democrats of present and former times.

Among the guests and notable women who will attend the love feast are Mrs. Grover Cleveland, Mrs. William Jennings Bryan, Mrs. Judson Harmon, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. Alton B. Parker, Mrs. John R. McLean, Mrs. Adlai Stevenson, Mrs. Henry Wallace, Mrs. Senator Martin of New Jersey, and Mrs. Senator Gore of Oklahoma.

The harmony breakfast is not without its political significance. The women expect to influence their sisters of the Democracy and stir them to greater activity in the behalf of their political creed. In fact, the breakfast, though primarily in honor to the memory of Dolly Madison, is no less a celebration of "a working agreement" among the ranks of the Democracy, and it is expected that radical measures will be adopted by the women to the furtherance of the cause.

TO SING FOLK SONGS.

The entertainment will include a special program of music, including the folk songs of Dolly Madison's day, while a bevy of Democratic belles will dance the minuet in picturesque reminder of the days of yore. The Marine band in its scarlet uniforms will play.

Another interesting feature of the entertainment will be the distribution of the Democratic "Who's Who," which will include the names, photographs and short biographical sketches of those who take part in the dinner. The issue of this paper of the fair sisters of Democracy is under the care of a committee from every state in the Union and will be a much sought-after souvenir of the occasion.

By arrangement of tables the women will be classified according to the rank to which they belong. Thus the daughters of the Democracy will have a table of their own, as will the Democratic brides, the wives of the presidential candidates, and the finest members of the "President's Table" will be seated.

At the Democratic candidates' table will be seated Mrs. Champ Clark, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. Judson Harmon, Mrs. Oscar Underwood and Mrs. Thomas E. Marshall.

BOURBON BUDS.

The Democratic debutantes will include the Misses O'Gorman, Mrs. Janette Ayers, Miss Lucy Hoke Smith, Miss Genevieve Clark and many others prominent in the social and political younger set.

Perhaps the most interesting table from the historical standpoint will be that occupied by the lined debutantes. Conspicuous in this group will be Miss Esther Cleveland, who was born in the White House eighteen years ago, and Miss Marlon Cleveland, both daughters of the late President. These young women are the only children of a Democratic President living and with them will sit the female descendants of Presidents Jefferson, Monroe, Van Buren and Tyler.

JOAN OF ARC FEAST. SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—The Feast of Joan of Arc, the Maid of Orleans, will be celebrated with solemn high mass at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning in the French church at Bush and Stockton streets, at which the Very Rev. Dr. Ayrancas, president of St. Patrick's Seminary, Menlo Park, will be celebrant. The panegyric of the maid will be given by the Very Rev. Dr. Saitter, former pastor of the church and now of Washington, D. C. A special musical program will be rendered under the direction of the Rev. H. Thibault, pastor of the French church.

JEFFERSON DESCENDANT.

The father of the Democracy, Thomas Jefferson, will be represented by Mrs. Lucius M. Sargent of Boston, his great great granddaughter, and a number of representatives of the Upper Randolphians, descendants of Charles, Rufus and Melchior of Virginia, all of whom are descendants of the Sage of Monticello.

Among the descendants of President Monroe to be present are his three great granddaughters, Mrs. Maud Gouverneur, Mrs. Roswell Randall Hooper and Mrs. William Crawford Johnson. President Tyler's granddaughters will be the two daughters of President Lyon G. Tyler of William and Mary college, and the two daughters of the latter's brother, Dr. Gardner Tyler. Both of these gentlemen are sons of President Tyler by his second wife.

"Frontier Days" will close with this evening's performance and the last show promises to be the best that has yet been given. Scores of additional lights have been strung across the field and the arena is now brilliantly illuminated.

Verdugo, the great Indian steer wrestler, will again attempt to wrestle the wild bull which gored him Thursday. The Indian's fighting blood is aroused and he is determined to down the animal so seriously injured him. Hart Hoxie will also attempt to wrestle a wild bull. Then there will be roughriding and hippodrome events for all comers and a number of other entertainments.

The daytime Western dance hall is an attractive feature of the "Gladway" and is attracting big crowds nightly.

"Frontier Days" is undoubtedly the greatest production of its kind ever seen here and those who miss the final performances today will miss a treat.

To reach the grounds take the Grove-street car to Fifty-seventh street. The admission is 25 cents.

TULARE LAKE WILL BE DRAINED AND SOWN

PORTERVILLE, May 18.—Eleven thousand acres of the Tulare lake are being drained and will be planted to Egyptian corn and other crops.

The settlers of 3,200 acres are under cultivation this year. Four dredgers have been installed in the shallow portion of the lake. According to the statement of one of the men interested in the project, the cost of reclaiming the land will be $5 an acre, aggregating $6,400. The total valuation of the property, when improvements are complete, will be approximately $1,000,000.

MARSH LAND IS BOUGHT.

SACRAMENTO, May 18.—A deal has been closed whereby William Denham of San Francisco buys from the John West estate 1,100 acres of marsh land situated four miles east of this place, the price being $85,000. This is the highest price ever paid for marsh land in this country.

There is no quackery about him. He believes in God, the creator of man kind, and that he has given great power to man in the knowledge of healing diseases.

Out of town patients can be cured as well as those who come to the office.

ESCAPES AN AWFUL FATE.

A thousand tongues could not express the gratitude of Mrs. J. E. Cox of Joliet, Ill., for her wonderful deliverance from an awful fate: "Typhoid pneumonia had left me with a dreadful cough," she writes. "Sometimes I had such awful coughing spells I thought I would die. I could not help it, for I had done nothing but eat and drink beer after my operation or other medical treatment till I used Dr. King's New Discovery. But I owe my life to this wonderful remedy for scarcely could I afford it now." Quick and safe, it's the most reliable of all throat and lung remedies. Every bottle guaranteed for 10c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Doctor Frank S. Bennett will sign.

SEMINAR ON JAPAN.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—Rev. J. Mori, pastor of the Japanese Reformed Church, will speak on "Japan" tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Young Men's Christian Association, 1249 O'Farrell street. Mr. Frank S. Bennett will sign.

MUSIC PUPILS TO APPEAR IN LONG PROGRAM

MISS FRANCOISE O. DARIUS

An elaborate program has been planned by Miss M. Laura Prentiss to be given by her pupils next Thursday evening at Kohler & Chase hall in San Francisco. Glen W. Chamberlain will appear as tenor in several selections.

Miss Francoise O. Darius will appear in three piano recitals, "Good Morning," "Good Night" and in Beaumont's "Tarantelle." Invitations have been sent to a large number of friends and acquaintances. The program will consist of both vocal and instrumental numbers to the extent of nearly thirty numbers.

Accidents at Frontier Days' Show Not Serious, But Thrilling.

FONTAINBLEAU'S "GOLDEN AGE"

Fontainbleau's "Golden Age" will be the name of the new musical comedy to be presented at the Palace Theatre on June 1st. The author is the same as that of "The Girl Friend," which was a smash hit in New York.

The plot concerns a girl who goes to Paris to find a husband, but instead finds a rich man who has a passion for her.

TAFT CHEERED BY 10,000 PEOPLE AT MEETING

President Continues to Pour Hot Shot Into Colonel on Ohio Trip.

BUREAU OF MINES BILL EXPLAINED TO VOTERS

Roosevelt's Claim to Measure Is Shown to Be Without Foundation.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, May 18.—From the platform of the Billy Sunday Tabernacle President Taft tonight aroused as much enthusiasm among his audience of 10,000 as the redoubtable Billy ever did. General Warren Keifer, who has long been a member of Congress from Ohio, introduced the President, whose train was nearly there now.

After voicing his approval of the rail-road bill and other administration measures, the President took up Roosevelt and declared that the colonel's protective policy "is a proposition of reform to use from the platform to catch votes."

Just before reaching Springfield, President Taft at Urbana denied Roosevelt's claim to the mining bill. Taft said:

EXPLAINS MINES BILL.

The bill for the establishment of a Bureau of Mines was introduced in the House by Huff of Pennsylvania, January 31, 1910. It was passed by the House January 25, by the Senate May 3 and signed by President Taft, May 16, 1910. Roosevelt dined with the German Emperor May 10, he spoke before the Berlin University May 12 and did not reach the United States from Africa for a month after the bill was signed.

Less of personal attack against the colonel and more of a discussion of reciprocity, with appeals for a fair deal plentifully sprinkled through, characterized the President's campaign today in the third, fourth and seventh Ohio districts, which included eleven counties. But Taft did not pay all his attention to reciprocity; he by any means abandoned his policy of hurling hot shot at the colonel. After the meeting here tonight he started for Cincinnati, the home of Brother Charles, where tomorrow will be spent in rest.

The President is pretty tired of the galling stamping trip and by the time he comes back to Cincinnati Tuesday to cast his vote he will have visited 73 of the 88 counties in the State and traveled 2700 miles within Ohio's boundaries.

MILITANT SPEECH.

CLEVELAND, May 18.—In a militant speech at Central Armory tonight, Colonel Roosevelt pitched into President Taft for his persistent attacks on Roosevelt in the Ohio battle. With Dan R. Hanna, son of the late Marcus A. Hanna, seated on the same platform Roosevelt took up the President's challenge to explain why he countenanced Hanna's support. The ex-president denounced Taft for intimating that Hanna stands under indictment, saying that the President knows the indictment found some time ago for coal rebating was dismissed at the instance of Taft's attorney general, Wickerham.

MOVED CHURCH TO BE RE-DEDICATED

Allendale Methodist Episcopal Congregation Will Hold Extensive Program.

UPPER FRUITVALE, May 18.—Re-dedication ceremonies will be observed at the Allendale Methodist Episcopal Church tomorrow, features of which will be an address by Dr. E. R. Dilie, pastor of the Central Methodist Episcopal Church of San Francisco; sacred music by the choir of the Eighth Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church and the Wesley Richmond Methodist Episcopal Church, the formation of a church society from the ranks of the local congregation, an address by Rev. A. C. Thomas of Berkeley and special services conducted by the pastor, Rev. Sprague Davis.

This church was recently moved from Mason street to its present situation at Mason street and Kansas avenue. Many persons from both sides of the bay prominent in church work will be present during the activities.

ALLIGATOR PEAR TREE FLOAT PARADE FEATURE

MONROVIA, May 18.—One of the unique features of Monrovia's floral parade yesterday was a float of alligator pear trees in bloom. This is the first time this rare flower has ever been in a floral parade in California. The fact that the flowers are not cut, but on the tree, makes it much more realistic to visitors and spectators.

This float is entered by Daniel Floyer, who also some 15 types of budded alligator pear trees. He sees a great future for this valuable fruit in California.

PINOLE PHYSICIAN IN AUTO ACCIDENT

PINOLE, May 18.—Dr. Manuel L. Fernández, the well known physician of this place, had a narrow escape from death last evening when the automobile which he was driving at a rapid rate in the direction of the power works on a rush call crashed into a pile of rock which had caved in from an embankment. The car was overturned and the doctor thrown out, sustaining a number of serious cuts and bruises. The car was badly wrecked.

TO REBUILD HOTEL.

AUBURN, May 18.—The Hotel Plaza Company has begun clearing the site of its hotel, recently burned. Plans have been partially prepared for a fine building to be erected on the same site this summer for hotel purposes. J. Clegg and Thomas James are also to erect fireproof buildings on the sites of those destroyed.

H. C. CAPWELL CO.

The Proof of the Pudding

is in the eating—likewise the test of judgment in the actual trial.

Just two months ago Capwells moved into a new home which was so far apart from the old quarters, so much larger and grander in every way than Oakland had hitherto known, that some said we were too ambitious—that such a store could not exist with the competition across the bay. Our own judgment never wavered. We clung to the belief that the success in the old store which had made possible this new building would repeat itself many fold. The experience of two months has proved beyond all doubt the correctness of our judgment.

Large as the store is, each day has seen it thronged with people, has witnessed crowded elevators and escalator and the business of the new Capwells has exceeded our most sanguine expectations. Oakland has enthusiastically demonstrated her pride in her most beautiful store of the West.

Friends have brought their ladies here and entertained them in the roof garden and from the promenade have shown them Oakland as it can be seen from no other vantage point.

Old customers have shown more than ever their confidence in Capwell merchandise and Capwell pricing. Four thousand dollars' worth of goods offer the opportunity and convenience of getting nearly everything needed. So many new customers have been "converted" that only our foresight in preparing for them with larger quantities and greater variety of stock has enabled us to satisfy their needs.

In every way the new Capwells spells SUCCESS. So great a store and business could only have arisen on the foundation principles adopted at the outset—those of public satisfaction coupled with best service and the most dependable merchandise at the lowest prices.

STORE NOTES:

Going on your vacation? Time to think then of your trunk or suit case. It's a great satisfaction to have just the bag or right sized trunk for your trip. Our new Trunk Department is well equipped to supply your needs. Strongly built light and medium weight trunks, suit cases and bags of all sizes at the fairest prices. Visit our Third Floor and let us show them to you.

Have you the new Hammock to add to your summer comfort? No more delightful way to spend the vacation days. Swing it on the porch or lawn at home or take it with you to the mountains. We have a choice line at most reasonable prices.

Bring the children to the big play room on the roof. Let them frolic to their heart's content. The athletic slides, merry-go-round, swing or other amusements are at their disposal. They'll enjoy every minute of the time.

Everybody knows what Pig's Whistle cuisine is. You'll enjoy it most amid the ideal surroundings on our roof garden. The viands will be all the more delectable for being served in a light, airy spot surrounded with blooming flowers and where large open windows let you look out on hills and bay. Entertain your friends here. No more delicious meals served any place.

The Curtain Department on the Third Floor has been moved to a position in front of the elevator, where it will be more convenient for patrons.

Women desiring to keep in touch with the latest styles of hair dressing should visit our Hair Dressing and Manicuring Parlors. Competent and agreeable attendants in charge. Special orders taken for hair goods to be made in our own work rooms, which are so light and sanitary. They are open for inspection at all times.

NEW CRAFT FOR LUMBER TRADE

Government Applies Torch to Old Bark Abandoned on Mud Flats.

With the going into commission of the steam schooners at present under construction in the various shipyards along the coast, there will be no scarcity of lumber bottoms as was the case before. For past several months lumbermen have been applying for ports of discharge, have declared their intentions of letting out contracts for new shipping works. Officials of the United Iron Works, San Francisco, have stated that the new bottoms will be put out in the mid-ocean years and abandoned. The new shipping works will be scattered over the northern seas to make it easier for the government to get ready for its regular coast lumber trade.

IS FACING A MUNICIPAL ROW

THE KNAVE

SNAKE STORY BY
IS CERTAINLY NEW

AN FRANCISCO, May 18.—Do you know that already our blissful governmental conditions in this city are being rasped, pecked at and peeved? There are some who are beginning to think that perhaps Jim Rolph didn't bring the millennium after all.

And among these Doubting Thomases are many of the Supervisors—members of the Rolph board. You hear little rumbles and rumors of a revolt now and then. Occasionally one on the inside lets out a word or a hint. Things like this are whispered:

"The Mayor is going to get an awful bumping soon!"

"It's coming to him pretty quick!"

"Just wait and see him get his!"

I really don't know what the kick of the board is about, but it's a cinch San Francisco can't put in a whole year without some sort of a municipal row.

Not Their Civic Duties This Time

Five o'clock tea at the Palace has become one of the fashionable or semi-fashionable events of the day. It is quite the thing to watch the smart-gowned women come trooping in every afternoon. The tables are all taken and there is a waiting list each day.

Except on election day.

On Tuesday it was noticed that at least half the tables were empty during the most fashionable hour. The habitues began to speculate as to why the tea devotees were so few.

"The women must be out voting today," suggested one of the hangers-on.

"That's not it," said his friend.

"Then, how do you account for their absence?"

"Easy enough!"

"How?"

No liquors can be served from the bar on election day!"

Did Not Rubber and Stretch Necks

Are the people tiring of so many elections? In our city we have had three inside of a few weeks and there are more to come. In some country districts, in addition to primaries and political elections, they have wet and dry contests and the like.

It seems as if we are getting too much of a good thing. "Let the people rule," to be sure—but suppose they get blase about it and decline to do the ruling.

Here we have had orators going up and down the land from five different camps. There has been a lot of shouting and "literature" has been sent out as rarely before.

But hardly half a vote was polled on Tuesday. That night there was not a quarter the usual crowd before the newspaper bulletin boards. Evidently interest was not aroused and some are of the opinion that the apathy is the result of too many elections.

Organization Doesn't Count So Much

"They said we had no organization," said one of the man who conducted the Taft campaign. "Well, what does organization count in these new-fangled contests?"

To be sure, there were some districts where we had little of what might be called organization. That is, we hadn't any clubs and there was not much distributing of literature.

But there were other districts where we were thoroughly organized. Take Sacramento. We had as good an organization as anybody ever had in that county. Yet we were beaten just the same. We were in fair shape in San Joaquin, and La Follette got away with the works there. We flooded Contra Costa with literature, yet we lost there just the same.

"No, the old schemes have passed away. House-to-house missionary work will come in to take their place."

His Robes Are Up for Sale

Probably the most astute and best-trained political observer in the country is Sam Blythe—the "Who's Who" man of the Saturday Evening Post. His work is to travel up and down the land and observe things—to keep his ear to the ground and to measure up men and events.

But even Sam can't hit things off every time and recent events have disturbed him a whole lot. He ventured into predictions a month or two ago. Now he regrets trying to forecast such an emotional thing as politics. Writing to a friend he says:

"I've been up on the farm. Politics is too speedy for me. If you find anyone who wants a prophet's robes, I have a fine set for sale."

Here's one of the best-trained observers in the land, admitting his blunders, but every saloon prophet or cross-roads sage is still cock-sure he knows just what is to happen this year.

The Doctor's Story of the Old Days

That good Catholic with the Hebrew name, Doctor Poheim, tells a tale of the days when he was close up with the Schmitz-Ruef crowd—before he was ousted by Schmitz as Police Commissioner. Perhaps Abe Ruef will include the tale in his autobiography.

"One day I met Jerome Bassity, and as he considered me one of the crowd, he told me he had collected $18,000 in the tenderloin and had turned the money into Ruef. Meeting Mayor Schmitz, I said:

"Bassity's a good fellow, isn't he?"

"Yes, he has always been true to our cause," replied the Mayor.

"He just told me he got $18,000 in the tenderloin and turned it in to Ruef."

"What!" exclaimed Schmitz in anger. "Has that Jew scoundrel been holding out on me again? He gave me only $5000."

One Way to Scotch a Snake

They got to telling snake stories, and of course it was soon Joe Redding's turn, and equally of course Joe had the biggest one.

"I was up in the Sierras in back of the summit with a splendid guide. We were after big game and had had some luck. My guide was the best mountaineer I ever knew. There wasn't a trick of the hills he did not know.

"One day he was a little way ahead and I saw him get down on his hands and knees to take a drink from a small spring that gushed out of a rocky bed.

"Suddenly I saw him fall on his chest and begin the wildest contortions as if in agony. I thought he had fallen in a fit and rushed up. He continued his intense muscular movements for a time and then got up.

"Under his chest lay a great rattlesnake, crushed, while my guide was unhurt. He had kneeled to drink and suddenly saw he was right over the snake. Before the rattler could coil and strike my guide had fallen upon and crushed it against the rock with his chest."

Too Many Waiters for Him

"The service is rotten! They ought to have more waiters here!"

So grumbled a cafe habitue when he had not been served as promptly as he felt he should have been. His companion looked up.

"What's that?" he asked.

"Better service! More waiters!"

"More waiters, be hanged! They've got twice too many waiters now!"

"Why, how do you make that out?"

"There never was such an overplus of help in the known world. Over toward that corner is one of the prettiest women I ever saw in my life. She has a kindly eye. But every time that eye has just begun to meet mine at least two waiters get in the way and continue to wait. It is always the way. The overplus of servants interferes with the God-given right of flirtation. More waiters, say you? Less waiters, say I."

Those Beautiful Wooden Ducks

He was discoursing upon the energy and money-spending of the Los Angeles promoters and told how in the San Fernando valley, near Owensmouth, some eighteen miles of asphalted, Warren-patent boulevard has been laid. Then he went on:

"At either side of this boulevard, alternating and a block or so apart, have been built and are building dozens on dozens of beautiful wooden ducks—and—"

"What's that? Wooden ducks?"

"Oh, that's just an expression. I was down in Ensenada with Sanchez Facio, where he was promoting a colonist scheme. Way out on the mesa I saw a handsome house."

"Why did you build your home way out there?" I asked.

"Oh, that's not my home," he replied. "That's ah—that's what you Americans call a—why—a wooden duck, you know!"

"A wooden duck? Oh, you mean a decoy."

"Yes, that's it—a decoy."

He Once Had a Wide Fame

"Do you remember M. B. Curtis?" asked of me a man who had just stepped off the steamer Yale. "Yes," said I, but I haven't heard of him in a dozen years.

"Well, you recall when he had a nation-wide fame as 'Sam'l o'Posen' and made a fortune out of it. He bought property over in Berkeley; had a station named Posen; built a palace on a hill, and was going to settle down to the life of a capitalist. Then he got into that shooting of Policeman Grant in this city and to get out of it took most of his fortune. Then he seemed to drop out of sight."

"Well, I ran across him yesterday. Going to San Pedro ahead of the time of the Yale's sailing, who should come up to me but Curtis. He is just as chipper as ever and is running a small theater in the southern seaport town. He'll get on top again yet if he lives long enough."

How She Stopped His Melody

He had been drinking plenty of laughing water in one of the swell restaurants and had got an idea into his head that he could sing. It was bordering on the midnight hour and many guests still had their knees under the tables. Only at such an hour and when there has been plenty to drink does the singing bug ever sting this usually leveled-headed and successful young business man. His fair companion tried to dissuade him from playing havoc with any air or tune. He would not be said nay. So with raucous voice and perfectly oblivious of those present he started out a stranger in the realm of harmony with:

"Ride a cock horse to Banbury Cross
To see an old woman ride on a white horse,
With rings on her fingers and bells on her toes,
And she shall have music wherever she goes."

"Don't be such a fool!" was the angry and chagrined audible remark of his pretty companion as she stayed his awful flood of sound.

"Girlie, it is better to be drunk than a fool," was the reply that many could hear.

"Yes, I know, but you are both," was the quick retort, with flashing eye.

Amid the surrounding laughter that ensued, the amateur singer was squelched and his companion walked out on him.

Now he is demanding back the jewelry presents he gave her and she is replying:

"Guess again, Charlie."

The Toad as a Weather Prophet

The past light rainy season brought to the front as weather prophets in the quiet town of Santa Clara a Chinaman and his pet toad, with its light brown spots. Prof. Campbell of Lick Observatory may have his scientific ideas about the connection between sun spots and stormy weather on earth. So may Prof. Lowell, with his Arizona observatory, Flammarion, Schiaparelli, and even the near-by scientists at Santa Clara College. The Chinaman and his white neighbors know and care nothing about sun spots. The Mongolian and they have been watching the pet toad for several years and are convinced that it accurately predicts the coming of rain. When its light brown spots assume a darker hue, its owner and his neighbors prepare for rain and it always comes. During the past season the little animal's spots failed to turn to a darker hue for weeks and its owner informed the neighbors. All accepted this prediction of a dry spell without question. When the darker color appeared, rain came. They knew it would. The toad has had less of these dark patches on its skin this year than for six or seven years past. This is why the toad and its owner are considered by the neighborhood as a reliable weather bureau. Even U. S. Forecaster McAdie has to take a back seat to the toad in that locality.

Pretty Heiress Still Heart Free

That pretty Denver heiress and much-traveled young woman, Miss Ruth Boettcher, who, with her mother, is visiting this city at present, is said to be still heart free. She feels embarrassed over the recent public statement at San Diego of Harry Scott, one of the sons of Henry T. Scott and a brother of Mrs. Walter S. Martin, that he was engaged to her. With delightful frankness, she says the story current some time ago that she was the only woman who ever touched the heart of Lord Kitchener is silly. Concerning the persistency of the report some months ago that she was engaged to Sir Thomas Lipton of London, the tea magnate, she tells her friends it was cruel. She and her mother are great friends of Lipton. When questioned at the time about the reported engagement, he chivalrously made a reply that was very pleasing to the Colorado beauty. It was:

"No gentleman will deny his engagement to a lady. It is the lady who should make denial."

Miss Boettcher is said to have in her own name an income of $60,000 a year.

Not Cause for Surprise

It is not cause for surprise—

That the elevator boys notice a perceptible lowering of the temperature when former Governor James N. Gillett and George A. Knight get into the same elevator in the Crocker building to go to their respective offices.

That Colonel John C. Kirkpatrick and Leopold Michaels do not impatiently run away when told of their striking resemblance to the late King Edward.

That Colonel George H. Pippy is often mistaken for E. O. McCormick and that they have had their hotel bills mixed when at the same place at the same time.

That Samuel M. Shortridge's index finger is far more athletic than its companion digits.

That Senator La Follette gave a Palace bellboy several minutes of his time the other day when the latter told him he was going to cast his first vote at the primaries for him.

That "White Hat" McCarthy's head covering has been laid up for repairs.

That Charles A. Cooke, assistant manager of the Fairmont, is the handsomest man under the roof of that caravansary.

That Obadiah Rich, assistant manager of the Palace, often yearns for a sight of his old New England home, where the Obadiah's are legion.

That "Bill" Naughton, president of the Press Club, is not good at mind reading, for when asked by a member if he could guess what word of six syllables he was thinking Bill tried several times and failed.

"What's the word?" asked Bill.

"Rubber," was the response.

"That hasn't six syllables," was the observation in disgust.

"I stretched it a little," was the explanation.

They Are a Delightful Couple

Joseph Fredericks, an opera singer some years ago, and his wife, a former heiress and society belle of Cincinnati, have returned from a tour of Europe and Egypt and have reopened their pretty home in Presidio Terrace. The Fredericks couple are delightful bohemians, and, if the entertainments in their home in the past they have given their friends are any criterion, much out of the ordinary may be expected during the next year. On one occasion Fredericks paid a goodly sum for Ad Wolgast, the lightweight champion, and his sparring partner to come to his home, where he had a party of ladies and gentlemen, and spar four rounds. A ring was improvised in a large room in the basement and the fighters "mixed" things at a lively rate to the great delight of both sexes. At another time before a party of their friends, the graceful and pretty hostess danced the hula, with all the sinuous wriggles of the South Sea islanders, and some movements of her own. It is said to have been a most effective stunt, one that caused even the most blasé among those present to rivet their eyes on the fair dancer.

Reconciled to American Pie

Victor Hirtzler, the noted chef of the St. Francis, who is going to Europe on a vacation trip, is an authority on the French, Italian, German, Russian and Spanish table d'hôte service, as well as all phases of the service à la carte. One of his fads is the collection of menus and he has over 1000 of them now. Many of them he helped prepare himself both in Europe and this country. Others he collected from all parts of the world. One of the latter is printed on black pasteboard in the shape of a coffin and ornamented with skulls. Another is the menu of a railroad club in the form of a coupon, each division of which entitles the holder to a certain dish, and the whole taking him the entire journey from the station of appetizers to the terminal of coffee. He has been long enough in the United States to become reconciled to the American pie, the only country on the globe where it is to be found. But he still insists France beats it with her delicate cookeries. When it comes to England, with her tarts, and Germany, with her pompous pastries, however, he finds by comparison much virtue in American pies—if he himself supervises them in the making. It is his experience that the Easterner in this country is more of a pie fiend than the Western man.

Financing China's Revolution

General Homer Lea, the former Stanford student, and friend, confidant and adviser of Dr. Sun Yat Sen in the recent great revolution in China, who has just returned from the Orient to his Los Angeles home broken in health, has not had much success in the sale of his two published works, "The Vermilion Pencil" and "The Valor of Ignorance." The latter has to do with the imagined conquest of California by Japan. The former is an attack on the missionaries in China. Like himself, many of his prominent Chinese friends take both of these books very seriously. It was these friends, all revolutionists, who gave him his military title. While the Manchus still had a price on Sun Yat Sen's head, Lea traveled much and conspired with him for their overthrow. It is said that on one occasion Lea was with Dr. Sun in New York trying to negotiate a loan of $2,500,000 from a leading firm of bankers. They demanded security and Sun was able to offer the guarantee of three great rice mills in Bangkok, a group of merchants in Singapore and mine owners in the Malay States worth about $120,000,000. When asked for the names of the guarantors, he replied with a letter giving description of the perfect organization of the revolutionary army, and saying he would give the names asked for if assured that the money was ready. But before the negotiations closed he notified the bankers that he had the money. Where he got it is not known. This is said to have been about a year before the revolution actually broke out.

bill will somewhat resemble in size and color the ordinary street car transfer. Paper money now in use measures 7.28x3.04 inches. As proposed, this will be cut down to 6x2.5 inches. Philippine currency is of the size proposed and Governor-General Forbes is quoted as saying that it has proven entirely successful. Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh, according to the bankers, sees many advantages and no objections to the scheme and figures that the Government can save a million dollars annually by it, for five notes would be printed where four are now, an increased production of 25 per cent, with the same labor as at present. Part of the plan is to adopt a uniform design for all national bank notes, doing away with the necessity for a special engraving for each bank, and thus eliminating 12,000 or more plates now in use.

Did Not Even Kiss Good-bye

In his paper read before the Commonwealth Club last Saturday on the sinking of the Titanic, Dr. Washington Dodge, one of the survivors, related some graphic stories of deaths and rescues, which, owing to the length of the paper, the local press did not publish. One of the stories sets forth how Walter Miller Clark of Los Angeles, a son of J. Ross Clark and nephew of Senator W. A. Clark of Montana, was lost and his wife was saved. It is as follows:

"Another incident. Myself and wife were acquainted with couple residing in Los Angeles, who were passengers on the Titanic. On the Carpathia the morning after the disaster we found the wife, but the husband was missing. The wife related the following: At the time of the collision her husband was on the upper deck (deck A) in the card room, engaged with some friends in a game of cards. She was on one of the lower decks (C deck, I think) preparing to retire, being partially disrobed. Being made conscious of the jar, and noticing that the engines had stopped, she put on her clothing and went up two decks above to her husband in the card room. He assured her that there was nothing to be alarmed about; that he had been so told by one of the officers, and told her to return to her stateroom, where he would join her presently. This she did, he continuing in the game of cards. As she reached her stateroom door she saw a man with a life preserver on, hurrying along the corridor. She laughed at him and said:

"Well, you must be a pretty nervous man."

"He then told her that the order had been given for all passengers to put on life preservers. She again went up to 'A' deck and informed her husband of what she had been told. They then went down to their stateroom, put on warmer underclothing, and dressed in the warmest clothing that they had. After this they proceeded to the boat deck, where they were joined by another couple they knew and there watched the boats being launched.

"The ladies refused to enter the lifeboats, stating that they would wait and go with their husbands later. Eventually, after several of the boats were launched, the officers insisted that they get into a boat, their husbands adding their request, and assisting them into the boat. After this neither of them ever saw or heard anything of her husband. But as this lady, in narrating the circumstance, stated:

"Neither of us thought that there was any danger of our not meeting again. My husband handed me some money, saying: 'We may be separated, and you might need this.' But he did not kiss me."

good-bye, nor did he even say good-bye. I knew he had no more idea of the possibility of his being lost than had I."

Won Friendship of a King

Miss Lubin of Sacramento, who is shortly to be married in Rome to Signor Silanzi of the Italian consular service, is the daughter of David Lubin, the millionaire merchant, who has won the friendship of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy and a name for himself for having started the movement now known as the International Institute of Agriculture. The latter has its headquarters in Rome and Lubin spends most of his time there as a permanent delegate from the United States to the institute. The latter's object is to secure for the world an abundance of products at reasonable rates and for the farmer reasonable compensation for his work. About fifty countries now have delegates to the institute and it is housed in a palace built for its use by the King of Italy. Lubin first started this movement in 1905 as a means of protecting the farmers against the speculators in grain and food-stuffs and against the arbitrary quotations of Chicago, Liverpool and other grain exchanges. He had remarkable success at the outset of this work on his part in getting the sympathy and assistance of King Victor Emmanuel. It was the latter who first invited the nations to send delegates to organize the institute. Lubin, who is a Hebrew, was born in Europe and worked in a Massachusetts watch factory before he came to California and built up a great fortune in Sacramento.

Master of Hotel Management

Victor Reiter, who becomes manager of the new Hotel Oakland in your city on June 1, is a man of fine executive ability, a pleasing personality and a ripe experience in the hotel business and in the handling of employees and of the general public as hotel guests. As maitre d'hôtel of the Palace for many years and of both the latter and the Fairmont since the earthquake, Reiter is one of the best-known and best-liked men in San Francisco. His change to Oakland is a distinct loss to local hotel activities. He shines particularly in his wide and varied knowledge of the cuisine and in the tact and skill with which he can order in advance any kind of a meal for individuals, parties or banqueters. Many people for years past have depended upon him entirely for the ordering of their formal spreads and would never think of anyone else. On the gala nights of grand opera before the fire, both for dinner and supper afterwards, he has executed in a single day 200 of such orders without a hitch or a grumble. A Frenchman, he has that country's innate sense of politeness. Society considers him the best maitre d'hôtel San Francisco ever has had, and two of his warm admirers and best wishers in his new field of activity are Fred Sharon, one of the owners of the Palace, and the latter's chief manager, Colonel J. C. Kirkpatrick.

Burning Up Their Queues

I asked a successful and modernized Chinese merchant the other evening if the report was true that his countrymen, after having their queues cut off, were preserving them in order to have them buried with them when they die. He replied that in China many may be doing so, but not here, save for a very few who are sentimentally inclined on the subject. Nor are the queues being sold. He says they are being thrown into the fire, the owner doing so himself or telling the barber to do so. He volunteered the information that much human hair continues to come from China to this country, some to be made into false hair but most of it to be used in the making of new haircloth, mattress filling and the like. He says he handles some of these shipments for Eastern firms and that last year's business was much larger than that for 1910. With the widespread cutting off of queues in China, this business was bound to eventually fall away from the United States in 1911. If the business increases next year and the year afterwards, it will show, he says, that the decapitated queues are being sold for export instead of being kept for burial with their owners.

Tips Have Been Falling Off

The recent edict against tips by the California traveling men affiliated with the United Commercial Travelers caused one well-known waiter in one of the local high-class hotels to remark last night that tips recently have been falling off at an amazing rate. He explodes the general belief that it is the rich who have always been very liberal tippers. Many of them don't tip at all. With others, as Tommy Traddles said, with a wince, "It's—it's a pull." In his opinion, the great middle class and the traveling men have all along been the most dependable and liberal with tips. Now those classes are up in arms against the system and that is a jolt he and his associates think is ominous. There was a time when the waiter, he went on to say, got a lot of money from the man who was in town for a visit and from the one who periodically went out to see the white lights. Even they are getting restless as tippers and seem to be possessed with the idea that there is no sense in giving a fifty-cent tip with a $1.50 or a $2 check. He knows by name the men who still give $1 and $2 tips at dinner. There are only eight of them left in this burg. In order to prevent an unseemly scramble to wait on them and thus frighten them away, the waiters have agreed to take turns in serving them. They constitute the last phase of the golden days of tips hereabouts.

Two Celebrations for July 14

Bickering and jealousies in the local French colony have finally caused a pronounced rupture between the two factions. In consequence of this quarrel, there will be this year on July 14 two formal celebrations of the Fall of the Bastile. M. Levillain, a nephew of President Leggallet of the French Bank and the newspaper, Franco Californian, heads the crowd which is to give a grand ball in the auditorium on Fillmore street, Saturday night, July 13, and a literary and musical program the next afternoon in the same place. This is known as the "kid glove" faction and its members have already purchased 1500 tickets at $1 apiece for the auditorium ball. The latter promises to be on a most magnificent scale, a revival of the French balls of fifteen or twenty years ago in the old Mechanics Pavilion on Larkin street, when the merry time ran on till daylight peeped in. Jules Godeau, the undertaker and a lusty warrior in many fights over the control of the French hospital, heads the other crowd along with the paper, Echo of the West. They have quite a following and expect to celebrate in the Mission district of the city. Henri Merou, the French consul-general here, is tactfully sidestepping any entanglements with either faction.

Knox Left Pleasant Memory

Philander C. Knox, the able Secretary of State in the Taft cabinet, has come and gone, leaving pleasant remembrances of a contagious smile, which, while not as effective and pronounced as that of the lamented McKinley, is nevertheless a worthy and valuable asset for any man either in public or private life to have. Knox also has splendid poise and a dignity and spirit of good fellowship that blend perfectly. Like United States Senator Newlands of Nevada, Fred Sharon of this city and others who could be mentioned, he no longer affects spats. A fine dresser, his clothes look as if they were pressed every few days, for unrivaled is the trouser's crease. He had the reputation in the Roosevelt cabinet of being its best attired member and still maintains that sartorial repute in the Taft official family. His clothes are a perfect fit, but his tastes are for quiet colors and there is by no means any suggestion of the dandy about him. He is too brainy a man for that. A stickler for etiquette, he does not like to be caught in his shirt sleeves as is said to have once been the case in his Washington office on a hot afternoon when a foreign diplomat was ushered in by mistake before he could put on his coat.

Winning Praise as Lecturer

F. G. Athearn, head of the bureau of economics of the San Pacific Company, lecturer at the University of California and a post graduate of the institution, is reflecting glory on the latter and winning praise for himself by the lectures he is now giving in the East at Harvard, Dartmouth, the University of Chicago and before commercial bodies in a number of the large Eastern cities. Athearn has made a study of the relations of the railroads and the public and thinks the time is ripe to remove for good many needless points of friction between them. This is the general subject of his addresses in the East and his railroad superiors think his expositions are timely and deserving. By the way, the Berkeley institution has turned out a number of men who have to do with the great railroad transportation problem of the country in various ways. There is Franklin K. Lane, a leading member of the Interstate Railroad Commission, and then Ferdinand Vassault, one of its examiners. There is John M. Eshelman, chairman of the California Railroad Commission, and also Max Thelan, one of its five members. Seth Mann can likewise be mentioned. He is the able attorney for the traffic bureau of the Chamber of Commerce. William R. Wheeler, the head of that bureau, is another of these men.

Want No Trouble at Custom House

Mrs. William H. Crocker, Mrs. Charles Clark, Mrs. Francis J. Carolan and many other rich society women, who have gone or are about to go to Europe for the summer, are determined not to have any trouble with William Loeb, Jr., collector of the port of New York, over their valuables and dresses, on their return trip. Their plan is a simple and sensible one. They are declaring before Fred S. Stratton, collector of the port here, a list of the jewels, dresses and whatnot they are taking with them. Stratton transmits these lists to Loeb. The latter files them away for references when the parties on the return voyage reach the port of New York and have their baggage inspected. These lists are confidential communications. It can easily be imagined, however, that they represent in valuables and clothes a great deal of coin of the realm. The rigid inspection established at New York by Loeb has caused more than one husband, father and brother here, as well as in other cities, to say to their women folk:

"No matter what you buy on the other side declare it when you reach New York and keep our names out of any newspaper scandal with Loeb."

MANY MOURN LAWYER'S DEATH CASH RESERVE IN BANKS INCREASES

Funeral Services to Be Held Monday for Late D. W.
Burchard.

Funeral services for the late Daniel W. Burchard, who died suddenly Friday evening at his home, 642 Fifty-third street, will be held tomorrow afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, from the Shattuck-avenue, M. E. Church, Rev. E. R. Dille of San Francisco officiating. Many prominent members of the bench and bar of California will be present in memory of the late attorney.

The suddenness of Judge Burchard's death was a shock to his friends, who recalled that just a recent trip to Honolulu had convinced him of his health considerably. He had just concluded a plea in the Federal Court when the collapse came, and he died that evening after he had been brought to his home here.

Born in Missouri, Judge Burchard came to California in his boyhood, settling in Santa Clara county, where he married Miss Cora McComas, from whom he separated in 1907 and by whom he is survived. Later he married Miss Nellie Smith of Fruitvale, who survives her husband.

Four children—Ethel, May, Martha and Ernest—live in San Francisco. Judge Burchard at various times was district attorney of Santa Clara county, and attorney for the city of San Francisco. He had a law office in the Hearst building in San Francisco.

PENINSULA LINE TO EXTEND 9 BLOCKS

SAN MATEO, May 18.—The extension of the United Railroads nine blocks to Hayward Park was made possible at a meeting of the Hayward Park Improvement Club and other property owners last night. Captain John Barneson, interested in extensive realty holdings in the park, announced that the club, of which he is a member, will pay $10,000 toward the improvement, provided the property owners subscribe $5000 to make up the amount needed for the extension. A committee composed of Joseph Levy, R. C. Snoot and H. A. Bauer was appointed to secure subscriptions.

Exposure of the Coffee Trust.

The trust investigation by the House of Representatives has at last apparently uncovered a clear case of restraint of trade, in open violation of the Sherman act, involving international money and commercial trusts working hand in hand together to increase the cost of living by artificially sustaining the market price of an imported foreign commodity entering into general consumption, for the special profit of the foreign producer and the domestic importer, at the direct expense of the consumer.

The case in point relates to coffee, an article of general consumption by the people of the United States, but wholly of foreign production, not being among the agricultural products of this country.

The committee had before it this week as a witness a member of a New York firm—one of the largest coffee importers in the country—who was forced to give testimony bearing directly on the manipulation of the Brazilian coffee crop and coffee market which revealed the extraordinary fact that the British, German, French and Belgian bankers had combined with the New York money trust, represented by the National City Bank, the First National Bank and J. Pierpont Morgan Co., to lend aid to the Brazilian government in a time of financial distress in consideration of its exercising its prerogative to restrict the coffee production in order to sustain the market prices in Europe and in the United States. The arrangement was beneficial to the owners of productive Brazilian coffee plantations and to all foreign importers of Brazilian coffee; but the consumers of coffee in Europe and in the United States were cinched to the limit to cover the cost of the dicker. What the latter meant to the consumer was shown in the statistical information introduced by Attorney Untermyer, counsel for the investigating committee, in the course of the examination of the witness, to the effect that for several years previous to the arrangement made by the money trust with the Brazilian government the total production of Brazilian coffee amounted to 6,000,000 bags which sold at 6½ to 7 cents per pound and that the production now aggregates 14,000,000 bags selling at 13 and 14 cents per pound. And under the charge that 4,000,000 bags were now being held out of the market by a valorization committee of seven, representing the International money trust, the witness reluctantly confessed that 900,000 bags were stored in the warehouses of the New York Dock Company for the express purpose of sustaining the market prices of coffee at the cost of the American consumer.

The Brazilian coffee crop, it should be understood, controls the world's market. The price of the Central American coffee crop, on which California and other Pacific States are chiefly dependent for a supply, is regulated by the price of the Brazilian product. We are, therefore, the victims of the combine just as much as the people of the States east of the Rocky Mountains. In reality, we are sufferers in a greater degree than the inhabitants of the latter region for the reason that we are paying the highest world's market prices of the best grades of coffee for inferior grades. According to the representations of an English Central American planter only a third grade Costa Rican and Guatemalan coffee is marketed in the Pacific States, the first grade all going to Great Britain, Germany, France and Belgium and the second grade being exported to New York and other Atlantic ports.

The exposure of the unholy alliance between the international money trust and the domestic coffee trust has, therefore, an exceptional interest to Pacific Coast consumers who are paying the highest market prices of the best coffees for an inferior quality.

The prohibitionists are carrying their crusade to the limit when urging Congress to pass a bill forbidding the importation of wine and malt and spirituous liquors in bulk into "dry" States under interstate commerce regulations. Even non-abstainers who voted in the "dry" States for the suppression of the saloons and the retailing of intoxicants at public bars unquestionably disfavor any such drastic sumptuary law as will make it impossible to obtain supplies of "wet" goods for private domestic use. The measure aims a blow at one of California's most attractive and productive industries associated with the cultivation of the soil—an industry which has been carefully fostered in the State for approximately fifty years, in whose development $100,000,000 or more capital has been permanently invested and the exceptional success of which has made California even more famous abroad than its earlier auriferous wealth made it. California wine-growers naturally revolt against their exclusion from States where they have at great pains and expense established a market for the healthful and unobjectionable products of their vineyards and on Monday they will be given a public hearing before the Congressional committee to protest against the passage of the prohibitory interstate commerce bill.

According to reports made by the State Board of Health, the white plague is claiming victims at the rate of 5000 a year, a little less than one-third of whom are native born residents. The issuance of the report is stimulating interest in the crusade for the extinguishment of the dread disease which is now conceded by experts generally as both curable and preventable under proper treatment, with sanitary surroundings and abundance of fresh air. That the mortality from tuberculosis is so large in this State is, of course, attributable to the great number of persons afflicted with the disease in advanced stages of development who flock hither each year in the vain hope of arresting its progress under the influence of the salubrious climate. Most of these cases have passed the curable stage long before reaching the State and any relief obtained by them is naturally of a temporary character only. California's genial climate has, however, worked miraculous cures among many white plague patients sent out here ostensibly to die. That about 1500 native-born tuberculosis patients die in the State every year is doubtless due to inheritance or infection from parents afflicted with the plague and a failure to resort to the isolation and open-air treatment in proper season.

Growth of American Industrial Exports.

Manufacturing in the United States and the demand abroad for American manufactured products are increasing by leaps and bounds. A recent report of the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce, indicates that the total value of the manufactured products of the country exported to foreign countries during the fiscal year ending June 30 will reach the billion dollar mark, or an excess over the previous fiscal year of approximately $100,000,000. In an analysis, based on the population of the country, the gain of a little over $1 per capita seems insignificant. Its true meaning and positive proof of material prosperity loom up, however, when the gain in the value of the year's exports is subdivided among the actual number engaged in the production of these manufactures, which is comparatively a moderate proportion of the adult population of the United States.

Seventy per cent of the manufactures exported are the products of ten classes of domestic industries—iron and steel, copper, mineral oil refining, woodwork, leather, cotton weaving, agricultural implements, in which the United States leads the world, cars, carriages and chemicals.

Over one-quarter of the billion dollars of the total value of manufactured products exported during the fiscal year is credited to iron and steel. In 1902 the value of this class of exports was under $100,000,000. This fiscal year's record shows that the manufactured iron and steel products exported have increased 150 per cent in value in ten years and over $20,000,000 as compared with the fiscal year 1910-11.

The copper manufactured products exported reach this year approximately $110,000,000, or less than one-half the value of the exported manufactures in iron and steel. This industry has increased the value of its exports in ten years nearly 200 per cent. All through the line of exported manufactures similar large percentages of increase in total values have occurred during the last ten years, showing the marvelous growth and prosperity of the country's industries.

MYSTERY UNSOLVED

With the surgical art of grafting rapidly reaching stage of perfection, an interesting metaphysical question will soon arise as to just what constitutes the difference between human beings and animals. The Journal of the American Medical Association in a recent issue tells how the cornea of a rabbit's eye was grafted upon the eye of a patient in a hospital, completely restoring lost sight. According to the authorities who have studied this case, "the corneal graft is perfect and clear and the vision of the patient has been completely restored."

Humorists may delight in picturing the man with the rabbit's eye as showing right at the approach of a hunting dog or looking longingly at the food that rabbits eat. As a matter of fact, the patient, according to the surgeon, will see with the same clarity with which other human beings see. It has been proved that if the man's heart were removed with pieces of a rabbit's heart there would still be no difference in his feelings.

Grafting has become such a fine art among the surgeons that the time is not far distant when it will be possible to use various diseased organs in human beings. Already there have been cases where the brain of a human being has been repaired with the tissues of another brain, taken from a person who recently died. Nothing seems impossible to modern surgery. It will not be long before the body of a man can be mended as easily as a carpenter patches his front doorstep.

If it is possible to take parts of animals and turn them into parts of human beings, will it ever become possible to take parts of human beings, and by grafting them on animals make the animals seem more human? The world of science is progressing so rapidly that nothing seems wholly impossible or absurd. The whole subject, so thoroughly explored in the past, is still open to the question "What is the soul?" Life comes mysteriously and goes the same way. The scientists have solved the animal side of life, but they have not yet solved the spiritual side. Human beings and animals have similar organs, but there is a vast difference, and even in discovering that the human body can be patched with tissues from animals, the surgeons have not solved the great mystery of life.—Washington Post.

WONDERS OF LIGHT

Even more wonderful than light itself is the medium by which its waves are carried. And what is this medium? It is not air, it is not a gas, it is not a liquid. Is it matter? In order to be matter, as we understand it, a thing must possess two characteristic properties. One of these is weight, inertia. Inertia means the active resistance shown by all matter to a change in its condition of rest or motion. Weight is the measure of the attraction one body has for another, whether they be atoms or suns. The medium that bears light from star to star, or from a candle to the eye, so far as we know, has only one of the properties of matter—Inertia.

Are we not justified, therefore, in saying, with our present knowledge of the subject, that the light-bearing medium, called by scientists the luminiferous ether, is probably not a material thing? The various properties it must possess and without which it could not do all the wonderful things that are claimed for it are more or less contradictory in their nature. Nevertheless, the various theories believed in by a majority of scientists even though they do not pretend to understand its nature.

It is supposed to be everywhere, not chan-

RUSSIA AND THE 'PERIL'

Russia is sitting up nights at this time, according to correspondents both in Peking and St. Petersburg conjuring up a new bogey—the Chinese peril.

It may not be altogether impossible that the Russ is a victim of a guilty conscience. During the many years when there was nothing to oppose Russian greed in China but a spineless court and the protests of other interested nations, the Czar's government unscrupulously dealt with the sleeping nation in a manner that is familiar to all the civilized world.

Now that China has arisen, now that an aggressive if not necessarily efficient government has assumed the reins of control it is not impossible the Russ fears that the awakened giant will pay back his persecutor in similar coin.

However, when analyzed the reports would indicate that the Russ is more exercised over the danger of another clash with Japan than over the danger of a brush with China. In a vague sort of way some reports declare, there is a feeling that "blood will cling to blood" and that China will unite with Japan against the white nations of the world but there does not appear to be any particular ground for believing that any such understanding will be reached in the near future, if at all.

Of Japan's war strength, however, there is something definite to be said. With the colors, Japan is accredited as having 763,000 men. Her first reserve is given as 415,000, second, $31,000, trained militia, 124,000, and untrained militia, $73,000. Practically speaking, Japan, therefore, has a force of 8,005,000 men from which to draw in time of need.

However, it is pointed out that the intensely efficient Japanese have taken hold of the Koreans and are molding them into soldiers. It is intended to conscript these people, to organize them into regiments, to make them an integral portion of the Japanese fighting line.

If they can do this in a few years, the question then appears to be, why can they not influence China sufficiently to have that nation develop an army proportionate to her vast size, on the Japanese model and possibly officered by Japanese?

So this is the crux of the situation. It all revolves around the little Japanese, who has been a highly respected man since he thrashed the Czar's legions as they have not been beaten before in many long years.—Seattle Times

SERVANT PROBLEM

Is the "servant problem" merely another phase of the great American game of "bluff," the struggle to be that which we are not, to seem to be just a little more than we are, about which there is so much torrid discussion nowadays? The report of Mr. Herman Robinson, commissioner of licenses to the mayor points strongly to that conclusion. Scarcity of domestics, he maintains, is due to the idea that in a household the employer is "the lady" while the employee is just "servant." And the servant lack a social life such as the factory girl or millhand is able to obtain, so she becomes a "sulley" or "No. 488" on the factory time clock. Therefore, he is the glorious privilege of boasting her independence of superiors in the social world, let floorwalkers and department heads and "foreladies" and superintendents rage as they will.

She works just as hard—harder, probably—even though her hours of work lie inside a definite range, as those of household service do not. She is scarce so well off financially in any case. Her living conditions, if she be one of the thousands of unattached workers of the metropolis, bunking in a tenement or clinging to a cheerless "furnished room" cannot be better than if she were a servant in any respectable household. While she may have more time for social diversions, she must depend on some one else to furnish the means, for her own straitened financial condition can hardly compass it. Obviously, everybody asks how she can consider herself better off and why she should do it. Yet she does. Mr. Robinson says, and is continuing to shift from "servant" to "employee" in greater numbers each year.

It is the modern, city life exemplification of the spirit which impelled the farm servant of a generation ago to demand that she be called "help" and allowed to "eat with the family." It is foolish, economically, perhaps, yet it shows a ready grasp of some phases of American life by the visitors to these shores. And is the servantless "mistress" in any position to condemn, if her husband is maintaining two automobiles when his finances scarcely permit one?—New York Tribune

NEW THRILL IN CRIME

Fighting robbers with dynamite is proof that the Paris police are living up to their traditional alertness for keeping pace with the progressive criminal mind. That, of course, is all that could be expected of the most resourceful thief-catcher, since no more than the most imaginative writer of detective stories could anticipate what use a daring and ingenious criminal would make of a new invention or of changed conditions such as the automobile, for instance, has ushered in.

Most of us would be glad to get rid of our experience for less than cost. If a certain presidential candidate ever writes a play it will be difficult to find a stage large enough to accommodate all the villains in it.

capture that the police adopted the old adage of fighting the devil with fire, and wiped out the gang in what is described as the most thrilling encounter in the annals of French crime. The authorities only woke up last week, after a score of unarmed police had paid the penalty of tackling the desperado confederates of the "demon chauffeur" with the odds so heavy against them.

Additional to the deadly and destructive dynamite explosion the modern features of the drama were the garage where the battle was fought and the presence of a moving picture machine. Although great excitement and confusion prevailed, we are authorized to say that the operators turned the machine so as not to lose a single development of the unexampled happenings. The film will not be long, we venture to say, in crossing the Atlantic to prove the fact beggars fiction.—Washington Post.

Runaways Stopped After Dash That Endangers Lives of Pedestrians.

After endangering a number of lives by a frantic dash along the Oakland mole yesterday afternoon, a team of valuable horses were stopped at Seventh and Pine streets by Patrolman Arthur Murphy. In the mix-up that ensued one of the animals sustained a probably fatal injury when a shaft of the buggy was driven through its side. The other horse received a wrenched hoof.

The team became frightened at the end of the mole and ran in the direction of the city. Several automobiles were passed and nearly overturned by the vehicle. Patrolman Murphy got control of the team just as it met with the mishap. The buggy was wrecked.

Absorbs Skin, Chases Wrinkles—Young Again

"The shock at beholding myself in the glass after nine long weeks abed, nearly caused a relapse," writes Emily Colton in Home Queen. "The faded face with its lines of illness and worry, seemed thirty years old. Now, I think, I could attend my chum's wedding eleven days off, to which I had looked hopefully forward." She herself came to my rescue. She put aounce of mineral oil in the water which she had prepared on like cold cream, washing it off next morning. Applied rightly, this apparently absorbed the withered skin so gently I experienced no discomfort. Upon the second morning the pallid complexion had entirely given way to one of youthful color and loveliness. "And there wasn't a wrinkle. This due to a wash lotion made by dissolving an ounce of salolite in a half pint witch hazel. The daily face bath had dispersed every line."

Annual Election of Officers and Reports for Year Show Scope of Work Accomplished by the Society

Reports showing the activities of the organization in renewing its body from an inactive, failing body to a strong, influential and respected society, were read at the 33rd annual meeting of the Oakland chapter of the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, held a few days ago at the home of Mrs. J. H. Mathews.

Among those who participated in the organization's work within the province of the society were the chairman of Alameda, Mrs. G. B. Clark; Miss Martha Leese, Mrs. C. Ringler, Mrs. A. P. Holland, Mrs. M. B. Lindsey, Dr. T. G. Carpenter, John W. Blakely, Mrs. Ringler, A. P. Holland, Dr. Norman Henderson, A. O. Utley and Grant Hicks.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Dr. George Mathews, president of the board of directors in Alameda county and the present board of directors was warmly endorsed.

The following directors and officers were elected:

C. Judkins, president; Mrs. Laurence Gronlund, vice-president; Mrs. J. H. Mathews, treasurer; Dr. G. B. Clark, veterinarian and executive officer; Mrs. M. B. Lindsey, Mrs. T. C. Judkins; Mrs. William Keith, Mrs. W. C. Ralston; A. P. Holland, chairman of the board.

Secretary Mrs. Laurence Gronlund read the following interesting report, showing the extent of the work that is being done by the society:

—Ladies and Gentlemen. This annual gathering marks the 28th milestone in the history of the Oakland Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

From January 1, 1911, to December 31, 1911, the society has the practical work been so great or far-reaching as during the past year.

The activities of the society extend over a large area and in a wide field yet due to the system and order established by the board of directors, a large amount of work characterized by thoroughness and dispatch is accomplished.

No statement can adequately set forth the amount of work done by the society during the year. Only those persons intimately familiar with the details can appreciate the amount of work done.

Convey in a measure only an idea of the scope of the work, its volume, the means necessary to efficient action, and the results of the society's activities, in so far as we can give results, during the year.

NEWS OF ALAMEDA AND CONTRA COSTA COUNTIES

BITHER'S ANCHOR WOULDN'T HOLD

Chamber of Commerce Insurgents Cut String to His Resignation.

BERKELEY, May 18.—The insurgent minority in the Chamber of Commerce, having safely landed Dr. H. N. Rowell in the presidency, is grinning today with the assurance of the victorious at the proponderating in numbers for the time succeeded. Meanwhile Dr. J. Bither, former president of the chamber of commerce, in the recall election, has settled down to work as a director and declares he will not renew the contest to regain the position from which he declined to withdraw his name.

The whole muddle is said to have been due to a string on Bither's resignation which the insurgents cut. Bither's resignation was orally delivered to the directors, who were induced by the conditional upon his election to the council. If elected it would be accepted.

At the next meeting of the directors, held in executive session, the insurgents were present and voted to accept Dr. Rowell, vice-president, and one of their number, had returned from a trip to Portland and presided. The insurgents, proponderating in numbers for the time being, forced the string to Bither's resignation, accepted the resignation and elected Dr. Rowell to the position.

It was at the following meeting that Bither gave vent to his wrath at the trickery he alleged had been perpetrated against him. He withdrew his name, but subsequently Bither accepted the situation and recommended his duties as a mere director.

It is whispered among the old-line members of the chamber, however, that they will not so meekly submit to what they consider unfair tactics on the part of the insurgents. It is possible the whole matter may be reopened at a future meeting of the directors and Dr. Rowell's incumbency of his office terminated as summarily as it began.

Of the directors of the chamber Charles Green, A. Howard, Herrmann, E. L. Morris, E. M. A. Morrison, Dr. H. N. Rowell and Dr. W. H. Woodward are supposed to form the party favoring Dr. Rowell's retention of his office. Other directors are A. E. Alford, D. E. Brown, B. J. Gauthier, A. S. Cooley, Noah W. Gray, C. D. Haywood, Maurice Hirschfeld, H. S. Howard, N. O. Morse, Frank L. Naylor, Don M. Roberts, Elmer L. Rowell, W. L. Woodward and W. E. Woolsey.

Pisa's Leaning Tower Is Once Again in Danger of Collapse

LEANING TOWER OF PISA, WHICH IS AGAIN REPORTED AS BEING IN DANGER OF FALLING.

RECALL ROW AT BERKELEY HIGH

Officers of Student Body Are Threatened With Removal by Petition.

ROME, May 18.—The Leaning Tower of Pisa, considered one of the wonders of the world, is again reported to be in danger of falling. It has been a source of wonderment to the world that the tower has stood for 582 years with its walls fifteen feet out of plumb.

It is reported that when the tower was building the foundations sank on one side and that the builders allowed for the disproportion in finishing the structure.

Whatever architectural precautions were taken the tower has always looked as though it were going over. It stands 179 feet high.

Misconduct of yesterday's election by the six is made the basis of the proposed recall, which is being urged by Louise Steinberger, defeated candidate for president, and a number of others who are supporting him. That the election should have been held a week later than it was and that the names of candidates were not placed on the ballot are the demands of the points upon which the recall is based.

Petitions will be put in circulation Monday. The officers elected at the disputed balloting yesterday were as follows:

President, Gaylord Cooke; vice-president, Rosalie Wallace; secretary, Miss Elizabeth Witter; yell leader, Wilson Brown; editor of the Old Podrida, Edwin Elam; manager of the Old Podrida, Arthur; chairman of major athletics, Charles Lindsay; commissioner of minor athletics, George Linn; commissioner of journalism, Paul Clark; commissioners of music, Harold Lasar.

Graff; valedictory, Miss O. G. Siple; piano solo, Miss Edith Hollers; address, H. D. Brasfield; presentation of diploma; class song; benediction, Rev. C. G. Lucas.

STILL TO FIGHT VACCINATION RULE

Allan Williams to Carry Case Against University to a Higher Court.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, May 18.—Allan F. Williams, the student whose suit for admission without vaccination to the university was denied in Judge Waste's court in Oakland yesterday, will appeal to a higher court according to George Geler, attorney who appeared for him. Judge Waste held that the rule was unconstitutional and violated the right of a person to escape vaccination by swearing he had conscientious scruples against it. The court holding that this was a general law with a limited application.

Williams' suit was invoked particularly by his parents, he having stated to the authorities that personally he had little opinion one way or the other in the vaccination question. The college authorities refused him regular admission after he had completed one semester unless he were vaccinated.

AGAINST VACCINATION.

This student refused to do. The university permitted him to continue as a student at the institution, though requiring to register him and permitted him to accompany the students in the summer school of engineering this summer.

Attorney Geler stated this morning that the case would be appealed to the California Anti-Compulsory Vaccination League has been specially active in the case, taking Williams' side in his opposition to the university vaccination rule.

POSTOFFICE BIDS TO BE OPENED

Construction of Alameda Federal Building to Begin Soon.

ALAMEDA, May 18.—Bids are to be opened next week in Washington for the contract for the Alameda postoffice. The commencement of construction work will mark the beginning of an important epoch for the business and residence district east of Park street and will undoubtedly be the starting factor in a general scheme of improvements.

The municipal betterments provided for in the original bond issue will be realized before the close of the year, as active construction work on the new building for the electric light department and on the police signal system will be undertaken as soon as the bonds are prepared and sold. The moving of the electric light plant will not cause any trouble in supplying light, as the new unit provided for in the bond issue will be installed in the new building in the corporation yard at the north end of Grand street, and will be placed in operation before the other four units, now located at the south end of Oak street, will be torn down and moved.

MRS. ANNIE B. FITZER.

COLORADO SPRINGS, May 18.—Mrs. Annie B. Pitzer will cast the vote of Colorado for Champ Clark. Mrs. Pitzer is the sister of Mr. Clark's wife.

She is a widow, and took up her residence in Colorado Springs some years ago for her health. She has never taken a very active interest in politics.

The Democrats chose her one of the delegates at large from the state. Mrs. Pitzer says she believes in Champ Clark as a leader and as one qualified for the presidency, and that is why she will vote for him at Baltimore.

BUNKER HILL DAY PLANS ARRANGED

Hundreds of New England Housewives to Cook Palace Hotel Dinner.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—One of the gala events of the spring season will be the big Bunker Hill celebration of the New England Association, extensive preparations for which are already under way. The main event of the day will take place at the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, where one of the big dining-rooms and the gold ballroom have been retained.

Perhaps the most unique feature of the Bunker Hill celebration, on June 17, will be the old-fashioned New England dinner. This will not be prepared by the French chef of the Palace Hotel, but by hundreds of New England housewives, who will prepare the delicacies in their own kitchens and carry the steaming dishes to the Palace Hotel, where they will be assembled and served in their proper courses.

After the dinner there will be some old-fashioned dancing, such as has not been seen in this section for many a day. Old folks and young will combine in the terpsichorean amusements of their grandparents of Mayflower fame. The Fisher's hornpipe, Virginia reel and Hobson's Jig will be among the dances at the Bunker Hill ball on June 17.

Reservations for the dinner and ball will be limited to 600, and New Englanders from places outside of San Francisco, who wish to attend, will find the events will have to make application to the Bunker Hill committee, 411 Phelan building, San Francisco. A clambake at Land's End, near the Cliff House, is also in contemplation.

Committees for the clambake, Bunker Hill day, for the consideration of the New England building, etc., will be appointed at Monday night's meeting of the New England Association of California at the Palace Hotel. A number of well-known speakers and musicians will add to the evening's entertainment.

JURY REBUKED FOR THEIR $14 LUNCH

Judge Coffey Thinks Half That Sum Would Have Well Sufficed.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—A jury in Superior Judge Coffey's court, which broke the will of the late Caroline H. Bainbridge this morning, was roundly scored, because they spent too much money for lunch. Aside from the importance of the broken testament was the somewhat humorous feature of the court's condemnation of an account of $14 for lunch for 12 jurors, instead of the $6, which his honor deemed good and sufficient.

Caroline Bainbridge was manager of the Oregon Hotel, Fort Street and Valencia streets, and had wide property interests in Portland. She died in September, 1910, leaving several wills, each of which bequeathed her property to the church, to individual priests and to judges in Portland and this city. The total value of the estate is said to have been $90,000, and a contest was brought by a niece, Mrs. Mary J. Mayfield. Her claim was granted by the jurors, who broke the will today, but it is said that because of other testaments the litigation is not over by any means.

AUTOMATIC RIVER GAUGE INSTALLED

SACRAMENTO, May 18.—The only automatic self-recording river gauge west of the Mississippi river will shortly be installed on the east pier of the Southern Pacific bridge. The self-recording apparatus was shipped by express from Washington Monday, according to notification received by W. R. Taylor, in charge of the local weather bureau branch. The Southern Pacific is bearing part of the expense of installing the new gauge. Taylor interested the government in buying the apparatus. The new gauge will send an automatic record to the weather bureau office on the third floor of the Federal building. An indicator in the office will be connected with the gauge apparatus by three wires, one for the rise and one common return wire. As long as the river continues to rise, the indicator will point upward. The instant it begins to fall the indicator will point downward.

THINKS SOCIALISM MEANS FREE WHISKEY

CHICAGO, May 18.—"I'm a Socialist, and I don't have to pay for my whisky."

Judge Maxwell shifted uneasily in his chair when Stanley Ludek, who had been arrested on charge of refusing to pay for a drink of whisky, asked him in court yesterday and gave him this answer when he asked why he did not pay for what he ordered.

"This man looks all right, but I think he should be examined," the judge remarked to the policeman who arrested Ludek.

Ludek explained that this was one of the teachings of Socialism, as he understood it. The judge fined him $5.

FACTORY MEN TO STUDY PHOTO SHOW

Campaign of Education Will Be Started to Improve Industrial Life.

NEW YORK, May 18.—Several thousand employees, factory superintendents and workers from every section of the country will attend the 17th annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers of the United States at the Waldorf-Astoria on May 21 and 22. The convention will mark the opening of a campaign of education to improve the efficiency of American industrial methods by educating both workers and employers. Its deliberations will be directed about the elimination of industrial accidents.

This subject will be handled by speakers of national prominence, among them being Ford C. Schievelbein and James A. Morrissey, of the association's committee on accident prevention, and George E. Bird, vice-president and general manager of the association. John Kirby Jr., president of the association, will be present.

MOVING PICTURE FILMS.

Among the special features which have been arranged for the convention are motion picture films, each of which has its own lesson on the cause, effect and remedy of industrial accidents.

The first film, "The Accidental Injury," shows the logical effect of the causality both upon the worker and his family or relatives. The pictures prove as clearly as possible the need for inspection to any plant the practicability of certain remedies for at least 75 per cent of the total number of industrial accidents which occur in the United States every year.

The third motion picture film is entitled "Insuring Safety at Sea," and comprises the results of a careful investigation into the field of practical insurance against marine accidents promoted by the various trans-Atlantic shipping companies. The pictures also include some of the latest and most adaptable forms of rescue apparatus which are of particular service in this field.

Besides the motion picture films there will be arranged in the Colonial room of the hotel an accident prevention exhibition, consisting of almost 2000 photographs and drawings of working models of safety devices and a portion of the safety at sea apparatus shown in the motion pictures. The Wisconsin State Industrial commission has been invited to photograph the accident prevention exhibits of the various states.

The fourth motion picture film is entitled "Insuring Safety at Sea," and comprises the results of a careful investigation into the field of practical insurance against marine accidents promoted by the various trans-Atlantic shipping companies. The pictures also include some of the latest and most adaptable forms of rescue apparatus which are of particular service in this field.

Another branch of the national campaign to promote the welfare and efficiency of employers and workers which will be touched on at the national convention is the question of fire prevention. In this connection there will be a symposium of the fire chiefs of more than 100 of the largest cities in the country, giving the results of their efforts to reduce the reducing the annual losses by fire.

This symposium will be presided over by Franklin H. Wentworth, secretary of the Fire Protection Association of the country, and a special committee of the association will preside over the discussion.

TONG WAR BREAKS OUT AFRESH; ONE KILLED COOK IS SHOT IN STREET OF S. F.

Body of Youthful Celestial Is Riddled With Bullets From Darkness.

Suspect Under Arrest Believed to Be Hop Sing Tong Man.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—Hostilities in the slumbering tong war, which has been fermenting for several days, broke out suddenly tonight and resulted in the murder of Sun Tim, a cook, 22 years old, who is a recent arrival here from Hawaii and belonged to the Wong Sing Tong.

It was exactly 8:45 o'clock when four shots rang out at Pacific street, between Grant avenue and Kearny street, and Patrolmen Toomey and Bigelow saw a man fall to the pavement and a second individual dashed around the corner carrying a smoking revolver. In his flight he threw away the weapon and was overtaken by the policemen a block distant. Returning the revolver, they took their man to the police prison and charged him with murder. He gave the name of Gee Sun Goo, a laundryman, 22 years old. He is declared to be a Suey Sing man, but denied absolutely that he had done the shooting, and Detective Sergeant McMahon, despite the statement of the arresting officers, took him into Chinatown seeking further evidence.

FOUND DEAD.

When the members of the Chinatown squad reached the scene of the firing simultaneously with the arrest of Gee they found Sun Tim lying dead with four bullet holes in his body. He had been shot in the back, the side and the head, dying mortally. According to the statement of witnesses, Sun was walking along Pacific street and when he came in front of a building in course of construction at No. 626 a second Chinese, who had been skulking in the shadows, suddenly drew his pistol and fired. The identification of Sun was made by a paper in his pocket.

The word was immediately spread by the Chinese that a shooting had occurred and the police entertain fears that hostilities will break out in other parts of the state.

Mother Kills Herself When Denied Her Baby

Member of Wealthy Detroit Family Takes Poison at Portland.

PORLTAND, Or., May 18.—Disappointed at her failure to secure possession of her baby daughter is believed to have caused Mrs. Norine Albion Monagle to commit suicide here by taking poison. Mrs. Monagle, who was said to have been a member of a wealthy family in Detroit, came to Portland to induce her aunt, Mrs. John Lehner, who had been caring for the child, which was by a former husband, to surrender the little one. When Mrs. Lehner learned of her niece's intention of coming here, it is stated, she left at once for Cincinnati, O., with the baby. The younger woman is said to have disappoined her aunt by her second marriage.

Governor Considers Industrial Workers

Report Will Be Made by State Executive as to the Future Action.

SACRAMENTO, May 18.—Governor Johnson held a conference today with Chief Deputy Raymond Benhamine and Deputy Robert W. Harrison of Attorney-General Webb's office relative to the legal aspects and contingencies presented by the special report on the San Diego I. W. W. situation, made by William Weinstock. The governor will probably make a statement in regard to the report Monday.

Health Secretary of State Will Go East

To Attend Surgeon-General's Conference to Be Held in Washington, D. C.

SACRAMENTO, May 18.—W. F. Snow, secretary of the state board of health, will leave next Saturday to attend the surgeon-general's conference to be held in Washington, D. C., May 30, and meetings of the National Tuberculosis Association and of the National American Association on labor legislation at Atlantic City. His office matters will permit his further absence. Dr. Snow will go on to England to make a special study of public health work, including tuberculosis, garbage and sewage disposal and water supply problems.

CHERRIES GOING EAST.

SACRAMENTO, May 18.—Though the delicious fruit season is not opening as rapidly as was hoped the fruit world, Sacramento, California, is now shipping a car of cherries daily, mostly from the Vacaville section, which is producing the bulk of those now ripening. The Sacramento river district, Suisun and Placerville counties also are contributing.

HOSTS OF FRUITVALE AND MELROSE SUNDAY SCHOOLS IN PARADE SPECTACULAR PAGEANT SHOWS STRENGTH OF THE WORKERS

Part of the Doll Brigade in the pageant of the Fruitvale District Sunday Schools which took place yesterday morning and afternoon.

Gaily Bedecked Children and Handsome Floats Cheered on March; Speeches and Athletic Events Held in Wetherbee Grounds

Thousands of spectators witnessed the Fruitvale Sunday school parade yesterday morning as it wended its way down East Fourteenth street to Fruitvale avenue from the boulevard in Melrose. One thousand men, women and children marched. It was one of the most unique scenes ever presented. The streets were thronged with people who had congregated in Fruitvale for the purpose of viewing the pageant, which, in point of display, surpassed that held in Lincoln Park, Alameda, last year, when 1500 men, women and children marched to the strains of "Onward, Christian Soldiers." The spectacle of yesterday was an exhibition of the originality of the Sunday school workers who had carefully prepared the floats. Forty-four local and various members of the Sunday School Association had studied their plans for the purpose of depicting the work of religious schools and the ideals for which they stand. The morals of the institutions were inscribed upon the banners which the students carried.

ALL WORE EMBLEMS.

Boys and girls of all sizes and ages appeared in the gala colors of the Sunday schools, which they represented. Everyone in the parade wore an emblem. The variety of colors displayed was pleasing and caused much favorable comment. Many of the youngsters used paper streamers. The dresses of the fair marchers were simple, the majority of the girls being gowned in white. Many of the prettiest children in Fruitvale and Melrose were in the pageant, which has become one of the traditional features of the Sunday School Association.

BANDS LEAD DIVISIONS.

The first division of the parade was led by the boys' band of the Lockwood school and the second by the OAKLAND TRIBUNE drum corps. W. C. Gammie was in the grand marshal and A. A. Lechner, assistant marshal. Each division had its marshals. The Sunday schools in the line of march were: Fruitvale Christian, St. James Presbyterian, Fruitvale Presbyterian, Fruitvale Congregational, Melrose Baptist, Melrose Methodist, Episcopal, High-street Presbyterian, Boulevard Congregational and Allendale Methodist Episcopal Church.

In speaking of the importance and success of the celebration, Rev. R. Franklin Rhoda, pastor of the Fruitvale Presbyterian Church and chairman of the general arrangement committee, said:

"The object of the parade is to present before the public the important work of the church with the children. It is felt that in many cases a parent will gain the attendance of the public, both adults and children, far more effectively than is possible."

PENNANTS AWARDED.

Pennants were given to the Melrose Baptist church and the Bethany Baptist church of Alendale for the best display of floats. Honorable mention was tendered the Fruitvale Christian church for the most elaborate display and to St. James church for its original float. The pennants were the gifts of the Sunday School Association.

YOUNG WOULD ABOLISH "BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH."

In making their decisions the judges took into account the esthetic beauty of the floats and the moral lesson conveyed.

According to a statement made by one of the members of the banner committee, there was much difficulty experienced in making the selection.

Flowers were used profusely in the floats. Vehicles conveying children give up her town house in London." The Astor family will acquire new home, at which the first Mrs. Astor, Vincent Astor and his sister Muriel will reside. The use of the present Fifth Avenue mansion was given to the second wife, Mrs. Madeline Talmadge Force Astor, so long as she does not marry.

When Mrs. Astor was asked today concerning her plans, she replied that she had nothing definite to say concerning them.

SLAYER OF POLICEMEN WILL BE HUNG NOV. 10.

Man Who Shot Denver Officers Evading Arrest Will Die on the Gallows.

DENVER, Colo., May 17.—Oscar Cook was sentenced this afternoon to hang death during the week of November 10 for the killing of Patrolmen William McPherson and J. J. Lloyd, while attempting to rob the latter's saloon.

resolutions passed at the annual coast conference this morning, the candidate for the matrimonial nonce must first submit to questions touching his past matrimonial indiscretions, with particular reference to divorce.

NEW VENIRE IN DARROW CASE SLAYER BEGS FOR EARLY DEATH LOVER SLAYS GIRL, THEN ENDS LIFE

Jury to Try Attorney Expected to Be Complete by Monday Evening.

First Witness to Be George Monroe, Clerk of Judge Bordwell's Court.

Los ANGELES, May 18.—With ten jurors chosen and sworn in to hear the Darrow case, Superior Judge Huntington adjourned court at noon today till 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

A new venire of ten alternates was drawn, returnable at 1:30 Monday afternoon and undoubtedly by night the jury will be complete and the presentation of evidence will begin the following morning.

District Attorney Fredericks will make a brief statement of what he expects to prove. The first witness will be George Monroe, clerk of Judge Bordwell's court, by whom the facts of the occurrence of the McNamara trial and the drawing of the name of George N. Ladd as a talesman and the issuance of a subpoena for him will be legally established.

Darrow is on trial for the alleged bribery of Lockwood.

Presumably Lockwood will be the next witness after Monroe, and Bert Franklin will follow very soon after Lockwood.

Talesman Golding, the treasurer of the Patton-Davies Lumber Company, who is capitalistic in his leanings, but pro-Darrow in the belief that the bribery of Lockwood and the arrest of Bert Franklin was a "frame up," was chosen alternately either side today and was sworn in as juror.

Captain Fredericks today again showed his understanding that the eloquence of Darrow is to be an important factor in the final result of the trial, by asking talesmen whether, in the event of the defendant making an appeal on his own behalf, they would let sentiment or sympathy influence their judgment.

Nat on Fifth Voyage On Sea of Marriage?

Much-Wedded Actor Is Said to Have Taken Marjorie Moreland as Wife.

LOS ANGELES, May 18.—Friends of Nat Goodwin are trying today to locate the much-married actor to convey confirmation on his reported marriage to Miss Marjorie Moreland, apparently authentic news of which has been received here.

Several months ago it was reported here that Goodwin was engaged to marry Miss Moreland, who is an actress, but both Goodwin and the young lady denied the report.

White friends believed that Goodwin was en route to his home here after completing a New York engagement, telegram was received that indicated he had married Miss Moreland and was bringing her with him to California.

Friends today by friends of Goodwin to reach him by telegraph to confirm the report of his fifth marriage were fruitless. Goodwin is supposed to be in Chicago, where he had intended to stop on his way to Los Angeles.

Cigarette-Turpentine-Bang! and Hospital

Painter Painfully Burned in Explosion Caused by Carelessness.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—Frank Hubbard, of 1112 College avenue, Alameda, a painter, was severely burned in an explosion at Twenty-fifth and Polson streets at 1 o'clock this afternoon. While at work on a building Hubbard was smoking a cigarette. Some sparks fell into a can of turpentine and the fluid was immediately ablaze. His face, hands and arms were badly scorched and he was hurriedly taken to the Mission Hospital. Dr. McGroarty applied soothing poultices, and he was removed to his home later in the day.

YOUNG WOULD ABOLISH "BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH."

Author of Primary Bill Says One Feature Is Nuisance and Expensive.

SACRAMENTO, May 18.—It has been announced by Assemblyman Young of Berkeley, author of the Presidential preference primary law, that he has decided to use his best efforts at the next session of the Legislature to have that section providing for biographical sketches of the candidates repealed. It has been determined, according to computation by the secretary of state's office, that the sketches are more of a nuisance than a benefit and that the state has lost money in printing them.

Rev. C. V. T. Richeson, Condemned to Death Chair, Prays for End.

Asks That Mental Agony Be Not Prolonged; Execution Date Not Fixed.

BOSTON, May 18.—His nerves shattered, his body weakened by long abstinence from food, and all hope of life gone, the Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson, slayer of Avila Linnell, told his lawyer yesterday that his mental agony be not prolonged and that he be put to death Monday morning.

He declared fervently that the suspense was worse than the payment of the death penalty would be, and that he wished to be taken to the electric chair as soon as possible after the time fixed by the court.

It is believed here that Wardens intended to postpone the execution until between midnight and 1 o'clock Tuesday morning, so that the arrangements would not have to be completed on Sunday, and whether Richeson's plea for early death will be granted depends solely on the RICHESON. The picture of the dead girl sent by the Los Angeles police to the Chicago detectives was identified today by four persons as that of Bebbie Jones of Norfolk, who had lived in Chicago with Dillon as his wife. The couple were known there as Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jones.

Dillon was married and also lived part of the time with his wife and four children in an apartment at 120 Evanson avenue. He returned to his wife and family from Los Angeles Tuesday night.

After reading that the police of Chicago sought a man of his name in connection with the Los Angeles murder he realized that the police net was tightening about him. He waited about Wilmette for time, evidently debating with himself as to his remedy and then threw himself under the wheels of a passing Northwestern train.

OPEN VERDICT.

The coroner's jury, which held an inquest over the body of Dillon today, was unable to determine whether the man committed suicide, was murdered or was killed accidentally. The jury returned an open verdict, stating that he died of shock and hemorrhage as the result of being run over by a Chicago & Northwestern train. Mrs. Dillon, his widow, attended the inquest.

JOHNSON NAMES NEW BOARD OF RECLAMATION.

Private Work Must Not Be Permitted to Interfere With Flood Control.

SACRAMENTO, May 18.—Governor Johnson this morning appointed as the three members of the new state reclamation board on his request against the way members of the vigilantes have been committing lawless acts in arresting, tar and feathering defenseless men and driving them out of the city of San Diego. The Sacramento Socialists call upon the Governor to take immediate steps to assure to the men the right of speech and the right of liberty.

SACRAMENTO, May 18.—A committee consisting of members of the Socialist party of Sacramento today presented a protest to Governor Johnson against the way members of the vigilantes have been committing lawless acts in arresting, tar and feathering defenseless men and driving them out of the city of San Diego. The Sacramento Socialists call upon the Governor to take immediate steps to assure to the men the right of speech and the right of liberty.

MISSING DILLON MAY HAVE DIED UNDER TRAIN.

Chicago Police See Resemblance Between Victim There and Wanted Murderer.

CHICAGO, May 18.—Similarly, the description of the man of the name of Dillon, wanted by Los Angeles authorities in connection with the murder of the young woman whose body was found in a vacant bungalow there, and C. C. Dillon, who was run over and killed by a train near Wilmette, a suburb, today, caused the Chicago police to inquire into the theory that the man killed may be the missing Dillon.

WO world's records broken and four Olympic games records smashed was the result of the trials for the Olympic games held yesterday afternoon on the Stanford oval and field at Palo Alto. Athletes from the entire Pacific Coast struggled for positions on the team which will represent the United States of America in the sixth Olympiad at Stockholm, Sweden, and George Horine of Stanford university, jumping over 6 feet 8 inches, won the high jump. The only other high jumper of promise is John Paul of the East.

The giant of Hastingsburg, having had for 60 feet 6 1/2 inches, the total of right and left-hand puts, broken the approximate put of Macdonald of New York, and set a new record of 89 feet 6 1/2 inches, 3 feet 8 1/2 inches formerly the world's record. His right-hand put of 49 feet 7 1/2 inches broke his own Olympic record of 48 feet.

The pole vault was one of the most thrilling events of all. Here Sam Bellah, former Stanford hero, and now of the Multnomah club of Oregon, broke the world's record of 10 feet 2 inches set by Gilbert and Cook of Minnesota, and established the high mark of 12 feet 8 1/2 inches. This the best was placed by the Olympic club, who had been beaten by Bellah was unable to cross at the 13-foot mark, knocking it off by a small margin.

100 METERS RECORD TIED.

The 100 metres, a race a little longer than the 100-yard dash, resulted in the Olympic being tied by Courtney of the Stanford. Court was hard pressed throughout, but Fred Gandy, of the Olympic club, who had been in competition for 18 years, Courtney cov-

Will Enter Two Mile Race Against Bennison at Shell-mound on June 2nd.

Determined to attempt to retrieve the laurels he lost in the Santa Clara-St. Mary's College meet, Harry Neumann, the well-known distance runner, has come down from the mountains with the two-mile handicap race for the Kelleher diamond medal at the forty-third annual picnic and games of the Knights of the Red Branch, a Catholic club, at San Francisco, yesterday afternoon, June 2, under sanction of the Pacific Association of the Amateur Athletes Union.

Neumann will run the medal from a strong field last year and will again attempt to carry off the honors, but Neumann will not be his only competitor, as Edger Stew, the diminutive Olympic clubman, will do his best to keep running of late and will undoubtedly start on the scratch mark with the St. Mary's boy, and the contest will be one well worth going to.

Both of these lads are among the most promising distance runners upon the coast and have bright futures before them. It will be interesting to see how stout has had wondrous to make him go his best.

CHICAGO FANS DON'T LIKE LOOKS ON JULY 4

CHICAGO, May 18.—"What's doing?"

That's what anxious folks are asking about the lightweight championship fight between Al Young, July 4.

There have been rumors of a "frame" ever since the match was closed. What started the talk was the report that Wolpert and Rivers had signed a "gentlemen's agreement" to battle again on Labor day, has added fuel to the flames.

The fight, which was long in the brewing since it had been planned for before the articles were signed. A few weeks before the deal was clinched Tom Jones, who managed Young, told the press that the differences were patched up rather easily when all the parties concerned agreed on Louie's terms. Now, however, out talk about Wolpert's high spirits and the fact that the sports are going to kick the Mexican even more, if they can't get better odds.

The Young-Rivers fight, if it is to affect the effects of an operation would make it simple for him to lose without causing grave suspicion. It is doubtful indeed, if he would agree to "fix" the fight, but if he did, it would be to his detriment.

Young, however, has said that the effects of an operation would make it simple for him to lose without causing grave suspicion.

AUTOMOBILE SECTION

EDITED BY
J. A. HOULIHAN

GOOD ROADS MOVEMENT IS SWEEPING COUNTRY Most Remote Sections Now Becoming Active; A. A. A. Official Tells of Benefits Derived

BY ROBERT P. HOOVER, president American Automobile Assn
many of the Southern and Western states have made remarkable progress in the past two or three years in the extension of roads which provide for the construction of their highway systems, and the construction and care of improved roads. The new conditions arising from development of automobile traffic have enlarged the question of public highways from one of purely local consideration to an economic principle involving only entire commonwealths, but the nation as a whole.

Then the traffic consisted of wagons by oxen, or mules, or horses open to the nearest railroad station or landing were all that was required fact that even such roads were not built, nor kept in repair, was due to variety of causes. Each particular locality had an explanation, purely local, to account for the conditions. But as these explanations did not explain to the satisfaction of those making em.

As fact still remained that nearly or 50 per cent of the farmers of the country were keeping themselves poor by reason of the excessive cost of marketing products. These products could be sold only at seasons when everybody had to haul. This resulted in temporarily worked railway service, congested sets and low prices.

The older and wealthier states saw the first, and began giving aid to counties and towns in building improved roads, so that produce could be marketed any time in the year. The result was most electrical in its effect. Thousands of farms, which because of their relative unprofitability under a bad road system, became productive again. The general values of farm property were enormously enhanced. This was accomplished by the building of a few town and county roads purely for local purposes.

A FACTOR IN ROAD QUESTION. Then the automobile became a factor in road question, and the road problem was widened and enlarged. With vehicles which would cover 100 or 200 miles a day, the conditions in each community rapidly became known to the people in adjoining counties, and a broader comprehension of the whole highway question was inevitable in a country where automobiles predominate.

The age is progressive. Fifty or sixty years ago this country began to build roads, and now we have more than 400,000 miles of the world together place of crude industrial facilities, we are the very best on earth; yet we are and other civilized nations in the improvement of our roads. We are beginning to do with our highways what had been done long ago.

There is phase of the road question which is state-wide. In its application, it relates to the through or trunk lines which accommodate through traffic. To the construction and care of these roads in the hands of local authorities result in uneven and inharmonious construction, unimproved gaps and deserts involving practically a failure such roads for a standard of their type. These extended lines of road across a state, or between principal centers of population, have become a necessity of modern traffic. While the through traffic is mostly that of motor cars, the local usefulness of the road is not interfered with. The continuity of such roads, however, and the standard of construction and care required make of them a factor in highway development which it is more just that the state should provide for than the local communities through which they may pass.

LONG ROAD AS ADVERTISEMENT.

A long stretch of improved road is one of the best advertisements a state can have. It attracts a class of tourists who are able and willing to pay for entertainment. It brings investors who are looking for advantageous locations. It includes agricultural investigation and consequent immigration and investment not only along the line of the road out in other accessible sections. It changes by the sheer force of publicity, backward localities into progressive ones, enhances values and brings into general notice resources which had only been known locally, or, if known, not appreciated.

The advantages which such stretches of main roads cause to accrue are advantages which affect the entire state, as well as the localities themselves. It should therefore, be assumed as a principle that such main roads should be built, in whole or in part, by the state, their management and maintenance should be in the hands of the state authorities.

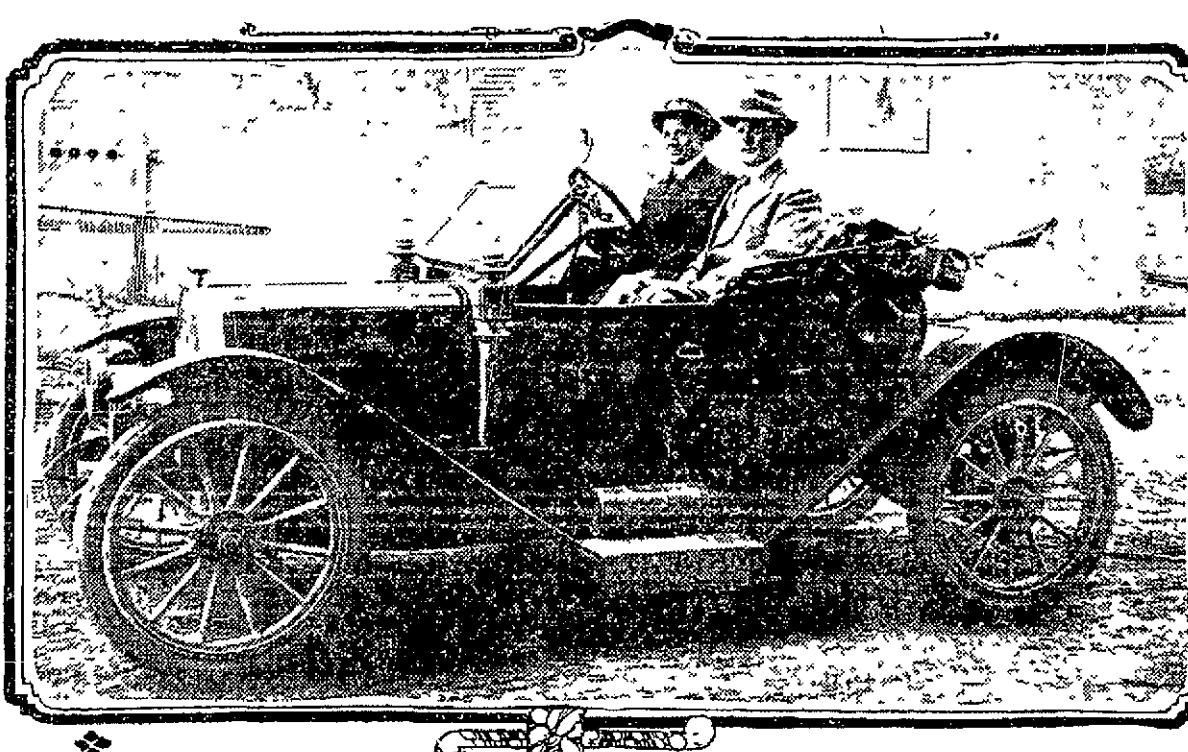

The users of such roads, in the larger sense are those who use automobiles. Thousands of these are members of the American Automobile Association, the national good roads board of which is interesting itself throughout the entire country in the roads question generally. Local clubs aid in their localities, and then extend their sphere of usefulness into the state association, which are finally united in a national form. These thousands are people of means, who pay their fair share of the state taxes. Besides such roads benefit the people of the cities as well as those of the country through which they pass, and it is but just that the people of the cities pay their share of the cost.

A highway is no longer of purely local interest. Every citizen of a state is interested in the roads of that state under present traffic conditions, and especially in those roads which connect centers of population.

NEW SWINEHART AGENTS MEETING WITH SUCCESS.

Freyer & Maaser, the newly-appointed agents for Swinehart tires and representatives of the Keaton Non-Skid tire, are meeting with success in the distribution of both. No harder task prevails than the introduction of a new brand of tires, and difficulties usually beset the path of the man or firm who attempts to place an unknown product in any market.

A reverse situation has confronted both Freyer and Maaser in their efforts and "As good as can be expected" is the report they give out in the short time they have been located here.

CADILLAC GETS BAPTISM OF FIRE

Hot Blaze Has No Effect on the Self Starter or Lighting System.

About two weeks ago the store of the Ogdensburg (N. Y.) Cadillac dealer was absolutely gutted by a fire that raged for hours.

Before the firemen arrived the building was a mass of seething flames. The heat was so intense that even metal bodies were melted and "ran to the floor like gravy."

Near one of the street windows stood a 1912 Cadillac phaeton. It was blazing away bravely when the firemen came, but through the broken windows they poured water on it intermittently for several hours.

After the fire, of course, the building was turned over to the fire adjusters, and they were several days in rummaging through the hopeless pile of what was once an automobile salesroom, splendid with spick-and-span motor cars, valued at about $150,000.

The morning they finished the work of adjusting the Cadillac dealer had the debris removed from the phaeton that was near the street.

The heavy glass in the lamps and windshield was cracked, the metal framework was stripped clean of fittings, top, upholstery, all these were things of the past. One wheel had lost five spokes, the other three, together with the tires, had miraculously been preserved.

And yet when the floor was cleared the Cadillac dealer stepped into his car, pressed the electric starter button—and off went the car. He turned on the electric light switch—and on went the lights.

The hood of the car, mind you, was open while the fire raged and the water, now boiling, now freezing, was poured in, and the car had stood there dripping with water during three or four cold days while the adjusters finished up their work. And then, a little press of a button—a whirr—and the car is driven smoothly around the streets of the town.

Another celebrity has been enrolled among those who have selected Flanders Colonial Electrics for their private equipment.

Mrs. Phoebe Hearst (mother of William Randolph Hearst), philanthropist and lady horticulturist to California state university, selected a Flanders Colonial Electric from among all the rest submitted to her.

"We are naturally quite proud of this last acquisition to our roster of prominent owners," says Sales Manager John Yoke. "The Flanders Electric, though selling as it does for about half the price many other electrics command, has about it something distinctive—a combination of beauty and grace with efficiency—that makes an irresistible appeal to the cultured and those of good taste."

Why Not You?

Don't tires that can't rim-cut—oversize tires—seem better than others to you?

If so, insist on Goodyear No-Rim-Cut tires. Make your comparisons. After a test you will never again go back to the old-type tires—they're rim-cut.

So these two features together, under average conditions, cut tire costs right in two.

200,000 Users

Over one million Goodyear tires have been tested out on some 200,000 cars. These 200,000 separate tests have proved that our claims are true.

As a result, these tires outsell every other tire in existence. In two years the demand has increased 500 per cent. It has trebled in the past two months.

Our factories are running night and day, with three shifts of men, to meet the call for these patent tires.

They are made so they can't rim-cut—made so they stay on without hooking into the rim flange.

They are made of costly materials, by the costliest process, to give you the utmost mileage.

As a result, our profit last year on this patent tire was only 8½ per cent.

Your Saving, 48 Per Cent

The 10 per cent oversize means 20 per cent more air—10 per cent added carrying capacity. And that, with the average car, adds 20 per cent to the tire mileage.

Tires that can't rim-cut mean an average saving of 23 per cent, or statistics show that 23 per cent of all ruined clincher tires—the old-type tires—are rim-cut.

So these two features together, under average conditions, cut tire costs right in two.

TO SELECT COURSE FOR GRAND PRIZE

Milwaukee Dealers Confronted With Serious Highway Problems.

Confronted with several serious problems of highway rehabilitation in preparation for the Vanderbilt Cup and Grand Prize road races, the race committee of the Milwaukee Automobile Dealers' Association has eliminated all but two. There remain the proposition to build stretches of concrete roadways for the racers and the more simple one of simply facing up the highways selected for the course marking the turns wider and safer.

In order to get data on the efficiency and cost of concrete roadways a delegation of motorists has been sent to Marion County, Indiana, to study the concrete roads from which technical experts will draw deductions on wear on tires, safety under speed conditions and the factor of engine efficiency.

"Milwaukee learns from the East that fifteen nominations are as good as made for the Vanderbilt race," said a Green Bay motorist. "That makes it look as if it were time for Milwaukee automobile interests to get together to accomplish something definite in regard to the course for the big race."

"We have several routes available, the co-operation of the city's commercial and professional leaders are promises of funds for road improvement as well as offers of trophies. Haste might mean waste, however, in the matter of roadway preparation, hence the desire to ascertain whether or not we can afford a permanent concrete race roadway."

FLANDERS MOTORCYCLES WIN IN ENDURANCE RUN

In the first endurance run which Flanders "4" motorcycles have ever entered they carried away two perfect scores and two gold medals to attest that fact.

The event was the 20-mile reliability contest from Brooklyn to Southampton and return, under the auspices of the Invincible Club.

Only two Flanders motorcycles were entered and they were ridden by Fred Voosler and Eugene Miller, both amateurs and owners.

ELECTRIC GARAGE TO MEET DEMAND

Dick Scraha in Charge of New Plant for Care of Electric Autos.

The growth in popularity of electric pleasure automobiles brings with it a demand for maintenance of garages and shops wherein the same service can be rendered that is now in vogue with gasoline motor cars.

To meet such a necessity the Electric Vehicle Maintenance Co. has been formed, having as its manager Dick Scraha, for whom no introduction is needed, specially to owners of electric cars. Quarters for garaging and repairing cars have been leased from the Broadway Garage and the rear of this new and spacious establishment will be used for the purpose.

Scraha has taken on the agency for the Gould storage batteries and has put in a complete assortment, and also a full line of electric battery repair parts. To bring this business down to an even more satisfactory basis he has instituted a plan for the caring and repairing of cars right at the private garages for such owners as might be inconvenienced or so situated as to be unable to have the car sent direct to the shop for the work required.

In the garage which Scraha has opened he has installed every facility for taking care of any nature of work in his line. Expenses of labor have been put in place and arrangements provided for which will tend to make his establishment unique in its way.

MILLIONS WASTED ON POOR ROADS IN U. S.

"Two hundred and fifty million dollars are wasted annually on poor roads in the United States, which is noted for its business acumen and thrift and which has long been called a business nation. If you add to that enormous sum the additional money that it costs through the losses in business caused by these bad roads the sum leaps to $1,000,000,000 a year. In other words, every man, woman and child in the United States bears a burden of $12.50 a year, caused by poor roads," said Charles G. Percival, editor of Health Magazine, who has covered 45,000 miles of continuous touring into every part of the United States, Canada, Mexico and Alaska, with the famous Abbott-Detroit "Bulldog." "This proves," says Dr. Percival, "that 'Good Roads' is a national question that bulked much bigger than the tariff, navy, foreign possessions, commerce, and all the other pressing questions of the day. It also proves that the federal government and its legislators could assist in the good roads question that the largest sum of money would be saved the country each year and its resources developed and new regions opened to settlers."

SPLITDORF ADVISES ON CARE OF IGNITION

The following timely ignition hints are given by Charles F. Splitdorf may save the motorist many an hour. Regarding the length of the spark gap which a spark plug should have, Dr. Splitdorf advises the adjusting of the spark gap, as the manufacturer of the magnet in use directs; as too long a gap for magneto use, he says, tends to cut down the electric current, and also reduces the heat of the spark.

"If the ignition system of an old or second-hand car proves to be erratic and uses up batteries at an alarming and expensive rate," says C. F. Splitdorf, "it is a good plan to look carefully after the wiring, and particularly those wires leading to the plugs. Generally they will be found to have become oil-soaked, or so hard that they are permeated with fine cracks, which permits serious leakage of the electrical current; therefore, renew the wiring."

AUTOIST BARELY BEATS TRAIN OVER CROSSING

ALAMEDA, May 18.—R. W. Westover of this city had a narrow escape from being struck by a Southern Pacific train at Park street and Lincoln avenue yesterday afternoon. Westover was driving down Park street in his automobile, when the westbound train was leaving the depot.

The autoist claims he was given a go-ahead signal by the flagman at the crossing, and being unable to see the train at the start, drove straight across the track. As he came into view of the train he was enabled to swing to the left beside the cars and the accident was averted.

Westover complains that the signals arranged by the company are not intelligible to him and driving. He says there is no necessity for two flags of different colors, and that the flagmen seldom pay attention to which one they are waving.

GOVERNMENT HATCHERY TURNING OUT SALMON

PORT TOWNSEND, May 18.—Since the completion of the government salmon hatchery at Quillcena last fall more than 3,000,000 salmon have been hatched and liberated. At present there are several million eggs in process of hatching, and in a short time the young fish will be turned loose in the Quillcena River.

Echoes From Indianapolis Automobile Show

The city of Indianapolis is well pleased with itself over the success of the first automobile show. The idea of holding a complete show under one immense tent was certainly original and has proved mighty effective not only as an advertisement for the city, but the manufacturers who contributed toward its success, by the completeness and beauty of their exhibits, express themselves as more than pleased with the direct results they obtain, and with the prospective business which the show creates.

The Haynes exhibit received considerable favorable attention. The attractions in the booth of this progressive pioneer automobile manufacturing company was a framed photograph of the first Haynes car built nineteen years ago by Elwood Haynes.

The wonderful development in automobile design was very markedly shown by a comparison of this first model with a typical chassis of the 1912 Haynes model.

To the thoughtful man it indicated the general trend of the twentieth century. To some it was only a curiosity. But very few thought of the struggles and disappointments the sleepless nights and work days of the persistent pioneer who has created one of the greatest industries of this country.

Some idea of the tremendous change in automobile design can be obtained by a comparison of specifications of the first Haynes car and a 1912 Haynes model No. 21.

1903. Motor. 1912. 1.....Cylinder ..... 4

1.....Horse power ..... 40

4-inch.....Stroke ..... 4½

4-inches.....Bore ..... 2½

Contracting steel band on drum brake.

2 forward speeds—Transmission—Sweepe type; three speeds forward and one reverse.

Spoke and Disc axle. Timken full floating type.

Solid rear-rear axle—Drop forged 1-beam single piece.

Bicycle type—Wheels—Artillery type, 36x 4-inch front and rear.

Semi-elliptic side springs—Springs—Front semi-elliptic 40 inches long, rear 2½ inches long, inner 18 inches long.

No brakes—Brakes internal and external on rear wheel, drum 14 inches by 2½ inches.

Regular buggy body—Forebody body of three-ply laminated popular, 18 coats of paint, hand-buffed leather upholstered.

A few more features in addition to the above comparison will show still more strikingly the difference between the first Haynes and the newest 1912 model. A regular buggy body was mounted on a steel frame, 7 feet 6 inches wide. The frame was made of timber. The wheels were thirty-two inches high, had wire spokes and were fitted with bicycle tires 3½ inches in diameter. Drive was with side chain, but the strangest of all in the pioneer model was that it had no reverse and no brakes.

BROADWAY FAST BEING EXTENDED

Work on Oakland End of the Oakland & Antioch Road Also Progresses.

"Out on the northern end of Broadway, where the beautiful, gently sloping hills of Rock Ridge come down and meet Oakland's main thoroughfare, there is a scene of activity which means more to this city than most people realize," said Subdivision Manager Fred E. Reed of the Laymance Real Estate Company yesterday.

"That work is typical and prophetic of the greater Oakland which one day we shall have here. Gangs of men are at work upon the extension of Broadway, cutting the hillside being made, so that the main artery of the city shall pierce straight through to the hills of Claremont and still farther on. At last the gap—or rather the barrier—that has existed there through all these years is being wiped out."

"But that is not all, nor even the most interesting part of the activity that prevails out there. Straight toward the hills, but always on an easy grade, the Old and Antioch and Eastern Railroad is being driven. The building of trestles, the laying of the track, the cutting and the filling, everything that is necessary to build the road that bridges the gap between Oakland and a country that is naturally tributary to Oakland is being done with a precision and rapidity that are marvelous. This is the road that is to bring Sacramento an hour closer to Oakland, and bring to our very door one of the richest stretches of country in all northern California. It is simply another step—and a long one—toward the realization of the dreams of the greater Oakland."

"To the property owners in Rock Ridge this enterprise is of peculiar interest, for the simple reason that one of the principal stations of this new road will at the very edge of Rock Ridge, which means that those who are fortunate enough to live in that foothill park will have direct communication with San Francisco. Swift electric trains will pass them on the Kono Route line, and thence to San Francisco. They will be 35 minutes from the foot of Market street. We have direct assurance from those in a position to know that those trains will be in operation within four months."

"What this means in the development of Oakland, and especially in the development of that foothill wonderland of which Rock Ridge is the very heart is apparent, for the San Francisco business man, tired of the atmosphere and environment of his day, will turn eagerly to these gently sloping hills, with all their advantages, and there he will make his home.

"Nowhere else, no matter where his search may lead him, will he find so much beauty, combined with accessibility—35 minutes from the foot of Market street—and all this will come within the greater Oakland. It is not hard to see what this means for the values of property in Rock Ridge. The day will come when there will be 35 minutes from the foot of Market street to the Golden Gate, and there he will make his home.

"From this time on he has assurances that regular shipments are to be made to him, which condition prevailing will enable him to fill orders of two and more months standing."

HOWARD IS NEW SALES MANAGER

Cadillac Co. Appoints Him to Fill Very Important Position.

W. L. Webber, local manager of the Don Lee branch, is in receipt of information from the Cadillac factory that E. C. Howard is the newly-appointed sales manager of the company, taking the position made vacant by the resignation of E. L. Benson. Howard has been connected with the Cadillac company for a number of years and for the last three years has occupied the position of assistant sales manager. He is a brother-in-law of Webber.

In the motor car world he is recognized as an energetic business man and is fully capable of continuing to find an ever-increasing market for Cadillac automobiles.

ACTOR WM. HODGE IS A HAYNES ENTHUSIAST

William Hodge, who has just finished a two weeks' engagement at the Cort in "The Man From Home," is in position to speak authentically of the Haynes car of today and for several years past, having owned and driven a car of his own and having lived in Kokomo, where they are made. Mr. Hodge says, "Once a Haynes owner, always a Haynes." His reasons for making this statement are unknown, but it is known that he is the owner of two Studebaker and M-F type cars, which he uses in the discharge of his official duties and those of his cabinet, and on nine days of vacation he may be seen boulding over China's highways in the pursuit of pleasure and rest.

No less an enthusiast is charming and dexterous Miss Tie, for she may be seen frequently seated in a Studebaker Flanders "20," either in the front seat watching intently the operation of the car, or in the comfortable tonneau. Miss Tie believes in the automobile and regards it in its various functions as a mark of progress—her own watchword.

Tie Leung is 21 years of age, and is native of San Francisco. Not only can she read and write the English language better than great many of her adult brethren, but speaks it fluently, and is also together familiar with the political situation in the discharge of the presidential election.

In no line of the various models of the car Christensen is the president of the automobile department. Tie Leung can step behind the wheel of an American car, and is equally at home in it as in any other. She is the only car owner in America who has been honored with the title of "American woman of the year." Tie Leung's vote of importance to her, but it was the last word in the modern movement for the complete enfranchisement of women. It marked an epoch in the history of the world's progress—an achievement in the great American work of amalgamating and lifting up all the races of the earth.

FIRST Detroiter Cars ARE DUE THIS WEEK

Cari Christensen is expecting another carload shipment of Detroit cars before the end of the present week. From the allotment now en route he will receive two cars for demonstrating and show purposes. Factory strike has delayed more frequent and prompt deliveries of the various models of the car Christensen has been engaged to represent in Northern California; in fact, as yet he has been unable to even present his first car to the public.

From this time on he has assurances that regular shipments are to be made to him, which condition prevailing will enable him to fill orders of two and more months standing.

ing sold for $25 to $30 a foot, and what will happen to those values when those electric trains begin to run between Sacramento and San Francisco, four months from today, bringing Market street to a polo field, within 35 minutes of this property?"

ORIENTALS OF NOTE E-M-F OWNERS

Dr. Sun Yat Sen, New Chinese President, and Miss Lueng Like Studebaker's.

In the matter of political and social progress and enlightenment nothing stands more prominently in recent history than the revolution in China which gave the land of the dragon a republican form of government with a president, Dr. Sun Yat Sen, and a cabinet like that of the United States. Next to this great event in the world's history from the standpoint of interest to the people of the Pacific coast, particularly California, was the complete enfranchisement of the men of the Golden state. The climax of this was reached in this city Tuesday May 14, the date of the presidential primaries, when Miss Tie Leung, a pretty little Chinese maiden of American birth, cast her ballot. In that act Miss Tie attained for herself the honor of being the first Chinese woman in the history of the world to exercise the electoral franchise.

It is impossible to estimate the far-reaching good effects of these two incidents, but in the varied industries there is none which will share its benefits more than the automobile. It is a well-known fact that Dr. Sun is not only an ardent motorist, but is the owner of two Studebaker and M-F type cars, which he uses in the discharge of his official duties and those of his cabinet, and on nine days of vacation he may be seen boulding over China's highways in the pursuit of pleasure and rest.

No less an enthusiast is charming and dexterous Miss Tie, for she may be seen frequently seated in a Studebaker Flanders "20," either in the front seat watching intently the operation of the car, or in the comfortable tonneau. AUTHOR OF GLASS
FRUIT JAR DIES

Aged John Samuel Sold His Rights to Great Invention for $5000.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 18.—The funeral Thursday afternoon of John Samuel, who died Sunday at Woodlawn, Ill., at the age of 95, will be directed by Glass Bottle Blowers' Union No. 5. Samuel was founder and first president of this union in America. The services will take place at the Wacker undertaking rooms, 2331 South Broadway.

In his years of work in St. Louis Samuel made many friends who liked to visit him at Woodlawn in the home of an old companion, which became his refuge when he retired ten years ago. He was fond of telling them how he was the inventor of the Mason fruit jar, an article to be found in almost every home in the land.

He had been working at the trade as bottle blower, he was wont to say, when he got to wondering why a jar that could be sealed hermetically had never been invented. In a few days he got the idea of the Mason jar and worked it out.

He had declared that while he knew he had invented a good thing, he underestimated its real importance and sold his rights to manufacturers for $5000. He never expressed regret over his failure to retain royalty rights which would have made him a rich man.

Samuel was born February 3, 1817, in Swansea, Wales. He came to America when a child. For years he worked as a glass blower in Philadelphia and, when there, in 1842, he founded the first union of which he was master president. He served in the Federal army in the Civil war. Thirty years ago he came to St. Louis. He worked at his trade here for twenty years.

His only surviving relatives, so far as his friends know, are a son and daughter in Philadelphia. The son, it is said, is principal of a high school there.

STRAWBERRY CROP IS DESTROYED BY FROST

MAY'S LANDING, N. J., May 18.—Frost has destroyed most of the South Jersey crop of strawberry crop, especially the earlier varieties, and the fields in some places look as though a fire had been through them. A large amount of peach trees have been frost-bitten, but the bulk of the crop, say the growers, has been untouched as yet.

Predictions of frost have caused great apprehension among the farmers, who have been greatly hindered by cold nights and excessive rains.

TO PLANT STREAMS

Aged Negro's Skin Is a Sure Political Barometer in St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 18.—Residents of Belleville who believe in signs are watching George Washington Anderson with interest.

George Washington Anderson is a negro, 76 years old. Several days ago his skin began to turn white, and now the palms of his hands are entirely white, and the backs of them are turning so as to spots the size of a dime.

The mere fact that George Washington was turning white was not viewed with especial interest until he accidentally dropped the remark that he underwent the same change in 1884, just before Cleveland was elected President for the first time. His skin, regained its natural color, he says, when Cleveland was succeeded by McKinley, a Republican, and he's inclined to think the Democrats may have something up their sleeves for 1912.

Persons possessed of sporting blood are commencing to look around for a good chance to place a wager that Champ Clark or Governor Wilson or Oscar Underwood or somebody else will land in the White House by next March. "I'll needn't be surprised if them Demmingsrats git away wid it dis time," George Washington Anderson opines. "Dis vere ol' hide o' mine got a repulsion fo' pein' a mighty good mommer. Jes' look out—that's all."

Anderson, who was a slave, was born in Flippin, Miss., and went to Belleville in 1862.

Evans of Salisbury, Mass., and William F. Houston in trust to hold for public purposes.

The homestead is to be used either as a hospital or a home for children in need of charity, while the personal property is to constitute a fund for its maintenance.

The will may entail shipments to Melbourne, Australia, as Mrs. Ernest Warren of that city is given two trunks with their contents, and a box of clothing and Mrs. Richard White, also of Melbourne, two parrs.

The will will be proved in common form and its contest is anticipated.

NEW PRESS BOON TO THE SIGHTLESS

NEW YORK, May 18.—Books with raised letters used by the blind are generally very expensive. They have, up to the present time, been of two distinct types—those which were stereotyped, the manufacturing process being so expensive that frequent printing of new books is made almost impossible, and those written by hand by some blind person, whose good will does not prevent him from making frequent inaccuracies, and who can make but one copy at a time, and that only slowly. M. Ernest Vaughn, the director of the Quinz-Vingt hospital of Paris, has devised a press for printing books for the blind by means of which a text of irreproachable exactness can be obtained, and at a cost much less than that of either the stereotyped or the hand written books. To place this system on the market he has founded a society of which the celebrated writer, Anatole France, member of the Academie Francaise, is president. The work of this society is described in a recent number of "The Journal of the American Medical Association."

This society proposes to provide the blind workers with books on technical subjects—necessary information in the exercise of their professions—catalogues, references and all the practical information which will enable them to fill positions commanding salaries as large as those drawn by workers who have the use of their eyesight; to establish free district libraries where the blind people can find the means of educating or amusing themselves, in the same way that those who can see may do; to publish and sell books and music for the use of the blind, and at the most moderate prices, to give advice to any of them, and particularly to the workers, who will find them willing to give any help which they may need—except money aid, to propagate M. Vaughn's method, or any other similar method, for printing books for the blind.

The first effort of the society will extend itself on the printing of technical books, which will be sold at a minimum price, or even furnished gratis, to the extremely poor persons, as the resource of the society will permit.

HUBBY'S DOWNFALL

MILWAUKEE, May 18.—You've heard of the Wrigley Kid with the Spearmint Eyes, haven't you? And you've heard of the girl with the eyes that wouldn't behave, haven't you? Well, you may, but it's a sure thing you didn't hear about the eyes Caroline Jefferson, colored, referred to in District court. Thursday morning, when she appeared against her husband, whom she charged with "a certain kind of assault and battery."

Caroline and the partner of her wed evidently found conubial bliss a misnomer, for the sounds of war were often heard down in their little house near Fourth and State streets, said the patrolman.

The pair were haled into Judge Neelen's court this morning, and the dusky lady entered a charge of abusive language against her spouse. Judge Neelen, who had known them

KITTENS' DEVOTION SAVES LIFE OF CHILD

RISING SUN, Md., May 18.—The devotion of two kittens to 2-year-old John Rollins resulted in the saving of the child from drowning a few days ago.

The kittens had the habit of following doglike, the baby, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn Rollins, who lives near here, wherever he went. Mrs. Rollins missing the child from about the house went in search of him. Looking about she saw the kitten climbing to and fro on the bank of a pond. Rushing to the scene, as she hurried to the pond she saw a ripple on the surface. Plunging into the water, which was almost up to her neck, she found the boy near the bottom. The child was resuscitated, and although he has since been ill, he is expected to live.

"What did he say to you, Caroline?" the court asked.

"Why, Judge, I jes' can't tell yo' all dat man do say to me."

"Does he ever use hard language?"

"Does yo' mean cussin'? Yessuh, no wif his mouth, but he always givin' me dem cussory glances."

SANITARY KISSES
AFTER THIS SHOW

MADISON, Wis., May 18.—The university exposition will be opened today with an address by Governor McGovern, Wisconsin is the first university in the country to hold such an exposition at which will be displayed the work that the various departments are doing together with the inventions and discoveries that university professors have made in the advancement of science.

One of the features of the opening will be a presentation of an Elizabethan tableau by the members of the English department. Model farms, showing the buildings, have been made by the agricultural college and will be one of the features.

Among other things will be shown the dangers that are in a "kiss." The bacteriology department of the university has a number of slides showing the bacteria that are transposed in the "smash" and it is more probable that is display will have the effect of its elimination except in a sanitary manner.

ST. LOUIS, May 18.—It was not until William H. Kniep, superintendent of the Graham Paper Company's plant, read in the morning paper on his way down to work that an unidentified woman, answering his mother's description, had been killed by falling from a street car, that he had any suspicion his mother was not asleep in her flat, below his, at 3815 Blufford street. He rushed into his office, telephoned his wife, and found that his mother was not at home, than ran to the city hospital and found the body of his mother.

Kniep, his wife and Mrs. Mathilda Kniep, 59 years old, had been out visiting. They were coming home on a west-bound Tower Grove car, when Kniep and his wife got off, two blocks from their home, to attend the meeting of an improvement association, leaving Mrs. Kniep to go on to her flat alone.

They came home two hours later and found Kniep's flat dark decided not to awake her, and proceeded upstairs to their home. Kniep did not see his mother in the morning, but supposed she was asleep.

He read that a woman, answering his mother's description, out to a journal ring she wore, was fatally injured at 9 o'clock the night before when she stepped from a moving west-bound Tower Grove car, and died an hour later at the city hospital. He called up his wife immediately on reaching his office and asked her to go downstairs and see if his mother was at home.

Five minutes after his wife called him up, told him Mrs. Kniep was not at home, and evidently had not slept the night there. He went to the city hospital and found her dead.

HOMESICK BOY STEALS HIS FARE

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., May 18.—Homesickness was the cause of a young man's downfall Wednesday, when Walter Winston, 16 years old, broke into his uncle's house at Thayer and left with $24, which did not belong to him.

Within an hour after the burglary had been committed young Winston boarded a train in the direction of his Illinois home. The fugitive's homeward journey was interrupted, however, in Springfield, by Patrolmen Thomas Hooper and A. F. Jetberg, who arrested him on authority of the Thayer officials.

The prisoner, told last night his story to Night Sergeant O'Connell. He had been away from home almost one year, working on farms near Thayer. He wanted to go home so badly that he could think of nothing else. In his uncle's house he knew there was enough money to pay his fare so he crawled through a window and secured the cash, while his uncle and family were absent.

Marshal E. J. Clark of Thayer will come today to Springfield after the youthful prisoner. It is said that the uncle will prosecute his nephew.

BABY IS FOUND IN ORANGE BOX

NEW YORK, May 18.—Some one packed a three-weeks-old boy in a wooden box, the kind used for creating oranges, and left him in the tenement house, 762 Third avenue, yesterday morning. The baby got hungry in the course of a few hours and started to cry at the top of his lungs. Catharine Cullen, 10 years old, who lived in the house, came downstairs and heard him crying. She took him out of the orange box cradle and carried him to the First Precinct street police station with Policeman Schlett going along as escort.

In the police station the baby sucked its thumb industriously until he made the bluecoats understand that he wanted something to eat. Soon a nurse came over from the Babies' Hospital across the street and fed him. After luncheon the baby was taken to Bellevue. He was neatly dressed in blue clothes and had nothing about him by which he could be identified.

HORSE EATS HIS DINNER FROM REGULAR TABLE

PORTLAND, Ind., May 18.—To the surprise of more than 50 guests and apparently peevish because its owner had not come to feed it, the driving horse of Edward M. Haynes walked out of the barn and visiting the dining room of a nearby restaurant, where the noon meal had just been placed on the table, proceeded to devour everything in sight.

What attracted the palate of the animal most was a large dish of lettuce in the center of the table, and the horse was busily engaged in eating this when with difficulty he was induced to leave. The guests who departed in fear returned to their places and the horse was led back to his stall, where his owner satisfied its hunger.

TRIPLETS OVER SEVENTY CELEBRATE BIRTHDAYS

BUFFALO, May 18.—The 70th anniversary of three prominent members of the Society of Friends, who were born on the same day, April 20, 1842, and are still living, was celebrated yesterday at the Oakwood Pier and San Francisco Pier, 10 a.m. and every 20 minutes thereafter. The triplets are John Norrk, 48 years old, a laborer, says Kansas City is no place for a man who wants to pray. Norrk was arrested yesterday for the third time in three weeks for his persistence in praying publicly for information leading to the whereabouts of his family.

Mrs. Michael F. West Lewis and Miss Kate B. West, Elias H. West is their brother. They celebrated the day with a family dinner party.

Mr. West and his sisters were born in the home that was built more than 200 years ago, originally owned by the great-grandfather, William West, and subsequently by their grandfather, Samuel West, and later by their parents, William and Martha D. West. The house still stands.

Benjamin West, the celebrated painter, was a brother of William West, grandfather of the trio.

BLACK SHIRT IN THEATER EXCITES LONDON AUDIENCE

NEW YORK, May 18.—A London cable says in part:

The audience at the Lyric theater kept their eyes roving about with the object of discovering if a new style in men's evening dress introduced by an unknown individual at the Criterion theater had been adopted by other dandies.

The individual in question sat in the stalls, wearing a jet-black shirt properly starched and fashionably fitted. By way of relief he had a white collar, a white stock tie, and a white waistcoat. It is suggested that a better effect might have been obtained had he worn white duck

B'NAI B'RITHS OF OAKLAND AIDING

Assisting to Make Grand Ball Across Bay Success of Season.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—Members of Oakland Lodge No. 252, Independent Order B'nai Brith, are giving their staunch support to the grand ball which will be given Wednesday evening, May 29, at Scottish Rite Auditorium in San Francisco, under the auspices of the ten San Francisco B'nai Brith lodges. Maurice Snyder, past president of Oakland Lodge, together with other officers and leading members of that body, are co-operating with the committee in charge of the hall and assisting in making the function a grand success.

Harry K. Wolff, chairman of the committee of fifty, representing the San Francisco lodges, has appointed a floor manager and corps of assistants to serve at the ball. Richard H. Gutstadt will officiate as floor manager, assisted by Milton Meyer and Harry K. Wolff, and a reception committee composed of Emil Cohn, Samuel Welskopf, Joseph Jacobs, Arnold Solomon and J. Dastile.

FOR GRAND LODGE.
The purpose of the ball is to raise funds with which to hold a great celebration next February when the annual convention of district grand Lodge No. 4 is held in this city. This session will mark the fiftieth anniversary of the grand lodge and San Francisco lodges are determined that the golden jubilee shall be fittingly commemmorated.

The sale of tickets for the benefit ball is said to exceed the highest hopes of the committee and it is predicted that the affair will be attended by a large assemblage. Single tickets are being sold at 50 cents. Tickets admitting a couple are on sale for $1 each.

MANY CHANGES IN NEW ARMY ORDERS

Leaves of Absence and Permission to Retire From Service Granted.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—First Lieutenant Rescoe G. Bailey, medical corps, is honorably discharged from the service of the United States.

Chaplain Albert J. Bauer, Ninth Infantry, was granted leave to his home to await retirement from active service.

Leave of absence from May 17 to and including September 16 is granted Captain Albert J. Bauer, ninth Infantry.

Lieutenant-Colonel Edwin E. Brower, First Cavalry, now in San Francisco, will proceed to join his regiment.

Leave of absence for three months, to take effect after completion of service, is granted Captain Walter N. Whalen, cavalry department.

The leave of absence granted Captain Harold M. Ross, Philippine scouts, is further extended one month.

Captain Andrew C. Christie, medical corps, is relieved from duty at Columbus barracks, and will repair to this city for duty.

Captain Omar N. Pinkston, medical corps, is relieved from duty at Fort Meade, S. D., and will proceed to Columbus barracks for duty.

Leave of absence for 10 days is granted First Lieutenant Reuben C. Taylor, tenth infantry, acting officer.

Leave of absence for 10 days is granted Second Lieutenant James A. O'Brien, thirteenth infantry.

Leave of absence for three months and sixteen days is granted on or about May 25, is granted Lieutenant Colonel David G. Shanks, ninth infantry.

Leave of absence for two months, to take effect on about July 1, is granted Colonel Orin B. Mitcham, ordnance department.

BOYS' CITY TO HAVE 2000 POPULATION

CHICAGO, May 18.—About 2000 boys of Chicago and neighboring cities of Illinois, Indiana and Michigan will rule as grown men in a miniature city at Segars Lake, Ind., near Valparaiso, during the first 15 days in July. It will be known as the National Boys' City.

This summer camp has been held at the last five years at Charlevoix, Mich. Its purpose is to give an outing and education in civic deportment. Heretofore poor boys were unable to attend.

There will be a boy mayor, boy aldermen, boy policemen and boy officers in all other positions known to a full-grown city. A small poll tax and a fee for visitors will constitute the revenue for the support of the city.

STABLEMAN SEEKING HIS WIFE AND COIN

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—John Randecker, a stableman of 727 Grove street, who alleges that his wife, whom he has been married but a short time, ran away with a man named Benjamin Robinson, secured a warrant for the arrest of the woman and her companion today. The complaints were issued in the Justice Court against Myrtle Smith, the name of Mrs. Randecker before her marriage, and Robinson. It is claimed that the girl took with her $100 with which Randecker had intended purchasing land in the country.

RECALL VOWS WHICH BROUGHT 15 HAPPY YEARS

MR. AND MRS. H. A. BOWERS

Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Bowers celebrated their fifteenth wedding anniversary last evening at their home in East Oakland. About thirty relatives and intimate friends were entertained at an informal reception followed by an elaborate supper. The home was artistically decorated in greens and flowers. The host and hostess were showered with gifts and congratulations during the evening.

Assisting at the receiving party were Mrs. S. E. Campbell, her mother of Sacramento; Mrs. G. W. Dunster and a few others.

Mrs. Bowers formerly resided in Stockton, where she has a wide circle of friends, but since she has made her home in Oakland has become popular among the younger matrons.

She is a frequent hostess and entertains charmingly.

ELKS TO MAKE BRAVE SHOWING

Alameda County Delegation Is Planning for Portland Convention.

Alameda County Elks will meet largely at the big convention that is to be held at Portland next July. This will be the second time in the history of the order that Portland, a most cosmopolitan city, will harbor the annual meeting of the world's Elks.

Portland has raised a fund of $10,000 to keep up properly the reputation of the fair west for hospitality.

San Francisco and Los Angeles Elks are the largest delegations from the northern city, and San Francisco, Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley lodges have joined forces and will establish Alameda county headquarters at Portland.

A 40 piece band will accompany the party, Oakland's famous drill team will be taken, and open house will be maintained at the Hotel Portland during the entire week of the convention.

Those who wish to help the individual expenses of the convention, notwithstanding having been partially raised by the individual lodges, but the committee finds it necessary to secure more funds. To this end, if you're no night's better performance in helping to raise money, please contribute consisting of Max Horwinski, W. E. Van, and W. L. Woodward.

A splendid show comprising many novel stunts is being prepared and the exact nature of the numbers will be announced later. Tickets are now being sold for the new show and an entry dollar of the net proceeds will be used for the purpose of exploiting Alameda county and its products. There will be no difficulty whatever in disposing of enough of them to insure two packed houses.

WASHINGTON PRUNES REPORTEDLY DROPPING

PORLTAND, May 18.—Prune men who have been investigating the crop situation in Clark county, Wash., find the prunes are dropping to such a large extent that there may be less than half a crop this year. The drop is the result of the very cold rains that fall in the blossoming period. Some of the orchards will have no crop at all and others a very light one. Competent fruitmen have gone over the entire county, and they estimate that the crop will not be half that of 1911. In the Willamette valley apparently no serious damage was done to the crop, except in a few sections, and a normal yield of prunes is predicted.

A larger outfit

Should you buy the three-room outfit for $65.00, and add a few things to it—say enough to make it figure $100. You can pay for it.

$10 cash—$10 month

You'll like trading at Jackson's
The one-price store—Cash or Credit

A cozy 3-room outfit

Kitchen, dining-room and bedroom displayed on our second floor. The furniture is solid oak, and the outfit includes a pretty decorated dinner set and a 20-yard roll of good matting. .... $65.00 cash—$6.50 month

When charged 10% extra for furniture bought on time you are paying the dealer interest on your own money

Here's the Proof

A dealer that gives 10 per cent. off for cash certainly adds it to the credit customer. Now, is that fair? As an illustration: Mr. A. purchases $100 worth of furniture for cash (which usually means 90 days), and he gets it for $90.00. The dealer doesn't receive a cent for 90 days. Now, Mr. B. purchases at the same store $100 worth of furniture and pays $10.00 down and $10.00 per month, or $2.50 per week, which means that he has paid at the end of 90 days $40.00 in cash. Yet he is charged $10.00 more for his goods than Mr. A. Again, is that fair?

Jackson's dignified system There is no sound reason why the credit customer who pays for his furniture within a reasonable time should be charged extra—and he is not at Jackson's. With our method the first payments and the monthly installments will about equal the amount of furniture sold every month, which places us on a nearer cash basis than stores that extend a 30-day charge account. See the point—the injustice of the extra charge for reasonable credit. Our credit prices are as low as you can get for cash anywhere.

That's why we say dignified credit

An exhibition of rare Oriental rugs direct from the Orient By Garabed L. Najarian of Harpot, Turkey

We extend a most cordial invitation to you who love beauty and appreciate art to inspect absolutely hand-woven and vegetable-dyed masterpieces of Persian and Turkish looms, which are on exhibition and for sale in our store by Garabed L. Najarian, an Armenian student lecturer of Euphrates College, Harpot, Turkey, and Occidental College, Los Angeles.

This presents an exceptional opportunity to procure highest grade rugs of artistic and popular weaves, such as Royal Kashans, Saruks and Bokharas, Princess Bokharas, Kermanshahs, Ferghana, Sarbands, etc., the material, coloring and workmanship of which are unsurpassable, and in dimensions they range from the smallest mat to the largest room size.

Having a limited time, not being under big expenses, and purchasing direct from the weavers in the Orient, Mr. Najarian is enabled to offer you values in rugs of rare quality, which can not possibly be excelled.

Outside of the values to be obtained at this sale, the exhibition cannot fail to interest and instruct the lovers of choice Oriental rugs. Utilize this opportunity at least by seeing these Art Panels of the far Orient before the month is over.

Visitors are most cordially welcome. You will find Mr. Najarian an authority on Oriental rugs and very entertaining, as he speaks the English language fluently. Call any day this week.

One day I was casting in Lake Phil-affey for a muskellonge. It was a rare day, a morning bright with promise as I stood in my little canoe and made my cast.

I overestimated the force of my throw, however, and a second later my reel ceased buzzing and away flew my line. Straight as an arrow it sailed over the lake. There was but one thing to do. Aiming at the flying line, I cast the tip after it. It made a beautiful arch and trailed the line as though sliding in a groove.

I saw the line pass through the guides of the tip. Then it was that I stood and cast the second joint of the rod. It, too, swooped across the sparkling waters straight after the descending spoon and tip. It traveled straight for its objective point.

It curved gracefully, looped its guides about the line, and joined the tip. With remarkable coolness I smiled and cast the butt of the rod.
It wavered not the slightest but sped on to its destination. But my success was not yet assured.

As I saw the butt going straight for the mark, I grabbed up my paddle and steered as rapidly as possible to the spot where the rod was assembling. I reached it just as it came together, the spoon struck the water, and a muskie snatched it.

Well, I played the great fish until he was tired out, then I landed him; and a beauty he was, too. How it was done, I never will tell you, but I could do it again were I younger.

ELECTRIC TRAINS NEAR HAVENSCOURT

Southern Pacific Line to Reach New Tract Within a Short Time.

The policy of making beautiful in every particular a great property designed for moderate priced houses seems to have been justified by the preliminary sale in Havencourt by Wickham Havens Incorporated. The firm reports sales of 175 lots up to Thursday night, a total of something well over $100,000.

The last obstacle is out of the way of the Southern Pacific electric road through this property. One lot in Seminary avenue, over which there was some difficulty in securing the right of way, has been purchased by the Southern Pacific and track laying has been continued with new vigor. Grading operations now extend the boundary line of Havencourt, and electric trains are running within a few blocks.

The task of construction is proceeding apace. Three or four miles of streets are now graded, the beautiful entrance pergola is all set, and attracts the attention of all who travel the East Fourteenth-street boundary of Havencourt.

Many other ornamental features are only awaiting the completion of the street work to be installed. Most of the sites selected so far have been on the East Fourteenth street, but there is a good deal of activity about the Civic Center which surrounds the Southern Pacific station on the north end of the property. Lots facing on the paved court and small park have nearly all been purchased by investors, who see in this particular property a chance for a good round profit.

It is understood that Wickham Havens Incorporated will delay their formal opening until the Southern Pacific trains are running to the station on the track next month.

SHASTA BERRIES THREATENED. REDDING, May 18.—It is authoritatively stated that the entire strawberry crop of Shasta county is in peril of being killed or eaten by thrushes.

ON TO RICHMOND IS NOW THE CRY

From Berkeley North the Opportunity to Acquire Land Is Fast Vanishing.

RICHMOND, May 18.—The last piece of undeveloped property lying between Richmond and Berkeley is now being developed. By fair time there will be no district boundary between these two cities.

What happened between Oakland and Berkeley from 1905 to 1908 is now taking place between Berkeley and Richmond. Population is coming northward and making one great community from Alameda to Richmond. The boundary lines of the various cities will be distinguished only by looking on an official map.

In 1905 there was a great expanse of undeveloped land lying between Oakland and Berkeley—there was no Piedmont, no Claremont, nor Linda Vista. Temescal was a postoffice and small town half way between the two cities.

In 1910 it was time for a man to tell where Oakland left off and Berkeley began. Probably one person out of ten can tell you exactly the location of the old town of Temescal today. This same opportunity is presented again in similar manner but in a different location. How many recognize it? Oakland and Berkeley have become joined. A little north of this merging of cities one will see "1910 to 1908" being repeated in what will be known as "1912 to 1915," or the merging of Berkeley and Richmond. One who has not visited North Berkeley or Richmond in the past two or three years is missing the greatest development and growth around the track next month.

The population of Richmond in 1900 was some 19 or 20 people, today there are over 14,000 people here. The population of Berkeley in 1900 was 12,200, today nearly 50,000 people live in the university city. In between these two rapidly growing cities was a vast holding of land owned by one family, they did not care to subdivide it themselves and no real estate dealers cared to tackle it until this spring. This piece of undeveloped land was holding the two cities apart, now they are going to experience the joining of Berkeley and Richmond.

E. J. Henderson, the large operator of Oakland, has purchased this tract has called it Richmond Annex and is now developing and improving it for placing on sale. First-class improvements are being installed including complete sewer system paved streets, cement sidewalks and curbs.

The opening of Richmond Annex was planned for May 16, but the people heard that the property was to be sub-divided, inquiries and applications for lots began pouring into their offices so fast the owners had to temporarily give up the idea of an official opening.

That the people of the bay district, and all over California, recognize that here is an opportunity for quick profit and rapid growth, is best exemplified in the number of sales. Up to Wednesday evening, May 16, over $150,000 worth of property has been selected in Richmond Annex and payments made on the purchase price. When Richmond Annex is sold out then Richmond, Berkeley and Oakland will be one continuous city.

Those who are laying out the loop route hoping the Southern Pacific will take it up and divide the line, running past the State and Oil Works and through the northern oil section and down by the Pullman works, those who claim to know the inside of traffic matters here say the Southern Pacific is getting ready to put in the proposed loop.

W. P. Bonding of Michigan, who is looking for a site here for an extensive lubricating oil plant, is one of a number of Eastern manufacturers who have been studying the advantages of Richmond. With other bay cities, Richmond will doubtless acquire several new plants of more or less magnitude in the next few months. The manufacturing world is much more alive than heretofore in the fact that the Panama Canal will be opened by the middle of next year and that the entire bay region will then become one of the greatest manufacturing areas in the country.

CORNERSTONES SOON TO BE LAID

Appropriate Exercises for New $160,000 Schools at Richmond.

SAN LEANDRO, May 18.—Petitions were circulated here today by the San Leandro Good Government Club calling for special elections to raise the saloon license from $75 per quarter to $150 and to have all saloons within the corporate limits transparent windows and doors. The resolution also provides for the use of not less than forty square feet of transparent glass in front of each saloon and for the elimination of side and back rooms and the use of but one public entrance.

Attorney Harris P. Jones, called for election under the act providing for direct legislation by cities and towns, including initiative and referendum. A number of signatures had been secured in the city, which will be submitted tomorrow, when the required number of signatures have been secured, the documents will be filed with the board of city trustees that evening. Under the law the city officials will have no alternative but to call the election asked for.

CONTESTANTS ELECTION.

Though the club has not been in existence more than ten days and has not selected permanent officers, it has already won a name from the start through its efforts former Trustee L. J. Schreiber has filed an election contest and the fight to reinstate former City Marshal Gelsenhofer is being vigorously conducted.

The election will be held by the board of trustees who will be how to raise a sufficient sum to hold the elections demanded, which, under the present condition of the treasury, will be no easy task.

PAULIST MISSIONARY COMES.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—The Rev. James M. Gillis, the noted Paulist missionary of New York, will preach a special sermon at old St. Mary's Paulist Church, California Street, tomorrow. For the past five months Father Gillis has been giving a series of missions in this city and vicinity with splendid results, and the announcement that he is to preach at St. Mary's tomorrow night will no doubt attract a large congregation to hear this eminent preacher.

TO SPEAK ON FAITH.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—Rev. Charles L. Miel will deliver the fourth in his series of sermons "Concerning the Faith" tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock at Grace Pro-Cathedral, Sacramento and Taylor streets. His subject will be "Meters and Bounds of Faith."

HIGH RECORDS IN STOCKS REPORTED

(By THOMAS C. SHOTWELL.)
WALL STREET, NEW YORK, May 18.—Under leadership of the coalers stocks were buoyant today, several new high records being made. Lehigh Valley was the first to make a record, selling at 179 $\frac{1}{2}$ , which, making allowance for the coal sales stock recently given as a dividend is the highest price in the history of the company. Reading was close after with an advance of more than two points, putting the stock within about two points of the highest record figure. Steel was up a point as was Union Pacific.

Among the specialties Texas Oil continued its record breaking career, pulling up 112 $\frac{1}{2}$ . Brooklyn Rapid Transit made another high record when it crossed 90. United States Rubber advanced more than three points and Peoples Gas also showed a gain of three points. In every department of the market there was evidence of vitality and a disposition to move upward. There is a large short interest in all the standard stocks.

The action of today's market was not surprising because the break early in the week was without justification and the advance is merely a recovery from that break.

The advance is planned for the market is based on the condition of the greatest crops in the history of the country.

To this is added the fact that the steel trust is doing the greatest tonnage of business on record.

The copper metal market is strong, with a constantly growing demand in excess of the growth of production.

More millions of money are lying idle in America today than ever before, waiting for investment. Under these circumstances it will be impossible to prevent an advance of the stock market, even though all the doubting ones liquidate.

MASSES TO BE HELD AT ST. MARY'S CHURCH

Masses will be celebrated at St. Mary's Church, Seventh and Jefferson streets, today at 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11 a.m. At the 11 a.m. high mass the choir, under the direction of Prof. Adolf Gregory, will render Borromeo's Mass in F and at the offertory Elgar's "Ave Verum." Rev. Father Kennedy will preach the sermon.

In the evening at 7:45 o'clock there will be rosary for the deceased members of the parish, followed by a sermon by Rev. Father McGratian and the benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

WOMAN CHARGED WITH STEALING OF BUTTER

On the complaint of clerks in Anderson's grocery store at 517 Washington street, the police last evening arrested Mrs. S. Cohen on a charge of petty larceny. It is alleged that Mrs. Cohen attempted to steal two squares of butter. She was captured by Anderson and given into the custody of Patrolman Pullman. The woman has been released on $25 bail.

TO DISCUSS "FLATHEADS."

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—At the Howard Presbyterian Church, Oak and Baker streets, the pastor, Rev. William Nat Head, will speak in the morning on "Broken Day Dreams." The theme for the evening service will be "Flatheads."

REPORT OF CITY NURSES FILED BY COMMISSIONER

Commissioner of Public Health and Safety Fred C. Turner yesterday filed with the council the report of the work of the two city nurses, the Misses Schmitz and Cronan, for the month of April. The report shows that the two nurses have attended 104 patients during the month, making a total of 337 visits. Of these 30 have recovered under the care of the nurses, one has been sent to the hospital, 28 are improving and 44 are still under treatment.

SWEARS TO FORGERY.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—James S. McBride, of 130 Third street, swore to a warrant today charging R. B. Henderson with forgery. It is claimed that Henderson forged an endorsement on a check for $75. The endorse ment was a signature of the firm's name, William Wolf and Company.

HORSE DEAL BRINGS WOE.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—A warrant was sworn to today for the arrest of H. Cohen on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. His accuser is Herman Selegren of 760 McAllister street, who alleges that he was robbed by Cohen in a horse deal.
